

MAKES APPEAL TO MINISTERS

Judge Gowans of Juvenile Court
Asks for Co-operation of Churches.

TO ENFORCE CURFEW LAW.

James Letter Requesting All Public
Spirited and Philanthropic Pers-sons to Assist in Cause.

Judge Gowans of the juvenile court for the Third judicial district has issued a letter of appeal to ministers of all denominations and other public spirited and philanthropic persons asking their assistance in the enforcement of the curfew ordinance. The appeal is made in an effort to stop the growth of crimes by removing one of the greatest opportunities to aid in its growth—late hours of the night for young persons.

THE LETTER.

The letter follows: "In view of the widespread disregard of the curfew ordinance and the fact that much delinquency among our boys and girls is due primarily to its violation, it has been deemed expedient to ask the various religious and philanthropic societies to render all possible assistance for the proper enforcement of this law. It is proposed that a number of volunteer probation officers be appointed who will serve under the direction of the chief probation officer of Salt Lake county. Such officers should be tactful and discreet and have the welfare of our boys and girls at heart, and be willing without compensation to devote a short time every evening, say from 8 to 10 o'clock, in patrolling a number of blocks, to prevent this ordinance from being violated. The probation officers should also take such boys and girls as seem indifferent to the law to their homes, and remind the parents in a useful way that their children are delinquent, and seek in a firm, but friendly, manner to co-operate properly with the parents in securing the enforcement of the law. Persons who may be present to aid the probation officers in the proper enforcement of the law should be informed that they may be prosecuted and punished in the courts for contributing to the delinquency of the children."

PREVENTIVE WORK.

"A great deal of time, money and effort is spent in trying to reform sinners, and we at the same time most shamefully neglect the preventive work among the young, which in fact is the only work which holds out a promise of real success. If the preventive work was properly done, there would be little excuse for existence of juvenile courts."

"The purpose of the juvenile court and the executive authorities to carry on vigorous campaign along the lines suggested, and we desire the assistance of every citizen to the end that our young people may be saved to useful citizenship."

SOLD SITES FOR A SONG.

Mr. Murdoch of Charleston, W. Va., was a passenger on a car bound for the state fair yesterday morning. As the car turned west near North Temple crossing the tracks, Mr. Murdoch closed his eyes for a second. "I came to this valley when I was 13 years old—a mere boy. Let me see, that was 8 years ago," he began in a reminiscing tone. "I remember this corner (North Temple and Third West) it was the entrance to a peach orchard. Mr. Murdoch said he used to take in the renovated Harriman terminals. A dozen engines were passing back and forth underneath the bridge over which the car was passing, unmindful of the bustle and hubbub below. In one direction the tracks stretched out over level yards until the line came to a point, seemingly, of no return. A long stretch of road was hung down an embankment to the site of the proposed half-million-dollar depot; everywhere was activity. To one side could be seen the 70-foot freight house—one of the finest anywhere on the Harriman lines. Mr. Murdoch looked from one to another, smiling. That was his comment after a long while."

Mr. Murdoch is one of the older members of the family which has carried his name to prominence throughout Wasatch county. He is now a prosperous farmer and homeowner in Charleston, but confesses a desire to move to Heber, the county seat and thriving little business and railroad center. A small farm, he carried chains on the surveyors' wagon, mapped out Salt Lake, and at one time owned a good portion of the Newhouse corner Main street. He sold this property 20 years ago for $6,000. The Walker family recently sold the same ground for $8,000.

"How wonderful, wonderful!" exclaimed Mr. Murdoch. "When a peach orchard becomes the site for the fine railroad terminal in the west and skyscrapers being raised on corners once outside for a song, Salt Lake certainly gives us all something to talk about and wonder over, and the forward-looking world would really be better off made in this city, are being made in the state, and in other cities in a more general and less noticeable way."

FOOD STOPPED IT.

Good Food Worth More Than Gold Mine.

To find a food that will put an absolute stop to "running down" is better than finding a gold mine.

Many people when they begin to run down go from one thing to another without finding a food that will stop the progress of disease. Grape-Nuts is the most nourishing food known and will set one right if that is possible.

