WAYLAIED BY WORKMAN.

William Seifert Has Rough Encounter With Footpad.

Ogden, Dec. 25.—While walking at the rear of the saloons on Twenty-fifth street near Grant avenue, William Seifert, a foreman at Lakeside on the Ogden-Lucan Cut-off, was knocked insensible Tuesday night and robbed of his money, $51, and a gold watch. Seifert had come to Ogden to spend his Christmas and was taking in some of the saloons. He had gone on to Electric avenue when he met one of the laborers under him, Jack Welsh, who immediately began to assault him. Seifert fought back and for a short time they had a genuine rough and tumble fight, making considerable noise, which attracted a woman who was near by and as she opened the door she saw the one man strike the other a heavy blow on the head and he fell to the ground. He then went through Seifert's pockets, taking all his money but $3. The woman called her husband. The police were notified and soon restored Seifert to consciousness. He had recognized his assailant as Welsh and gave the police a description of him, but it is supposed he must have immediately jumped a train and got out of town, as they could get no trace of him.

PEACE DISTURBER ARRESTED.
Alfred Humphries was placed under arrest Tuesday night by Detective Pender on the charge of disturbing the peace. According to the information given the officers Humphries entered a restaurant and ordered a meal. The waitress was rather attractive and Humphries tried to make love to her, which she resented, and he became angry and immediately started a disturbance. Two of the cooks came into the dining-room but soon retreated, as Humphries had a knife out. The cooks armed themselves with butcher knives and started after him, chasing him to the street, where the officer caught him and took him to the police station.
