CRITICAL ANALYSIS.

UNIVERSITY OF DESERET,
Salt Lake City, June 8th, 1887.

By carefully examining DeLand's Chemical Baking Powder with the microscope and with chemical reagents, I find that it is free from Alum, Starch, Flour, Bone Ash, Ammonia and White Earth; and that it consists essentially of Cream of Tartar and Bi-carbonate of Soda.

The Baking Powder examined I purchased at Barnes & Davis, in this city.

J. T. KINGSBURY, Chemist.

MANUFACTURERS, CHEMISTS, GOVERNMENTS, PRINCIPALITIES OR POWERS are unable to disprove the Statement on every can of Deland's Chemical Baking Powder "Made of Pure Grape Cream Tartar and Bi-Carb. Soda only. No filling whatever."

CAUTION—Use one fourth less of this Baking Powder, and one half less shortening with all recipes than with other brands. d

$1 000 REWARD for any medicine in the world that will cure as bad a case of Itching, Ulcerated and Bleeding Piles as will one fifty-cent box of Dr. Emall's Magic Balm or Healing Ointment. It acts as a soothing lubricator, absorbs the tumors and allays the intense itching at once as nothing else will. No pile cure ever acquired so large a sale in so short a time. Sold at every drug store, or sent by mail. Address Zion's Co-operative Mercantile Institution, Salt Lake City, or Cleveland, Ohio, January 21, 1887—Send me five gross Emall's Magic Balm soon as possible. This will make nearly one hundred and fifty dozen I have bought since July 15, 1884. I now sell more of your Balm, or Ointment at retail over my counter than of all other balms and ointments combined. It sells better than any medicine I have in my store.—S. P. THE LAST OF EARTH.

Death—is it Death?
The shadow following still upon the sun,
The one same end of all things yet begun,
After the glory of Life the sudden gloom,
After the strife the inexorable doom,
The frozen breath?

Nay, rather see
Where the new grave lies sodden in the rain,
How the bare earth quickens to growth again!
Waiting the wonder season's lavish dower
Young rootlets creep, a wealth of grass and flower
Ere long to be.

When Death has passed
Into the land of silence and of cloud,
The leafless land, wherein no bird is loud,
Life lingers yet with song and blossom rife
Lo! step for step go ever Death and Life,—
But Life is last!

—Kate Putnam Osgood, in The American Magazine for October.

IN THE NEIGHBORHOOD.

News Notes Gathered from Various Sources.

Holden, Mo., Sept. 26.—At 2:30 this morning a fearful accident occurred on the switch north of Blunm elevator by which two persons lost their lives. The special excursion train of eight coaches carrying the veteran firemen on their return home from their recent visit at San Francisco was passing eastward at a rapid speed when it ran on a switch that had been left open through carelessness, and the train then collided with a freight train standing on the side track waiting for the excursion to pass. The freight engine and tender were completely demolished and the passenger engine, tender and baggage car were badly wrecked. James Reed and William Ramsey, two negroes living at Warrensburg, who were beating their way home from Kansas City on the front end of the baggage car, were instantly killed. Their bodies were horribly mangled, almost beyond recognition. The veteran firemen showed the skill and experience of experts in gathering up the remains of the bodies and in restoring order in the chaos of the wreck. Several of the regular passengers were bruised and slightly injured.

