LOCAL NEWS.

Hackman's Fight.—On Saturday evening, Dan Loftus, a hackdriver who has figured in the Police Court as a fighter, and J. D. Sprague, hackman, proprietor of a lively stand on Second South Street, engaged in a hand-to-hand encounter at the rear of a livery stable, for which they were arraigned before Justice Speirs this morning. After hearing the evidence in the case, and viewing the scarred faces of the combatants, the Judge imposed a fine of $10 upon each.

Fell from the Train.—Last evening as the Utah and Nevada bathing train was returning from the Lake, Nate Sewell, in passing alongside of the cars, missed his hold and fell from the train. As soon as the railway men were notified, the train was run back to the spot where the accident had taken place, and where Sewell was found in an unconscious condition, and placed in the baggage car. On recovering consciousness it was found that while he was severely bruised, he had been so fortunate as to escape without serious injury.

Excursion to Gardfield.—Those who go with the Students Ward Benevolent Society to Gardfield tomorrow are promised a good time. In addition to the free dance, and other amusements advertised, the following programme will be rendered by the band during the afternoon: Selection from "The Prince of Troubadours" (J. Offenbach); "Valse" and "Waltz," (Boyer); "Our Sergeant's March," (J. O. Casey); "Serenade and Gallop," (Silver Moon); (Misses); "Dance Fantasia," (Immensioff); "The Frosh;" "The Three Guardians March;" (Misses).

Trains will leave the U. & N. Railway depot at 8:40 a. m. and 1:10 and 4:10 p. m.

Severely Burned.—Dr. W. H. H. Sharp, dentist of this city, informed us by note of the condition of himself and son, whose cases have been mentioned in our columns before, as follows:

The explosion of an alcohol lamp in our dental office on August 10, has resulted more seriously than at first appeared to myself. Being very severely burned on my left limb from the knee downward, I am unable to use the same, and am confined to the house; and will not be able to attend to my profession at the office.

As several rumors are being circulated in regard to the matter, I thought it my duty to my patients to make this statement, as it is uncertain when I shall be able to be out. Any one desiring to see me can do so by calling at No. 434 South 5th East St., nearly opposite the 5th Ward meeting house.

Haystack Burned.—Shortly after 7 o'clock last evening a haystack belonging to Mr. Offenbach, located near the southwest corner of the Cemetery, Twenty-first Ward, was discovered to be on fire, and the alarm given. The firemen hastened to the place with their apparatus, but found no water in the neighborhood, and they had neglected to bring any with them. A messenger was dispatched to turn water into the ditch at a place nearly a mile distant, and it was fully three quarters of an hour before the much-needed fluid reached the fire, which burned very slowly. The haystack was entirely destroyed, as was also a shed and a pig-sty near by, the pig being cut out safely. The loss will amount to about $100.

Beating a Chinaman.—On Saturday afternoon an excited disciple of Confucius presented himself at the city Hall, and made complaint against Jacob Chapman, of East Mill Creek, for battery. A short time before the Chinaman was walking quietly along Commercial Street, and passed near where a crowd of boys were sitting. The latter began pelting the unfortunate Celestial with apples and rubbish, and he retaliated with stones, one of which struck one of the assailants. At this Chapman, who was standing near by, rushed up and assaulted the Chinaman, beating him severely. The officer started on to Chinatown, but found them coming and took to his heels. A lively chase in and out of the alley along Commercial Street followed, the police finally succeeding in capturing the fugitive. He left $30 bail for his appearance for trial at 10 o'clock this morning, but failed to come.

A Thief Arrested.—Sheriff Hutchings, of Beaver County, came up from Beaver last night, and through Marshal Ireland, applied to the Governor for a requisition upon Governor Hauser of Montana, for the delivery to the Utah authorities of John Nelson, a homesteader, now under arrest at Dillon, Montana. Last May Nelson stole a span of horses and a saddle at Frisco, and managed to get to Bear Lake Valley, where he was arrested by the Constable of Tintic, Juab County, who had followed him. He was being brought back to Beaver County, and when about three miles this side of Frisco, jumped from the train and made his escape. Sheriff Hutchings telegraphed a description of the man to the Idaho and Montana authorities, and received a dispatch the other day stating that his man was under arrest at Dillon. Nelson has served a term in Montana for stage robbery.

DEAD IN THE BRUSH.

A MYSTERY—THE BODY OF AN UNKNOWN MAN FOUND NEAR FORT DOUGLAS.

About four o'clock yesterday afternoon Coroner Taylor was notified by the City Marshal that the dead body of a man had been discovered near Fort Douglas, in an advanced state of decomposition. The Coroner telephoned to the Fort, but finding that nothing was known there except that such a discovery had been made by some of the soldiers, ordered the body brought to the sexton's office.

