"ART SOUVENIR OF THE PARIS EXPOSITION AND ITS FAMOUS PAINTINGS,"

And embracing a complete portrayal of the International Fair of 1900, with its graceful edifices, bewildering industrial products, radiant electrical displays, impressive statuary, wonderful pictures, and all the "works of peace" of all Nations. From an Artistic Standpoint these superb masterpieces excell anything of the kind ever before produced. Created under the direction of Commissioner-General Peck, who has an international reputation as a connoisseur of art, by the official photographers of the Exposition, and made into engravings of the highest type, elegantly printed on heavy enameled paper, in size about 14x18 inches, with wide margins, suitable for framing, they are exquisite gems of art. Each view is accompanied with an accurate description written by a prominent exposition official, consequently the collection is a valuable historical record, embodying a panoramic presentation of the Fair and intended to take the place of