Fort Collins, Colo., Sept. 26.—On Sunday morning, August 7th last, an altercation occurred between George B. Martin and a fellow laborer employed on Ferguson and Hailet's ranch about three miles west of Berthoud, which resulted in the killing of W. T. Grerustrert by Martin. The previous evening Martin and his victim had some words, or rather Martin quarreled with two or three of the employes on the ranch, among whom was Grerustrert, but the quarrel did not amount to anything but some hot words and was supposed by all to be a thing of the past. The next morning before breakfast the quarrel was resumed, and Martin becoming enraged, drew his revolver and fired at one of the men with whom he had been exchanging some hot words. The ball passed through the man's shirt, grazing the skin on his breast and took effect in Grerustrert, who was standing in the doorway. The ball passed through the body of Grerustrert diagonally, inflicting a mortal wound, from which the victim died inside of a couple of hours. Five or six men were employed on the ranch at the time, and yet Martin was permitted to quietly pack his valise, arm himself and bid good bye to his victim, telling him that the bullet was not intended for him and he was sorry it had missed the man for whom it was intended and hit him, but it could not be helped now. Sheriff Love was notified by wire and at once repaired to the scene of the tragedy, but was obliged to return to Loveland to obtain horses for himself and deputies to search for the offender, and in consequence was about twelve hours behind him in starting. The sheriff was unsuccessful in coming up with Martin or obtaining any clue that would offer much encouragement, so he returned to the ranch and succeeded in finding there and at Longmont enough about the previous life of Martin to work up a system of pursuit by offering a reward and sending photographs of the offender over the country, not neglecting Martin's old home in Iowa and Fairfield, Jefferson county. Wednesday morning last Sheriff Love received a message from the sheriff of Jefferson County saying that he had Martin in jail there. Sheriff Love wired him that he would at at once start for Fairfield with a requisition from the Governor of Colorado, which he obtained from Governor Adams as he passed through Denver, Thursday morning, arriving back home safe with his prisoner to-day on the noon train. The coroner's inquest held on the remains of Grerustrert the day of the shooting returned a verdict that he came to his death from a gunshot wound inflicted by George Martin with felonious intent.—Denver News.

A Singular Cyclone.

Just as the sun crossed the meridian to-day, says the Laramie (Wyo.) Boomerang of the 23rd, those who were looking out over the plains saw a cloud of dust suddenly rise where the air was clear a moment before, and almost simultaneously with its appearance a dark bank of mist came up in the direction of the Medicine Bew range, which formed quickly into rain clouds and spread over the whole northern sky. The storm did not seem a moment in traveling over the level space that intervened, and it struck the city with the vigor of a young cyclone, and in its fury fairly shook the brick buildings on their foundations. The air was the color of old gold, and dust and gravel flew in every direction, penetrating cracks and crevices like water. It did not last a great while at this rate, though the wind blew hard for an hour or two, and the sky remained overcast with gray clouds. Immediately following the heavy gust a dense black mass moved across the sky with the rapidity of an express train, its front being much the shape of a gigantic snow plow, and there was some fear lest a cloudburst should occur when it reached the Black Hills, but no such phenomenon was reported.

A ranchman who came by the Big Basin about noon, at which time the cloud of dust was seen to appear as if by magic, says he witnessed a curious sight there and one the like of which he never saw on the plains before. He was driving slowly along the road when he heard a dull explosion that seemed to shake the ground, and saw to his right and apparently two miles away a mass of dust and earth that flew up in the air and came toward him as swift as a flash of lightning, covering him, his team and the wagon with particles and small chunks even, which nearly suffocated him. The wind was like a hurricane and he expected his wagon to blow away, but it was heavily loaded and held its own and the gale soon moderated, while the cloud of dust swept along over the plains toward the river, gradually disappearing from view. He soon recovered from his momentary alarm and drove over to the spot in the basin from which the dirt seemed to be lifted. There he found a hole in the ground, just such as is left by a heavy explosion of dynamite or giant powder, being as large as a good sized cellar, perfectly round and clean and evidently fresh. He does not know what to make of it, as there was no sign of a storm up to the time he felt the earth quake and heard the heavy report. He is confident there was no wagon in sight or he would think some miner going out with supplies had been blown up with his whole outfit, every evidence being that of dynamite. If it was a supply wagon it was hidden in the basin. It is more probable that a whirlwind or incipient cyclone struck the plains as it some times strikes a town and scooped out the ground as if it was a cannon ball. It must have come in contact with the earth almost at right angles and in rebounding went high in the air and formed the black cloud that was seen shooting across the sky from this city, which probably thus escaped feeling its full force. Whichever one of these theories may be correct; it was certainly a startling and curious sight and one that would have alarmed almost any traveler away out there by himself.

TIME AND DOCTORS' BILLS SAVED by always keeping Simmons Liver Regulator in the house

"I have found Simmons Liver Regulator the best family medicine I ever used for anything that may happen, have used it in Indigestion, Chills, Diarrhœa, Biliousness, and found it to relieve immediately. After taking a hearty supper, if on going to bed I take about a teaspoonful, I never feel the effects of the supper next morn.