An inquest was held this morning, at the Sexton's office, but nothing was elicited to give any clue as to who the man might be, or under what circumstances he met his fate. When the finding of the body was reported to the military officers, a guard was placed over the remains, where they lay, undisturbed, in a clump of brush, about half a mile southwest of the Fort, and three rods from an old road. The body was lying on its back, the head to the west, and resting on the right shoulder; the arms were extended, and the feet were about a foot apart; the coat had been folded up and placed under the head for a pillow. The deceased was about five feet six inches in height, had grey hair, light mustache turning grey, and was apparently over fifty years of age; most of his front teeth were gone. His clothing was pretty well worn, evidently that of a laborer, and consisted of a black coat, light gray woolen suit, brown pants, shoes, red woolen socks, darned with blue wool, silk blue-spotted necktie, and two blue half handkerchiefs used as cravats. In the pockets were found a small buckskin portmanteau, containing a silver 25-cent piece, a red cotton handkerchief, spotted with white, and a pair of suspenders, but no papers of any kind whatsoever, to give any clue to the identity.

A thorough examination of the body revealed no marks of violence whatever, though it was decomposed to such an extent as to render it impossible to definitely determine whether or not foul play had been used; the stomach was almost unrecognizable when the body was moved, notwithstanding the use of strong disinfectants. The way in which the body lay when found indicated that the deceased had lain down to rest, and died there.

The coroner's jury rendered the following verdict:

Territory of Utah, ss.
Salt Lake City.

An inquest held at Joseph E. Taylor's office, at the district court of Salt Lake City, on the 15th day of August, before George J. Taylor, Coroner of said County, upon the body of an adult male unknown to the jury, the said jury, whose names are hereunto subscribed:

The said jurors on their oaths do say, from the evidence presented, that he died of a fall from the top of a Douglas fir on the military reservation east of Salt Lake City, on the 14th day of July and the 10th day of August, 1885, from causes to the jury unknown.

In testimony whereof, the said jurors have hereunto set their hands the day and year first above written.

E. T. TAYLOR,
GEORGE COLEMAN,
DAVID McHOLLAND,
JURORS.

GEORGE J. TAYLOR, Coroner.

Many theories have been advanced regarding the affair, but none of them offer any solution to the mystery. There has been no one missing from this vicinity, and the clothing does not indicate that its owner was in any way connected with the army service. The remains were interred by the sexton.

THE CONTEMPT CASE.

ELIZA SHAFER SENTENCED BY THE COMMISSIONER—HABKAS CORPUS PROCEEDINGS BEFORE JUDGE ZANE.

At 10 o'clock this morning Eliza Shaffer appeared before Commissioner McKay, to receive sentence for contempt in refusing to answer certain questions propounded by Mr. Varian in the Snell examination. The Commissioner directed that a fine of $25 be imposed, and that the witness be imprisoned for 24 hours, and be committed to the custody of the U. S. Marshal until the fine is paid.

A petition for a writ of habeas corpus was filed in the District Court, and the matter was brought up for hearing before Judge Zane at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Mr. Kirkpatrick appearing for the defendant, and Mr. Varian for the prosecution.

Mr. Varian argued the questions: Has a Commissioner of the Supreme Court of Utah Territory the right to punish a witness for contempt? If so, what is the limit of such punishment? He contended that the Commissioner had the power to punish for contempt, and that power extended not only as claimed by Commissioner McKay, but to the imprisonment of a witness until such time as the question asked should be answered.

Mr. Kirkpatrick followed with an able argument in opposition to the claim of the prosecution, and showed that, no matter how much the Commissioner might desire to exercise the power to punish witnesses for contempt, it was not necessary by the law and he had no right to usurp it.

The question was submitted to Judge Zane for decision.

Arrivals From the "Old Country."—Elder George F. Hunter, of West Weber, who has been on a mission to Scotland since October, 1888, arrived in this city last evening, having in charge a small company of Saints, numbering in all 13 souls. Nine of these were from Ireland, two from Birmingham and one joined the party in Chicago. They left Liverpool on the 1st inst., came on board the Wyandott, had a pleasant voyage, with scarcely any sea-sickness, and arrived in New York City on the 1st inst. The journey overland was prosperous throughout, and the party landed here in good health and spirits. The English immigrants remain in this city, but the Icelandic took this morning's train for Spanish Fork, where they will remain until they are ready to return to their homes.

