SPECIAL SERVICES.

A special service will be held in the Tabernacle in this city on Sunday, August 24th, at 2 p.m., in honor of Elders W. S. Berry and John H. Gibbs, who were martyred when preaching the gospel of Jesus Christ. It is a movement known as the "Cane Creek" in Lewis County, Tennessee, on Sunday, August 10th, 1884. The people residing in Salt Lake Stake of Zion are invited to attend. The Bishops in the country settlements are requested to make arrangements for memorial services in their respective Wards at the same time, so that those who are unable to attend the general Stake meeting in the Tabernacle, may have an opportunity thus to manifest their love and respect for the martyred dead, their sympathy for the bereaved, and their aversion to the spirit of intolerance which seeks to suppress by force that religious liberty which is the right of all people in this free republic.

ARRIVAL OF THE BODIES IN UTAH.—DEMONSTRATIONS OF RESPECT ALONG THE LINE.—INFORMAL PROCESSION IN THE CITY.—OTHER INCIDENTS.

Notwithstanding it was not definitely ascertained in time to be widely circulated, that the bodies of the martyred Elders Gibbs and Berry, or one of these Elders, would be delivered this afternoon past five o'clock yesterday afternoon, the news spread far enough to attract a crowd of probably 4,000 people, including many of prominent citizens, to the vicinity of the D. & R. G. and Second South Streets, the Sixteenth Ward, the Fifteenth Ward, the Sixth Ward, and the Twenty-first Ward, had received word of the expected arrival, and were on hand with their instruments to furnish appropriate music for the occasion. They were stationed at different points on or near the platform, which was thronged by the people from end to end, while a multitude of others, a number filled vehicles and stood at a little distance from the buildings.

The train was fifteen of twenty minutes late, and during the time of waiting for it, the Sixth Ward and Firemen's band engaged in several places.

At about 25 minutes past 5 o'clock the engine of the approaching train came in sight, and the Firemen's Band struck up the funeral march, "All Done," which had not concluded when the cars stopped opposite the platform. The baggage car containing the bodies with the coffin and remains of Elder John H. Gibbs, was draped with black sashes, and on the train were Elders John Morgan, H. S. Beattie, Jr., James M. Barlow, Rudger Clawson, Willard Burton, Chas. S. Brattin, Jesse M. Smith, George F. Gibbs, and others who went south on the D. & R. G. express at 11 o'clock yesterday morning to meet the remains.

Pursuivably being obtainable, it was sent from the car to save the present the opportunity of viewing it, the box was lifted upon a large truck and wheeled into the centre of the platform. The Presidency of the Stake stood at the head of the enclosed cortege—the body not being visible—and the people filed by either side, three or four abreast, until all who wished to do so had obtained a glimpse of it. While this was being done, the Firemen's band played "Rock in Peace," and the Sixteenth Ward Band, at the close, took up the dirge with the "Dead March in Saul." Many an eye glistened with tears, it could not suppress, and many a mournful and tender thought swept through the minds of the multitude, as men, women and children, the old, the young and the middle-aged passed with solemn steps and uncovered heads.

The casket was now lifted back into the car, accompanied by Elders Joseph H. Parry and Jesse M. Smith, who were appointed to take charge of it to its destination—Paradise, Cache County; also by Elder G. F. Gibbs, brother of the deceased, and by the committee from Ogden. Elders William H. Wright, William Critchlow and Peter Anderson, who had come down to meet the body, as a part of the demonstration to be held at the Ogden depot on its arrival there. The time for departure being at hand, the conductor gave the word and the train, after having made a stay of about 15 minutes, continued its way northward.

An improvised procession was now formed towards the centre of the city. Carriages containing the Presidency of the Stake, President Joseph F. Smith, President Wilford Woodruff, Apostle F. D. Richards and others Elders took the lead, and were followed by the Sixteenth Ward Band on foot and then by a concourse of vehicles. The Firemen's band wagon heavily draped in black, with the stars and stripes, furled, surmounting it, came in from the east to the Gardo House where the head of the procession halted.

President A. M. Cannon addressed a few words of thanks to the band for their services, and all who had manifested respect and confidence in the occasions, and the concourse then broke up. The flag at the City Hall was half mast with a pennant of悲哀 during the proceedings.

President William Paxman, of Juab Stake, was in Salt Lake yesterday on business.

Dr. Emma Atkin, of Toole, the rough-and-ready member of the medical profession in our community, has exchanged the bustle of Toole for the quietude of Salt Lake for a day or two.

Mr. J. W. Clawson, the artist, is home from New York, having completed his studies in that city.

THE MARTYRED ELDER.

murder of his brethren; and that they were then guarding the road. They were, he supposes, expecting the arrival of Elder Roberts after the bodies, and were waiting to kill him should he appear.

He passed on to the house of Conder, where the massacre occurred, and there made himself known to Mr. Conder, from whom he learned that details of his act, which are well known to the public.

Judge C. E. Clegg and Mr. L. E. Farbould are members among the survivors in State meetings.

A proposition to form a stock company to buy the State, M. T. Radin Park and establish the grounds and buildings as an annual racing, agricultural, mining and manufacturing exhibition is being considered by the business men of that burgh.

Hon. Chas. Crocker of the Central Pacific passed through Ogden night before last and was interviewed by a citizen's committee regarding the new Union Depot there. He spoke in a way to encourage the Ogdenites and declared the statement untrue that the Lake was intended to make Salt Lake instead of Ogden.

A week after the assassination the bodies were recovered by Elder B. H. Roberts, who went in disguise, to the Conder farm for that purpose. They had been buried the day following the killing (Monday) by members of the Church in that vicinity. Elder Roberts was assisted by Brothers Church, Coleman and another.

On the second night he returned to the scene and while intending to take the direct road, the party got lost for the time being, and thus providentially missed a mob which was going in search of the murderer who was still at large.

The excitement is quieting down a little in Tennessee, but the Elders have been instructed to move away from the parts where outrages have been committed, and await further instructions. That the spirit of murder and cruelty is still abroad, the following telegram received by President John Morgan, fully attests:

CHATTANOOGA, Aug. 22, 1884.
Post, John Morgan.

Matters more quiet. Mobbing has been put down in Marion County, State. Elder J. J. Miller, of Ogden City, was whipped on the fifth last.

B. H. ROBERTS.

Pursuant to arrangement, memorial services in honor of the martyred Elders, will be held at the Tabernacle this city, and all over the Territory, at 9 o'clock to-morrow afternoon, the hour at which services over the remains will take place at Kanarr and Paradise.
