Provo, Utah Co., Aug. 4.—About two months ago H. W. Gease, the cigar manufacturer had an opportunity to do a kindly deed and did it. It is not known that Mr. Gease is sorry for his kindness, but he would like the recipient of his bounty placed behind the bars, and all who are acquainted with the circumstances are of the opinion that that would be a good place for him. The fellow who gave the name of Charles Augustus Edwards came here as a hobo and was given a new suit of clothes and made to look decent and put to work at his trade of cigar making. About two weeks ago Charles Augustus wanted to go to Eureka on an excursion, and was permitted to take a excursion, and was permitted to take a few samples of cigars along with which to take orders. When he got to Eureka he telephoned Mr. Gease that he thought he could make some collections and asked if he should do so. Mr. Gease said 'yes,' and Edwards went in to the collection business. He collected about $300 in Eureka, Payson and Springville forced Mr. Gease's name to Springville, forged Mr. Gease's name to the checks that he received, cashed them and left. He was probably out of the state before an effort was made to intercept him. Sheriff Harmon is now trying to locate him, and will have him brought back if he is located.

Weekly Crop Bulletin and Weather Report. U. S. Department of Agriculture, Idaho Section Climate and Crop Service, Weather Bureau. Weekly crop bulletin for the week ending Monday, Aug. 1: High temperature prevailed at the beginning of the week, continuing, in most sections, through July 27; on July 28 the weather became much cooler, the change having been marked by numerous thunderstorms in eastern counties, and by high winds in all exposed sections; this cool period continued through July 30, culminating in light frosts in southeastern localities. By the close of the week the temperature had returned to normal, and during the closing days wind velocities were light and skies almost entirely free from cloudiness. Water is beginning to fall in many streams, but it is believed that in most sections there will be a sufficient amount to mature all crops.

CROPS. Fruit-High winds caused some heavily laden trees to lose some fruit, but otherwise conditions have been favorable for this crop; except where damaged by late frosts and in a few localities by blight and insect pests, fruit crops are in excellent condition; markets are well supplied with black-berries, dewberries, peaches, apricots, peach plums and early varieties of ap-

Grain-Harvest is progressing rapidly Grain—Harvest is progressing rapidly over most of the state, with results satisfactory in most localities; some grain was threshed out by high winds, and some heavy grain was lodged, but this damage was conflied to limited areas; corn is tasseling, some sweet corn is ready for use. Grass—There is still some first crop alfaifa in the field in eastern counties, and not quite all the timothy crop in northern counties has been secured; in southwestern valleys a good second crop of alfalfa is being harvested; some wild hay is being cut, with satisfactory yields. The area over which good range grass is to be found is becoming noticeably smaller, but in most sections it is still sufficient, and most of the stock is in good condition. Vegetables and Melons—Potatoes in southeastern localities suffered some slight damage from frost on July 29th and 30th; in a few localities, particularly in northern counties, vegetables need rain; otherwise conditions have been favorable; while the outlook for the sugar beet crop was extremely unfavorable early in the season, most fields now promise abundant returns; melons have made good progress, and a few cantaloups have been marketed.