Elder Hunter labored for the first two months after his arrival in Scotland in the Aberdeen District, where he met with fair success. He was then transferred to Lashburn, where he remained only one month, just long enough to get acquainted with the district, when he was called to take the presidency of the Glasgow Conference, numbering in all 13 souls. Nine of these were from Ireland, two from Birmingham and one joined the party in Chicago. They left Liverpool on the 1st inst., came on board the Wyandott, had a pleasant voyage, with scarcely any sea-sickness, and arrived in New York City on the 1st inst. The journey overland was prosperous throughout, and the party landed here in good health and spirits. The English immigrants remain in this city, but the Icelandic took this morning's train for Spanish Fork, where they will remain until they are ready to return to their homes.

The Battle Creek co-operative store of Pleasant Grove, has sent thanks for a nice box of fruit sent to this office this morning for editorial palates to sample.

Cleaning City Creek.—On Saturday

Mayor Sharp and the members of the City Council who visited City Creek Canon, made an examination of the creek from its head down the canon, with a view to having it cleared of logs and rubbish and straightened out in places, hoping thereby to increase the water supply. This morning Supt. Ottinger went up with a force of men to perform the necessary labor.

Police Court.—John Moulton, for being drunk and disorderly, was fined $10 this morning.

Tom White, drunk, was assessed $5. Nellie Humphreys was fined $10, and Mrs. Wilson, $15, for the part they took in the disturbance near the D. & R. G. W. depot on Saturday. Mrs. Passey, mother of the participants, has not yet been tried.

Peter O. Donald, who attempted to sell a bale of stolen hay to a night watchman, was arrested and taken to the police station, where he will be tried before Justice Speirs.

A Strange Premontion.—A beloved son of Andrew and Jane McKay Smith, of the Eighth Ward, aged 13 years, 6 months and 26 days, by the name of Robert Nepel, was taken violently ill with diphtheria on Monday, the 10th inst., and died on Thursday, the 13th at 4 p. m.

A few hours before his death he called his parents to him and kissed them good-by; he also kissed his eldest sister for the remainder of the family, and his eldest brother for his other relatives, naming them in turn. Also, before his death, he asked his parents if the Lord wanted him to die, and if he did, would he not tell him, he said he did not want to die, but would rather live with his father and mother than any one else. His father told him that if the Lord wanted him to live he would recover, but if he wanted him to go he would take him to himself. He again said that he would rather live than die, but if the Lord wanted him to go, all right. He prayed to the Lord that he might live, and invoked his blessing upon his father and mother and brothers and sisters, and prayed that they might live long upon the earth and do much good. He also invoked the divine blessing upon his uncles, aunts and cousins.

He made request of the family never to forget him, but to always hold him in remembrance, and also requested to be buried the following day at 3 p. m., and for all of the family to go to the graveyard and see him interred, and especially that his mother should go.

He also prayed that the Bishop and Members of the Ward might be blessed and especially Brothers McMurray and Cartwright for being so kind and good when called upon to administer to him during his sickness.

A short time previous to his death he told his parents to be sure and mark the time he should die as it would be exactly at four o'clock, and to have it published in the Evening News. He also said that he was calling and said he saw some persons there, and remarked that they were all in good order. He said if they would go away before four o'clock he would not see them, but if they stayed until four o'clock he would have to go with them. He also referred to a number of boys whom he said he saw standing before him and remarked that they were all good boys.

He referred to one personage whom he saw present as a messenger whom he came to take him, and was anxious that the rest of the family should see him also. He talked almost incessantly for perhaps an hour and a half before his death, and much more intelligently than he had ever done during his life; indeed, more like a man of mature wisdom than a boy of thirteen years.

He left special instructions for two of his brothers, and bestowed all of his treasures upon his brother next to him in rank. He invoked the blessing of God upon all of his playmates and associates, and also upon Brother Irvine and all of the employees of the co-operative store, where he had been employed as a cash boy a year previous to his death. He also said that he would bid them good-by, only a few minutes before his death. They said "God bless you, Robert," and in return he thanked them courteously.

Several times he expressed a desire to live, but after a few moments' reflection he said, "This is a weary world, and if I live there would be a great deal of trouble, but if I die my trouble will be ended."

He finally called for a drink of cold water, which he gulped down, and when the clock indicated the hour of four, he announced that the time had come and turned over, straightened himself out and slightly quivered as his last breath left his body.

Of course everything was done that love, faith and skill could suggest to save him during his sickness, but it seemed that he must go. He was a general favorite with all who knew him, being a boy of a very affectionate and lovable disposition, and his death, under any circumstances, would be a natural cause of a profound and solemn impression upon the family, but especially so under the circumstances which surrounded his demise.
