NEW YORK.
Details of the late sortie from Paris—Peace negotiations—Disunion at the Prussian headquarters—The condition of Alsace and Lorraine.

An associated press cable, from Tours on the 6th says it is proposed for government to form an army for offensive purposes.

Among the letters found in the Tuilleries is one written to the Emperor by the Empress while she was in Egypt. She warns him against proceeding with some new scheme of ambition, and concluded with these words: "Believe me you cannot make successfully, two Coups d'Etat in one life."

The manuscript of the novel found among the documents is in the handwriting of the Emperor. The hero of the romance, after an absence of twenty years in the United States, returns to France in 1868 and expatiates on the wonders of Napoleon's reign, the suppression of passports, the ironclad navy, the embellishments of Paris, the liberation of political prisoners and the return of exiles.

A report of the reconnaissance of the 8th claims that the mobles gained a victory on the plain of Nogent.

It is reported that, at Montaur, two Prussian guns had been destroyed by the fire from the forts.

Dates from Paris, to the 14th are received and state that the Prussians were driven from Balgoux and Châtillon on the 13th, by a heavy reconquering force from the city, supported by the guns of the fortification.

A New York cable to the Herald from London, dated the 16th, says the steamer Scotia went aground on Saturday at Queenstown. The weather was clear and she had no pilot and sudden fog coming up, her headway was stopped and she drifted out of the channel and grounded. The ship was in command. A tug was sent from Queenstown to her rescue and got her adrift. Directly after there was a gale which would have wrecked her if there had been any delay.

A dispatch from Versailles, to-day, says that three French deserters got into the lines last night. They state that rioting is going on in Paris, and that there is no actual scarcity but the poor are suffering from bad executive management in the distribution of food. Numbers are dependent on government for food. Meat is getting bad and there are fears of disease among the cattle.

The World's special, from London, says the Prussian Embassy has addressed itself, to-day, to the English Government with the view to gain the cooperation of Great Britain in efforts for peace. The English government is instructed to modify her demand for a money indemnity or abandon it altogether. That the neutralization of Strasbourg and Metz will be accepted in lieu of their surrender. The demand of Prussia for the surrender of French men-of-war has been abandoned entirely. The Russian government having signified distinctly its absolute determination not to permit the transfer of any part of the French fleet to the North German flag; it is also understood that Russia insists upon an European Congress as a preliminary of peace, and that Prince Gortschakoff has informed the government of Berlin that, if the fortresses of the Rhine frontier are to be neutralized, Prussia will require equivalent guarantees to be given to her on the Baltic and Polish line.

The government of the Hague has also presented a claim to be heard on the terms of settlement, in a Congress of the great powers.

The World gives the following account of the sortie of Trechu: The attack was led by the guards mobile, who behaved with valor and steadiness, and the Germans, after a brief resistance, broke everywhere in confusion and abandoned their artillery and teams. A considerable force, which retired in better order as far as Leperth, nearly nine miles to the south of Paris, was hotly pursued by the guards of Brittany and the Seine; attempted to make a stand at a chateau of that place. They were assaulted and finally, after a brief engagement, compelled to surrender, at discretion. The French captured a great number of prisoners, caissons, flags, ambulances and commissary stores. There are no Prussian siege works occupied within four miles of the walls of Paris.

The World's cable, from Ostend, says Bazaine made, on the 4th, an overwhelming attack in force, marching by Landoucamp and Mezières while another part of his army assailed the Germans beyond Nalville. The Germans were beaten in both directions. Their camps were broken up in a body and they retreated to Pont-a-Mousson. Bazaine himself is at Thionville organizing a movement. He holds the line to Mezières.

Engagements have taken place within three days, at Charleville, Ecoulles, Ellis, Laferrière and St. Aubin, in each of which the Germans were badly beaten. In the latter engagement, which occurred on Thursday, the Germans, to the number of between eight and nine thousand were attacked early in the morning by a force of 10,000 guards mobile and troops of the line, of the army of the Loire. The Germans were badly posted and taken by surprise, but fought with great determination until taken in the flank by the right wing of the French, when they sought to retreat through the town of Laferrière. The inhabitants, aided by a small body of franc-tireurs, barricaded the main streets and resisted the Germans until the main body of the pursuing French fell upon them again and cut their retreating columns in two, and captured or dispersed the whole force.

NEW YORK, 16.—The inhabitants of Alsace and Lorraine are reported by their conquerors, as living contentedly under the Prussians. The country is rapidly being restored to its former condition, and the peasants are gathering their harvests in which tobacco figures largely. The French, on the other hand, charge that Lorraine is treated as a conquered country, and that the people cannot travel without a permit. The Vienna Presse, an official organ, regret the failure of attempts at mediation and declares that Austria, while she no longer offers her good offices would be ready to employ them whenever her aid is solicited.

The Herald's cable from Berlin, says there are rumors that a difference of opinion prevails at headquarters. Moltke favors immediate bombardment, while Bismarck and the Crown Prince favor a slower process of siege and starvation; and argue that they have nothing to fear from the garrison, and can spare half the investing army to break up any attempted organization to besiege cities in other parts of the country.
