Ran a Gambling Joint in Connection With Horse Racing for a Number of Years,

Jack Wren, whose Australian champion Bill Squires, is on his way to the coast in quest of the puglistic championship of the world, began life on Johnson street. Collingwood, as a hair dresser and tobacconist. Collingwood is a suburb of Melbourne, 15 minutes' journey from the city by cable car. At that time, perhaps 15 years ago, the totalizator system of booknaking was rampant, and a by word emong good sports, who were more or less beaten out of their money every time if not by the horse then by the tote time if not by the horse then by the tote proprietor. Wren commenced in a small way, se-cretly and silently smong his friends-and then word began to go round that an "honest tote" was running out at Col-lingwood. His business grew apace. His gain was always 10 per cent of the gross receipts, the balance was pooled and di-vided between first, second and third horses in ratio propertions. Wren rose above fils competitors in that when holding his clients' money the temp-tation to get away with the whole amount (sometimes 5,00) instead of taking his is per cent, never assailed him. It was a matter of very few months when the "to-baccoust and hairdresser" business was one in hame only and later it ended its feathery existence entirely for its pur-pose from the beginning was a blind to the police and plain-clothes detectives. PURCHASES LARGE PROPERTIES. PURCHASES LARGE PROPERTIES.

Wren's next move toward the perma-nent organization of the illegal totaliza-tor was one which attracted notice. He first bought the shop in which he had lo-cated and then set agents afoot to pur-chase the whole of those properties sur-rounding it. The deal was eventually successful and Jack Wren became the owner of an entire block of stores and tenement bouses.

successful and Jack Wren became in owner of an entire block of stores and tenement houses. Preparations were then forwarded to-ward the construction of a police-proof totalizator, and the work was carried out quietly and without display. The mai neutrance was on Johnston street, and through the premises of a woodyard. The owner of this one-time yard, which never carried above $2 worth of stock, was a paid employe of Wren's and clients of the "tote" had first to pass this man before necess could be gained. The plans, when completed, provided a large caye-like structure in the center of the yords abuiting on the middle of the block. The yards of the tenement houses and stores had been curtailed and the fences removed, thus giving a large open space in the center, in which the cage was erected. This cage was 100 feet in length and built of iron bars, with pas-sageways connecting with the four streets. Men robed in black from head to foot and wearing masks and gloves were stationed within the cage to receive the bette made. When money was handed in the amount s made. When money was handed in the amount is entered against the horse on which bet was made upon a large black-ard inside the cage and visible to all, o word was ever spoken by the assist-ts. Silence reigned. Bettors received a ket bearing the amount paid in and a name of the horse. Telephone connec-a declared the winner and placed horses d the winnings were immediately paid i.

Moet Demands. The rush of the shipping season in au-tomobile factories is now in full swing. Thousands of men are working day and inght, making a superhuman effort to meet the great demand for motor cars. Many of the factories find themselves overrun with orders for immediate ship-ment, and for lack of ability to meet the demands placed upon them are losing or-ders. Others being more fortunate are able to cope with conditions, showing that their early claims for prompt ship-ment have not been exaggerated. This is the case with the H. H. Frankin Manu-facturing company, who are shipping sev-enty-two cars a week, a large percentage of which is the Type D, with a consider-able number of the 6-cylinder cars, sim-ilar in construction to the trans-continen-tal car and the Chicago-New York recand the winnings were immédiafely paid out. The person desiring to enter, having sat-issied the scrutiny of Adams, the wood-yard man and sentinel, entered the wood-yard. A bell was rung and a stout gate built of 6-inch lumber opened and the en-trant was admitted one step further. Here he had to undergo a second scruginy and was then passed on through a similar gate into the scene of operations, where he could now bet at will. Immediately an alarm was given, bells connecting with the cage and yard were rung the gates securely fastened and the prenises left in charge of a buildog. If the alarm came from the south, exit was obtained by the proprietors on the north, east and west, and vice versa, so that when the police arrived the place was empty and all evidence of unlawful oper-ations obliterated. CROSSES AMERICA TO BUY AN AUTO. BLOOD PO CURE YOURSELF AT HOME

Most persons who are afflicted with Contagious Blood Poison hesitate to go to a physician for several reasons. In the first place the expense is heavy, and they know that the inevitable treatment will be mercury and potash, strong minerals that act with disastrons effects on the delicate parts of the system, and which do not, after all, really cure the disease. What they want is a safe, reliable treatment that can be taken at home and a perfect cure made of this loathsome disorder without unnecessary exposure or expense. Such a remedy is S. S. S.-it is the only medicine that goes down to the very bottom of the trouble and drives out the last trace of the poison so that there are never any signs of its return. It does not contain a particle of mineral in any form, and after removing the disease from the circulation builds up every part of the system by its fine vegetable tonic properties. S. S.
