Colorado is ahead of Utah in one thing at least. It appreciates the value of printers' ink and advertises itself to the world with no niggard hand. The latest proof of this is to be found in Frank Fossett's work, "Colorado. Its Gold and Silver Mines, Farms and Stock Ranges, and Health and Pleasure Resorts." It is a neatly bound work of 592 pages, finely illustrated with engravings and maps, and containing a vast fund of information on every point about the State likely to prove attractive to the public. By such means Colorado draws attention to its resourcess, swells its population; increases its capital and acquires rapid development. It is an excellent work, and is published by C. G. Crawford, Park Place, New York.
