EVENING NEWS.

April 12, 1887.

CORRESPONDENCE. STRANGE BUT TRUE. H. W." Asks a Question About the Preparation of Food.

Editor Deseret News: When people first heard of pictures taken by the aid of sunlight, they exclaimed "Impossible!" But when the process was explained, doubt was changed into admiration and people said How beautiful! How simple! Why was it not thought of before?
When the first settlers of Minnesota wrote back to their friends that men could live comfortably in that land where the thermometer in winter averages very low and frequently falls below zero, they were not believed.
When those early settlers told their friends that with moderate exercise
a man would perspire even when his nose and ears were freezing they languaged at the idea. But when it was the ensuing year.

laughed at the idea. But when it was explained that the dry and highly oxygenized atmosphere of that country when innaled, united with the carbon in the blood, and produced a chemical combustion and extra heating of the system, then men no longer doubted, for they perceived the force of the reasoning.
This principle of chemical combustion is very beautifully illustrated in a device of the "Charter oak" stove company by which a draft of pure air constantly circulates through the oven. This device consists of a door of fine wire gauze through which the pure air is admitted at the bottom of the oven and the nitrogen. bottom of the oven, and the nitrogen and carbonic acid gasses escape at the Biscuits baked by this process have no hard or burned crust, and meats reasted or broiled preserve the original weight to a wonderful degree, and are neither dry nor hard. The reason of this is that the free current of pure air through the oven prevents an underseason of the system of the overse contained due absorption of the oxygen contained in the food. As exygen is one of the principal ingredients in sustaining life, we can easily understand that food thus prepared contains more nourishment than that cooked in the As the roller-mill process of making four is preferable to the old method of grinding, because it preserves all the constituents of the wheat, so this process of baking is preferable to that usually employed because it preserves all the constituents of the food-nay, more, it permits the escape of those noxious gasses which too often are absorbed into the food, rendering it unwholesome and not easily digested. While in Provo the past week I had an opportunity of eating biscuits which had been baked by this process in less than three minutes, and were superior to any I ever tasted before. I also tasted a piece of beef steak broiled in less than two minutes, thoroughly cooked and very delicious.

Would it not be well for our progressive men and women to look into this matter and see if there is not in this device the beginning of a practical reform in the preparation of our foed?

MISSIONARY WORK IN THE SOUTH. Opening New Fields of Labor - Kind Parsons.—Success of the Trath. MOUNT ROZELL, Limestone County, Ala., April 2d, 1887.

Editor Deseret News: Having just landed in the midst of the Saints, and not being pushed for time, we are impressed to engage our selves in penning a short account of how the great latter-day work is pros-pering in this part of the globe. As the atter-day Saints are interested in the salvation of mankind, and in the spread of the Gospel, as restored in this generation for an express purpose, they, no doubt, are pleased to near with what success the Elders meet with in all parts; and as the News is a welcome and regular visitor to the majority of the homes of the Saints, this will be the surest source to acquaint all.

On the 18th of March we started in search of a new field of labor, leaving Elder A. L. Fuller with the Saints; after half a day's walk we found ourselves in Giles County, Tenn., and a church house (Pleasant Hill), owned by some of the most prominent men in that locality, some belonging to the Methodist church; others did not be-long to any church. We concluded to try the generosity of the people in this locality, consequently we started in search of the trustees. We succeeded in finding and obtaining the consent of the non-church members, and next started to see the Christians (?) They couldn't give us any satisfaction, either one way or the other; they could not consent until they had seen the parson, the local preacher. We concluded to attend the Sunday School which convened at 9 a.m., and preaching at 11 a.m. After they got through preaching we approached them, and asked what their conclusion was about us preaching at 2 p.m.; the answer was "You can't preach." We then informed them that they were rejecting the servants of God. The people were very much disappointed, as a very large congrepation had assembled to hear us; some of the men proposed a schoolhouse a short distance from a schoolhouse a short distance from the church house, so we announced meeting at 3 p.m. A Mr. Young, a member of the Methodist church, took us home to dinner. When Parson H. saw where we were going he came and took dinner with us. He, of course, pretended to know all about our people, as he had read the whole history of the "Mormon Church" in Western Wilds, by J. H. Beadle. He started on us about "Joe Smith." We tried to reason and explain to him that he had been wrongly informed about the Prophet's character, and also that of the Saints, but he was badly afflicted with the

but he was badly afflicted with the mark of the beast, like many other sec-tarian ministers, who "preach for hire and divine for money," and allowed prejudice to rule and dictate, instead prejudice to rule and dictate, instead of principle and reason. Our conversation soon became very interesting to those present. We closed by calling on him to repent and cease 'preaching his false doctrine, and to yield obedience to the Gospel of Christ. He finally said: "You ought to be driven out of the country," and that all who went to hear us" ought to be churched.

We preached according to agreement,

We preached according to agreement, and presented some of the principles of life and salvation before a large number of people, after which a Mr. Hodgeses, a prominent man in that section, invited us home with him, and we amnounced another meeting for night, when we talked to another large congregation, the people seeming to express themselves, with few exceptions, as being well pleased with what they had heard. We spent the week visiting among those who invited us to call on them. Among them was a Mr. Clem, an aged gentleman, who said he heard Apostle G. A. Smith preach in Huntsville, Alabama, about ten years before the late war of Smith preach in Huntsville, Alabama, about ten years before the late war of the rebellion; he also stated that he remembered Apostle Smith relate the prophecy uttered by Joseph Smith concerning the Iwar, but nearly all ridiculed the idea at the time; he said he was a living witness that it came to pass just as the Prophet said it would, and he knew scores of other men who could testify to the same thing; never theless such testimonies as these are not sufficient to convince the unbeliev-ers of the divine mission of the great latter day Prophet. We were invited to preach again Saturday night and afto preach again Saturday night and after the close of the meeting distribute the remainder of our tracts.

A young man came up and told us that their circuit rider (Parson H.) wished to see us at his meeting at Pleasant Hill, the next day, Sunday. We were rather surprised on receiving the invitation and wondered what it was for. Our first impression was that that they had repented and were going to grant us the privilege to preach in their house. Again we thought that would be uncommonly good treatment from a sectarian thought that would be uncommonly good treatment from a sectarian preacher toward a Mormon Elder, and concluded it was from an impure motive. We went to the meeting, and he invited asjoutside and stated that our teaching was like that of the Campbellites, who was like that of the Campbellites, who were not popular in the neighborhood. We replied that he was mistaken and entered into discussion spon the principles of the Gospel. He finally wound up by heaping a great deal of abuse on the "Mormons," but we had opportunity to reply, and he was effectually confounded, as is usually the case with those who have not the truth on their side.
