

HAD LIVED HERE FOR FIFTY YEARS

Philip Pugsley, a Utah Pioneer,
Goes to His Reward.

DIED EARLY THIS MORNING

Was in His Eighty-Fifth Year and a
Highly Respected, Stearling Citizen—Funeral on Sunday.

Philip Pugsley, one of Utah's earliest settlers and a resident of Salt Lake for half a century, died at 6:35 this morning at his home, No. 1 Pugsley's court, of general debility. In his eighty-fifth year, the deceased was a highly respected citizen, and had a wide circle of friends who will regret his passing, despite his advanced age.

Philip Pugsley, the son of Philip Pugsley and Mary Baker, was born Dec. 18, 1835, in the parish of Wiltshire, Somersetshire, England. He joined the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints in Bristol in 1854, having been baptized by Elder George Halliday. He came to Utah in 1853, in the famous "Pioneer" company, and was first known among the early leather manufacturers of the state. In fact, there is scarcely any home enterprise which he has not been identified. He was a man of strong character and was noted for his honesty, industry and charity. He leaves surviving him two wives and nine children whose names are: Mrs. E. Pugsley, Mrs. H. J. Hayward, Mrs. J. A. Raleigh, Mrs. Ezra Thompson, Mrs. J. S. Barlow, Mrs. E. M. Barlow and Mrs. A. Beesley.

The funeral will take place at 4:15 p. m. Sunday, at the Twenty-second ward meetinghouse.

PAVING CONTRACTS.

Suggestion That Rebates for Dereliction
Should Be Figured Out.

A member of the board of public works calls attention to the recent contracts with the Alcatraz Paving company, which paved Second and Third South streets, and the City Street Improvement company, which paved South Temple street. In connection with these contracts there were provisions relative to deductions to be made in payment to the paving companies by the city for the work, in consequence of the failure of the companies to do their work within the times specified, and that again there were certain city delinquencies which rendered the city indebted to the paving companies. It is claimed that it would be the appropriate thing now to have the city auditor figure out just how much the companies are delinquent to the city corporation for failure to comply with the terms of the contracts, and just how much the city is indebted to the companies for the failures on its part to comply with its part of the contracts. This balance can be struck, and the exact amount due the city determined. Then the next step will be to figure out how these rebates are to be divided up among the contractors, or adjoining property owners, that each may have refunded to them their proportionate share of such rebates.

BARBER AND BOOTLACK

Indulge in a Lively Fight on Lower
Main Street at Noon Today.

At noon today there was a lively fight on lower Main street between Tony, proprietor of the St. Elmo barber shop, and the colored bootblack who has his stand in that vicinity. It appears that the trouble had been brewing since early morning when Tony's shop boy, name unknown, attempted to coerce the bootblack's customers. This aroused the latter's ire and he immediately demanded that the bootblack leave the premises. The bootblack refused to do so and the matter resulted in a fight which lasted until noon when the territorial artist took a stroll out for lunch, and was arrested by the colored bootblack who demanded to know after he was getting ready to go when he spoke to him. Tony answered by striking the bootblack with a monkey wrench, whereupon the latter returned the attack by hitting Tony with an uppercut and several other cuts to the face. Tony was taken to the hospital and the bootblack was released.

HELD UP, SHOT AND ROBBED

That is What Happened to Wm.
Major at Harrisville Station.

SUSPECTED MAN ARRESTED.

William Rolland Charged with Forgery—Thomas Irving in Trouble—
Kit of Tools Stolen.

(Special to the "News.")

Ogden, Aug. 7.—The railroads in the neighborhood of this city seem to be infested with murderous robbers, and a man was held up, shot and robbed at Harrisville station on the Oregon Short Line in this county this morning. The victim of the crime is William Major of Nevada, and the facts so far as learned are as follows:

Major was riding between two box cars on his way to Ogden. When the train stopped at Harrisville, he stepped out from between the cars, and was confronted by a hobo who commanded him to hold up his hands. Instead of obeying the order, the Nevada man struck the highwayman with his fist, knocking him down. The latter sprang to his feet and fired two shots at Major, one passing through the lower part of his left leg, the other taking effect in his thigh. The wounded man dropped and the other went through his pockets, securing a gold watch and chain, a small amount of money and a 38-caliber revolver. The trainman then struck the highwayman with his fist, and they fought for some time. Major lying on the ground in a pool of blood. They placed him in the train and brought him to Ogden, where he was taken to the general hospital and is being cared for by the hospital physician. The injuries are of a serious nature, but the doctor thinks no serious results will follow. It was learned that the hold-up had gone northward, and Deputy Sheriff DeLong took the first train for Corinne where he hoped to intercept him. Shortly after he left, however, a telephone message was received by Sheriff Butler from Brigham City, announcing that the hold-up man had been arrested at that place. The sheriff at once started for Brigham and will probably bring the prisoner back with him. The man arrested has no gun nor any of the property stolen, but the officers feel sure they have the person wanted.

CHARGED WITH FORGERY.

William Rolland was arrested by Officers Miner and Herrick last night on the charge of forgery. It is alleged that he had forged a check for $100.00 and had attempted to pass it at a store in the name of W. H. Clarks, a well known shop manager in Ogden. The man arrested is a young man, about 20 years of age, and is a native of the city.

THOMAS IRVING ARRESTED.

Thomas Irving, a cook at the Wile cafe, was arrested this morning on the charge of assault and battery at the instance of the chef of the cafe. Irving had quarreled with the chef, who had entered the kitchen and struck him with a knife.

NELSON A. MILES AS A SOLDIER

Notable Military Career Now Ending Under Age Limit.

HE WON FIRST SPURS.

A Glimpse of His Early Life—How
He Quickly Rose From a Store
Clerk to Commander.

Special Correspondence.

Washington, Aug. 3.—The horseback ride of Gen. Miles from Fort Sill to Fort Reno, a distance of 90 miles, in a little more than nine hours without apparent fatigue, crowns as an example of physical endurance and soldierly bearing a long and remarkable military career, now about to terminate under the age limit. It is doubted if many army officers much younger than Gen. Miles could have made this ride across the semiarid plains of Oklahoma in the heat of summer and dismounted at its end as fresh and smiling as he.

For a man of 54. For a man of his years, who is about to be retired from the service by reason of age, it was a remarkable feat. But to those who are acquainted with Gen. Miles and know his habits of life it was not surprising.

Whatever may be said about Gen. Miles and his record, it is certain that his friends or foes (and he has some of both) must admit that his record in the Indian wars is one of the most brilliant in the history of the United States army. In the Indian wars, Miles was a lieutenant at 21 until the close of his last campaign against the hostile Indians in the far west, where he was promoted to major.

Regarding his career since the close of the Indian wars, critics will differ, but none, I think, will attempt to impeach his courage or devotion to his country. In whose service the greater part of his life has been spent.

Gen. Miles comes of good fighting stock, his ancestors having been conspicuous in the Revolutionary war and the Mexican war, and he early developed the qualities of a soldier. He got his taste for battle young, when in the Indian wars, he was a lieutenant at 21 until the close of his last campaign against the hostile Indians in the far west, where he was promoted to major.

At the age of 17 he left his native place, Westminster, in Worcester county, Mass., and went to Boston, where he became a clerk in the grocery store of John Colman, one of Boston's old time merchants. The merchant's apparent success in Boston, in which he was born and where his boyhood was passed, and of his early military training, here he had his youthful companions, chasing imaginary redskins and Britishers with the vigor and persistence which characterized his career on many battlefields in later years.
