ACQUIRE KNOWLEDGE.

With its forty year SCHOOLS IN TURKEY. of unexampled success in the cure of Blood Diseases, you HOW YOUNG MOSLEMS ARE TAUGHT TO can make no mis take in preferring

If the stranger in a Moslem country in passing through the streets is attracted by a noise for which he can not satisfactorily account toward the building in which the school is held, he will, on looking in, probably see a long and narrow rocm, at one end of which is seated a man with a long beard (schoolmasters retain their beards even when whiskers only are sanctioned by general usage), while the sides are lined with little boys of various ages squated upon their heels on the floor, which is generally covered with a thick mat, in addition to which those parents who can afford it provide their sons with a bit of carrier or fait in Powele or with bit of carpet or felt in Persia, or with Ayer's Sarsaparilla far excel those of a cushion in Torkey, to place between them and the mat. Some of the older boys go so far as to obtain a cushion to introduce between their backs and the wall, but this luxury is rather discountenanced by the masters as an encroachment on their own peculiar dignities. All the boys have their heads covered, but they are without their shoes, which are left near the door, so mingled and so similar in shape and color that it would seem difficult for each to find his own; but on the breaking up everyone seems to slip his feet into his own shoes with-out any of that individual hesitation or general confusion which might be > ludicrous to a European, particularly as the zeal of the learner is estimated by the londness of his voice and the violence of his see-saw; and hence, when conscious of the approach of a person whom the master or pupils wish to impress with a favorable opinion of their application and progress, the noise in the schoolroom, which may previously have suck iuto a low hum, rises abruptly to the amorous uproar of many voices. I scems that in reading all at once to the naster, the elder boys in the school at large are expected to give some atten-tion to the others near them. The master can not, in such a noise, dis-tinguish the individual accuracy of each reader, and his attention is therefore directed to observe that time is as wites the boys are learning their

nearly as may be kept by the voices, and, in some measure, in the motions also of the tupits. This object seems but poorly attained. This style of reading is most unnatural. It is a drawling chant, uttered in a very loud voice. In the East generally the tone of the voice is very high, even in common conversation, but in reading it is raised o screaming. Some Arabs desired a riend of mine to let them hear bim read, writes a correspondent of the London Standard. He complied, on which they exclaimed: "You are not reading, you are talking!" The fact, however, is that except among those of the learned professions, few of those who have professedly learned to those who have professedly learned to read in the schools can or do exercise the acquirement in after life; and the lew wao do remain actually qualifie to read with facility, rarely do so with-out some stimulas incomparably stronger than would be required in this or, pernaps, any European country. After a residence of several years among Mohammedan people, I do not recollect more than three instances in which I have seen persons quietly engaged in reading a book to themselves : all the actions of their ordinary life are much more exposed to puoile no-tice than can well be imagined in this These facts are easily explained. Books are expensive articles of luxury in Mohammedan countries, and this is slone sufficient to account for much that we have stated. Before the introduction of the art of printing the state of knowledge among the people was not more favorable in this country than it is in Persia now. There is also another less obvious circumstance which would have great influence even were the manuscript books more com-mon and cheap than they are. Tols is the difficulty of reading manuscript. I'ms difficulty should not be underrated. Even in this country most educated persons would require considerable stimulus to induce them to go through a manuscript volume. l'aose only waose daty it is to examine manuscripts and to propare them for the press can describe the tediousness of the operation. It is not one of the least advantages of printing that it has tended to simplify the character employed in the preparation of books and in render it statement.

and to render it uniform. This comour meaning, for our manuscripts are ar more legible to us than those of the East are to an Oriental. Among ourselves many persons who can write shorthand with factilty are unable to read it with ease; an Oriental manuscript is a sort of shorthand which many more persons are able to write than read. The words are ab-breviated, as in shorthand by the omission of yoweis, and when the words are deciphered the want of pinctuation lenders it often difficult t discover at once the meaning of the phrases. When to this it is added that there are several different styles of writing, besides the oiff reace oc casioned in the several manuscripts by the variety of individual hands and deutisher, it will be perceived that a person can not read with facility with out more practice than the state of iterature and knowledge encourages any considerable number of students to seek oragenables them to obtain.

A stranger is very liable to be deceived in estimating the competency of a Monammedan to read. A very large part of common education consists in learning by hea ta considerable portion of current literature, par-ticularly of the Koran. He is, therefore, able to repeat by rote the most striking passages of almost any of the very limited number of books which are likely to be placed before him. He will turn over its leaves until he can find some passage with which he is acquainted, and will repeat it cor rectly as if from the book; but, if suddenly interrupted, he is afterward quite unable to indicate the part of the page at which the interruption took place.

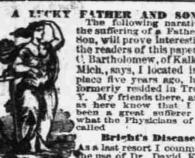

Wouldn't Lie for Forty Cents.

A number of members from tee House of Representatives have stolen away at various times an i for short periods from their congressional duties. Most of them have enjoyed duties. Most of them have enjoyed themselves, but none to a greater extent than did Wade, of Missouri, L'ud, of Minoesota, and Sawyer, of New York. They invaded the State of Maryland and studied the unsophisticated natives until they got tired. The last place at which they made any stay was Leonardtown. From there they intended coming to the capital by boat, but that semi-occasional craft having departed, they were compelled to travel by rall. The train was started with a pinchbar and proceeded at a very deliberate gait. Occasionally the conductor would get off and gather a few peaches with which he would treat the passengers. After the train had been crawling along for an hour, and had covered at least six miles, the conductor col-

at least six miles, the conductor col-lected the fares, which, for the con-gressional crowd, amounted to 86 cents each. When he reached Colonel Wade, that genial "taid knobber" re-marked in his innocent way: "Do you charge preachers full fare on this road?" "No, sir," was the conductor's re-p'y. "We only charge them half rates. Are you a preacher?" he added, look-ing squarely at the colonel's Methodist

MATTERS OF INTEREST

Gardeners and Farmers. YUY NORTHERN-GROWN SEEDS. WE ARE THE PRODUCERS OF seed sold by us. They are the best in the world. They are the best for all climates. They are earlier, more hardy, vigorous and productive than those grown in lower sititudes. We keep a large stock of fresh seed and believe hat we can give you satisfaction. We unhesitatingly affirm that no better seeds than those we deal in CAN BE PROCURED. Bestowing such assiduous are upon them, we feel justified in saying our seeds are UNSURPASSED in purity and quality. We do not pretend 'o be the "only house in the west selling NORTHERN-GROWN SEEDS," but we do claim that we have the very best seed NORTHERN-GROWN SEEDS. Dut we do claim that we have the very best seed to be had anywhere; and that has not been all over the country, for several years, in commission boxes, as we do not send out any commission boxes at all, as so many do. Ask your home merchant for our Northern-grown Seeds that Pricks are as low as reliable stocks can be sold at and afford a fair-renumeration for the expense and labor attending the proper conduct of the see business. We ask a trial order from all who have not used our seeds. Write for circulars. Address all correspondence to the UTAH NURSERY CO., General Western Agency, Salt Lake City, Utah.
