RAILROAD KING WILL BUILD A CITY.

James J. Hill has decided to canonize himself and to perpetuate his name. As Peter the Great built the city of St. Petersburg so is James, the railroad king, to build the city of St. James.

A large tract of land has been bought at Gray's bay, 16 miles inside the mouth of the Columbia river, and the new city will soon be laid out by the Great Northern and Northern Pacific railroads. This new port, together with the North Bank railroad, which Mr. Hill is building down the Columbia, are to perpetuate his name and genius in western railroad construction.

WOMAN EXPLORER COMING HOME.

Mrs. Florence Tasker, a Philadelphia society favorite, is the first white woman to cross northern Labrador. Mrs. Tasker's journey to the frozen north was her honeymoon tour, she having married Stephen P. M. Tasker, a marine engineer in the United States navy. It was learned a few days ago that the Taskers had successfully accomplished their perilous jaunt and that they will shortly return home.

The contribution the Taskers are enabled to make to geographical knowledge through their explorations will, it is predicted, be the means of preventing future fatal expeditions like that of the unfortunate Leonidas Hubbard, who lost his life because a river did not flow according to his maps.

MISS LAURA D. PAYNE.

TEXAS WOMAN CANDIDATE FOR CONGRESS.

The campaign of Laura B. Payne, the Texas Socialist candidate for the national house of representatives, promises to assume a whirlwind character, and her success is giving anxiety to the managers in both the old parties in the Lone Star state.

Already the argument has been advanced that the Constitution of the United States bars a woman from Congress and the section is quoted which says "No person shall be a representative . . . who shall not, when elected, be an inhabitant of that state in which he shall be chosen."

The contention is made that the personal pronoun provides specifically that the representative shall be a male, and that if either sex was eligible the clause would read "he or she."

This has had very little effect, apparently, on the canvass of the woman candidate.
