A Beautiful Production for a Notable

LONDON, Oct. 17.—The following poem by Oliver Wendell Holmes for the dedication of the fountain at Stratford-on-Avon to-day, presented by George W. Childs, of Philadelphia, was read by Henry Irving:

stream,

MOVING ON.
The President and Party Reach Atlanta.

CHATTANOOGA, Oct. 18.—The President's train left Nashville on time at noon. There was an enormous crowd at the depot and the utmost enthusiasm was displayed. After the train started many persons followed it as long as they could by running after it.
Also, the train was hailed with acclamations and other presents. At Murfreesboro the points of interest on the battlefield of Stone River were pointed out. The club up Racoon Range and the descent on the south side of the mountain were pointed out.
The river was full of picturesque scenery.

ROMANTIC VIEWS.
A rainstorm which the train had been chasing ever since it left Washington was less oppressive on the trip to Chattanooga. As the train pulled out from the depot it was hailed with acclamations and other presents. At Murfreesboro the points of interest on
the battlefield of Stone River were
pointed out. The club up Racoon
Range and the descent on the south
side of the mountain were pointed out.
The river was full of picturesque
scenery.

SHAKE HANDS.
To all he could, he graciously held out his hand, receiving many "God bless you's." When the party returned to the depot it was a quarter past five.
The train was hailed with acclamations and other presents. At Murfreesboro the points of interest on the battlefield of Stone River were pointed out.
The club up Racoon Range and the descent on the south side of the mountain were pointed out. The river was full of picturesque scenery.

TIMELY REBUKE.
NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 17.—During the reception to-day, many poorly dressed people, evidently workmen and women, were passing by. The train was hailed with acclamations and other presents. At Murfreesboro the points of interest on
the battlefield of Stone River were
pointed out. The club up Racoon
Range and the descent on the south
side of the mountain were pointed out.
The river was full of picturesque
scenery.

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 17.—Governor Taylor, who came from Nashville to Chattanooga on a PILGRIM TRIP to assist in doing the honors and had prepared a little procession of their own, which was to go to the court house to meet the President. The two processions met in the city. The greeting was a number of well-dressed people, who, having been making unkind remarks touching the general appearance of those coming along in line. Hearing the remarks and laughter, the President said:
"These good people are here out of respect to me; I am not willing for you to make sport of them. It is not their fault. The laughter and comment ceased."
