Capital Comfort.

Washington, D. C.—Mrs. Mary K. Sheed, 1110 Maryland avenue, Washington, D. C., states that for several years she had suffered terribly with facial neuralgia and could find no relief. In a recent attack which extended to the neck, shoulders and back, the pain was intense. She resolved to try St. Jacobs Oil, the great pain-reliever. Rubbing the parts affected three times only, all pain vanished as if by magic, and has not returned.

In no other medicinal preparation have the results of the most intelligent study and scientific inquiry been so steadily and progressively utilized as in Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It leads the list as a truly scientific preparation for all blood diseases.

OBITUARY.

Benjamin Franklin Stewart, who was killed by lightning at Benjamin, Utah Co., U. T., June 22d, was the 9th child of Philander B. and Sarah Scott Stewart. He was born October 22d, 1817, in Jackson Township, Monroe County, Ohio; migrated to Illinois with his father's family when 11 years of age. September 14th, 1837, he married Polly Richardson and soon after moved into VanBuren Co., State of Iowa, when he received the Gospel February 26th, 1844, and was the same day ordained an Elder. Removed with other exiles to Keg Creek, was ordained a Seventy by President Joseph Young April 6th, 1847. Soon after this latter event he started with the Pioneers to hunt a refuge for the fleeing Saints.

He was one of seven men left out of the Pioneer company at Platé River, in the midst of an Indian country to ferry over the families of the Saints who followed that season. He arrived in Salt Lake City September 27th, 1847, and has ever since been an active laborer in building up the Zion of the Lord in the tops of the mountains.

November 23, 1849, he started in company with Apostle Parley P. Pratt and about forty-eight others, with ox teams, to explore the southern part of Utah. On this trip he necessarily encountered many hardships and privations but was never heard to complain.

In March, 1851, he removed to Payson, where he made a permanent home, and where he was recognized as a leading spirit religiously, politically and temporarily.

In 1858 he was set apart as one of the seven Presidents of the 46th Quorum of Seventies, which position he occupied at the time of his death.

April 27, 1862, he was set apart as Second Counselor to Bishop John B. Fairbanks, of Payson Ward, which position he filled creditably until August, 1871, when a reorganization of the ward took place in consequence of the absence of the Bishop on a mission to England.

At a municipal election held February 9, 1863, Brother Stewart was elected mayor of Payson City, and served in that office for two terms of two years each.

In October, 1869, he was sent on a mission to the Western States, upon which he was absent several months doing good service. In 1862, he, with his brother Andrew Jackson Stewart and others, laid the foundation for a town three miles north of Payson, which was named Benjamin in his honor, thus fulfilling a prophecy that was made concerning him by Patriarch John Smith, when he gave him a patriarchal blessing in the year 1847. At this place he located his two wives, all his sons, and nearly all his daughters, and in 1871 he was appointed to preside over the branch thus built up mainly through his instrumentality. This position he also occupied at the time of his death.

The funeral services were conducted under the shade of a fine grove of trees that had been set out by Brother Stewart's own hands some years ago, and were conducted by Bishop Tanner of Payson. The Payson choir was present and led the singing. The speakers were Elder Henry G. Boyle, Isaiah M. Coombs and David Lant. The body was interred in the Benjamin cemetery, the site for which had been selected by Brother Stewart, and was followed to its last resting place by a cortege of 62 wagons and carriages containing three or four hundred persons. The grave was dedicated by Elder Worsenroft, of Payson.

She was a firm and consistent member of the Church; and was sensible to the last, making such disposal of her private property as she thought best, and requested that the hymn on page 318 of the Church hymn book, be sung at her funeral, as she was particularly impressed with the last line of the first verse. "Receive me dear Savior in glory my home." A short time previous to her death, the Elders in administering to her, did not speak loud enough for her, and she requested that they "speak up," that she might hear the blessings they pronounced upon her.—[Com.]

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

Possesses the greatest possible power to heal and control affections of the throat and lungs, with absolute safety for children or adults. The experience of years has proven it to be of inestimable value as a household medicine, and for professional use. Thousands of physicians and families testify to its great worth. Jas. E. Moling, M.D., liard, Ohio, writes: "I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in my family for twenty years, and have found that, as a remedy for Coughs, Colds, or Sore Throats, it

Is Unequaled.

J. I. Miller, editor of the "Lutheran Home," Luray, Va., writes: "I advertise nothing that I do not know to be good. I was saved from the grave, I am sure, by the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and have recommended it to others with the happiest results." L. J. Addison, M. D., Chicago, Ill., writes: "I have never found, in thirty-five years of continuous study and practice in medicine, any preparation of so great value as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, for treatment of diseases of the throat and lungs; and I constantly recommend it to my patients. It not only breaks up colds and cures severe coughs, but is effective in relieving the most serious bronchial and pulmonary affections."

John J. Uhlman, Brooklyn, N.S., writes: "Twelve years ago, I was afflicted with a severe bronchial trouble, pronounced by a skillful physician to be very dangerous and liable to terminate in Pneumonia. After using one bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, I found great relief, and an occasional use of it since that time has, I think, extended my life ten years at least." Mrs. V. M. Thebaud, Montreal, Canada, writes: "Last spring my daughter was attacked by membranous croup, or diphtheria. The doctor prescribed Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, which cured her of the diphtheria. Being still very weak and sick, she began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which restored her to vigorous health."
