New York, June 1 .- A dispatch to the Journal and Advertiser from Londo says: The delegates of the New York chamber of commerce will meet all together tomorrow (Saturday) for the first time since their arrival. They go to Windsor castle at King Edward's The king's conduct in connection with the visit has been most unexplainable. The fact of the delegates coming was brought to his majesty's notice by Lord Avebury some two months ago and he at once expressed himself as pleased and spontaneously offered to receive them. A few weeks ago, however, he begged to be excused from seeing them but intimated that they would be come to inspect Windsor castle. Up to Thurs lay it was the king's intention to return from a short stay at Windsor to London but now he has decided to give an audience to the New York delegates and as he could do so more privately at Windsor, he caused an official re port to be issued that the court would not come to the metropolls until next week. Invitations marked "Strictly fidential" were hurriedly sent to all delegates, but Messrs, Carnegie, Sc ren and one or two others, having made other arrangements, will not attend. The official reason given for the king cial reason given for the king cancelling the reception in the first in stance was on account of the royal mourning and this reason is also given for the wives of delogates not being vited and for the king's command that nothing in the reception shall appear in the Official Gazette. ### SURPRISE IN HAVANA.

Havana, May 31.-The decision of the ted States government not to ac st the Cuban constitution as adoptby the Havana convention, caused reat surprise and keen disappointment a those members of that convention to voted in favor of the constitution

Two leading conservatives, who were interviewed tonight on the subject, said in substance that they had reason to believe that the convention's action would be acceptable to Washington. and that otherwise they would not ave voted for the majority report as submitted. They also pointed out that is order to avoid a possibility of reection the majority report had been hanged at the last moment by strikout the interpretation at the end f the clauses and putting these in the form of a resolution by themselves, thus accepting the Platt amendment as passed by Congress.

"It is true." said one of the conservatives in question, "that the commitbe interpretations of the explanations of the Teller resolution, which were offered by Gov.-Gen. Wood and Secy. toot, together with the Washington poses. commission's report, were included with the Platt amendment as an appendix to the constitution; but when we voted on the report, it was with but purnose in view-to accept the Platt amendment.

Both delegates expressed regret that a misunderstanding had arisen, and said they doubted that the convention reconsider its action, as the fight had been hot, the victory had been won by only one vote; and those who had tried to do their duty toward untry had been bitterly assailed as traitors and perjurers.
