EVENING NEWS

Thursday, - - August 2, 1877.

PROVO CITY.

PROVO CITY, Utah,
July 10th, 1877.

When the tourist has visited Salt Lake City and Ogden he generally leaves Utah, satisfied that there is no other point or feature worth investigating. It is a mistake. He has seen much of industry, enterprise, wealth, grandeur and power, but there remain more towns of beauty and importance than he can count upon the digits of both hands; there are valleys prolific of agricultural products, green and fragrant with luxurious foliage; there are mines whose wealth is wonderful; there are railroads, factories, warehouses, churches and schools. In fact, every element of progressive civilization is developed to a surprising extent. There is not within all the territory belonging to the United States such another commonwealth as Utah. Surrounding it on all sides is a barren country dependent mainly upon its mineral deposits for maintenance. It is, in fact, though traversed by the Wasatch mountains, in the centre of the "Great American Desert," a vast plain of sand, alkali, sage brush and cactus, all patent obstacles in the path of progress. Yet a few enterprising and determined people, condemned to exile in the wilderness, cleared the lands, cultivated them, planted trees, vineyards, orchards, made pastures, built homes, raised cattle, sheep and horses, created commerce, and now the whole region is an elysian conservatory, and teems with commercial activity. Persecuted and driven from their erstwhile homes and made to be self-sustaining in a land where animal life was scarcely extant, they plodded along without seeking or accepting aid, until, as a just reward for their earnest efforts, they have the most picturesque and prosperous Territory in the West. Take for instance this characteristic little city of Provo. It is built in a charming locality at the base of the highest Wasatch peaks, and through it runs a mountain stream which furnishes a splendid water power for factories, besides beautifying the city. It is really a pretty place as you view it from the Utah Southern Railroad, by which you enter it. The fruit orchards and grain fields round about it are laden with rich harvests and contrast strikingly with the stupendous snow-capped mountains crowning the valley. Nestled close under the almost perpendicular walls are clusters of buildings surrounded by shade trees and gardens. There are churches, schools, stores and factories. Provo ought to grow. It is a delightful place to reside, and besides it has a number of natural resources. It is within a few miles of the coal fields that are just now creating such wide-spread interest. The Utah Southern Railroad is opening up a mining region hitherto undeveloped that will yield richly of iron, silver and lead. The central portion of the Territory is becoming so thickly populated that the demand for greater commercial facilities is apparent, although at present the Zion Co-operative Mercantile Institution, established as an auxiliary to the Mormon Church and operated on the principle of mutual benefit, has large warehouses well supplied with all manner of merchandise; $50,000 worth of goods per year are sold. Other stores do active trading in all branches of business. It would surprise our Eastern readers who are not familiar with the character of this remote region and of its people to see in a town of only a few years growth a massive stone building four stories high, with two large additions of two stories each, devoted to the manufacture of woolen goods, such as flannels, jeans, blankets, cassemeres and linseys. Yet such an institution is here, and it looms up with all the stateliness, and its operation is attended with all the rattle and noise of the Lowell mills. It produces over $200,000 worth of goods per year, most of them consumed within the Territory. It is the property of the Provo Manufacturing Co., who also ship immense quantities of wool into the Chicago and other eastern markets. It is a safe assertion that Provo now relies principally upon the agricultural resources of Millard, Beaver, Kane and other adjacent counties. It is at the focus of the heaviest peach producing region of the West, besides having quantities of all varieties of fruit. It is an excellent locality to can and dry fruits, and we predict that this interest will of necessity become one of Provo's greatest sources of prosperity.

HIGHEST HONORS

AT THE

UNITED STATES CentennialL World Exhibition, 1876.

MASON & HAMLIN CABINET ORGANS

Unanimously assigned the

"FIRST RANK

IN THE

"SEVERAL REQUISITES"

of such Instruments!

The MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN CO. have the honor to announce that the Organs of their manufacture have been unanimously assigned "the FIRST RANK in the SEVERAL REQUISITES of instruments of the class" by the Judges at the CENTENNIAL EXHIBITION at Philadelphia, 1876, and are the ONLY INSTRUMENTS OF THIS GENERAL CLASS AWARDED THIS RANK. This is after the severest competition by the best makers, before one of the most competent juries ever assembled.

They have also received the MEDAL, but, as is well known, medals of equal merit have been awarded all articles deemed worthy of recognition; so this it will be easy for many makers to advertise that they have received "first medals."

The differences in competing articles, and their comparative excellence, are recognized in the Reports of the Judges from which the following is an extract:—

"THE MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN CO.'S exhibit of Reed Organs and Harmoniums shows instruments of the FIRST RANK IN THE SEVERAL REQUISITES OF INSTRUMENTS OF THE CLASS, viz: Smoothness and equal distribution of tone, scope of expression, resonance and singing quality, freedom and quickness in action of keys and bellows, with thoroughness of workmanship, combined with simplicity of action."

(Signed by all the Judges.)

The Mason and Hamlin Organs are thus declared to rank first, not in one or two respects only, but in the SEVERAL REQUISITES of such instruments, and they are the Only ones assigned this rank. This triumph was not unexpected, for the Mason & Hamlin Cabinet Organs have uniformly been awarded the highest honors in competitions in America, there having been scarcely six exceptions in hundreds of competitions. They were awarded highest honors and

FIRST MEDALS

PARIS, 1867; VIENNA, 1873; SANTIAGO, 1875

PHILADELPHIA, 1876;

and have thus been awarded highest honors at Every World's Exposition!

at which they have been exhibited; being the Only American Organs which have ever obtained Any Award at any competition with best European makers, or in any European World's Exposition!

NEW STYLES, with improvements, exhibited at the CENTENNIAL; elegant new cases in great variety. Prices very lowest consistent with best material and workmanship. Organs sold for cash on installments, or rented until rent pays. Every Organ warranted to give entire satisfaction to every reasonable purchaser or THE MONEY REFUNDED. ☞ ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUES sent free.