The experience of a Louisiana lady will be interesting. "I received a severe nervous shock some years ago and from that and overwork gradually broke down. My food did not agree with me and I lost flesh rapidly. I changed from one kind of food to another but was unable to stop the loss of flesh and strength."

"I do not exaggerate when I say that I finally became, in reality, a living skeleton. My nights were sleepless, and I was compelled to take baths in various forms. After trying all sorts of food without success, I finally got down to tea and bread with a little butter, and after a while this helped so soon and I could digest it. Then I took to toasted crackers and lived on them for several weeks, but kept getting weaker."

"One day Grape-Nuts was suggested and it seemed to me from the description that it was just the sort of food I could digest. I began by eating a small portion, gradually increasing the amount each day."

"My improvement began at once for I afforded me the nourishment that I had been starving for. No more harassing pains and indigestion. For a month I ate nothing but Grape-Nuts and a little cream. I can say now I could take other kinds of food, but gained flesh rapidly and now am in better health than I have been in years. I still stick to Grape-Nuts because I like the food and I know of its powerful nourishing properties. My physician says that my whole trouble was a lack of power to digest food, and that no other food that he knows of would have brought me out of the trouble except Grape-Nuts." "There's a reason."

FINAL ORGAN RECITAL.

Prof. McClellan Closes Season With Brilliant Performance.

The final tabernacle organ recital of the season was given yesterday afternoon, with Prof. McClellan at the console, before an audience that nearly filled the great galleries. The program was unusually heavy and difficult, all of the numbers but one being Wagnerian and calling for a high order not only of executive but of interpretative talent for correct presentation. The last number, the Tannhauser overture, was particularly difficult, from the fact that it was played from the piano stool. To register and temper a solo part so technically formidable a composition as this overture is no summer afternoon frolic. None but specially trained talent could attempt it. Long experience at the organ is required to successfully perform the feat. Prof. McClellan met the requirements of the occasion in a clear, smooth performance.

The violin themes in the "Venus Music," play with such bands, is a technical feat demanding unusual skill and facility of fingerings, and the delicate resonant effects in the cadenzas preceding the final movement were certainly orchestral. The performer's special talents in registration were manifested also in the "Parsifal" prelude, and in the Master-singer march was impressively given.

Quite a number of people in the audience remained after the recital to meet Prof. McClellan, and congratulated him on his effort of the afternoon, and the successful close of the season's rentals.

PREST. HAVEMEYER HERE.

Pays Call on Prest. Smith and Local Sugar People.

H. O. Havemeyer, president of the American Sugar Refining company, of New York, generally known as the Sugar Trust, spent the day in Salt Lake and left this evening on his private car for Denver. Since last Saturday night Mr. Havemeyer and his party have been visiting the various sugar plants in Idaho and Utah, in which he and his associates are interested with local people. Every evening has been occupied with calls on sugar companies, and company dinners in Nampa, branching off to Sugar City, Idaho Falls and Blackfoot, and then coming to Lewiston, Laramie and Greenfield. Yesterday he called on the Knutson at Nampa, and on the 8th inst. and start on his voyage as soon as his ship is ready. Both vessels are being fitted out at New York and will be ready to sail in a week or two.

The change of commanders recently ordered will go into effect in a few days, and will take place on Oct. 1. The new commander will be the cruiser St. Louis, which recently arrived at San Francisco as the advance guard of the battleship fleet. It was arranged that Admiral Squires should raise his flag on the Tennessee at New York on the 8th inst., and start on his voyage as soon as his ship is ready.

Both vessels are being fitted out at New York and will be ready to sail in a week or two.

In company with General Manager Cutler they expect to take in the State of Idaho this afternoon. The visit to the Idaho and Utah sugar companies was made with Mr. Cutler and David F. Miller, of the Amalgamated company. Mark Austin, agricultural representative of the Utah Idaho, accompanied them to Nampa, and with him inspected the site of the proposed factory at Payette and looked over the rich beet fields in that vicinity.

"My improvement began at once for I afforded me the nourishment that I had been starving for. No more harassing pains and indigestion. For a month I ate nothing but Grape-Nuts and a little cream. I can say now I could take other kinds of food, but gained flesh rapidly and now am in better health than I have been in years.
