The teachers are not to make any comments on the "good old book" aside from endeavoring to impress the children with reverence in regard to the Scriptures. All teachers, church members, and non-church members, were heartily in favor of adopting this new feature in school work. The institute was pronounced by all to be the most beneficial and instructive in the history of Weber county schools.

INQUEST OVER DEATH OF CHILD.

OGDEN, Sept. 18.—A coroner's jury, composed of J. W. Wilcox, Dan Enman, and Fred E. Williams, presided over by Judge Murphy, held an inquest yesterday morning for the purpose of inquiring into the death of Anna Cook, the 18-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Cook, which occurred on Aug. 10. Several witnesses were examined and the testimony was to the effect that the mother had left the little girl asleep in the house and had gone a short distance to attend to some work. On returning she found the child missing and after a hurried search she and a neighbor found the dead child near the railroad crossing, a short distance from the house. All witnesses examined stated that they noticed a train pass at about this time and it is thought the child was run over and killed. The case was adjourned until some other witnesses can be brought before the jury and give their testimony.

Bell Telephone Company Operates Without Franchise; Committee Will Report Monday.

PROVO, Sept. 18.—The city council held a short session last night. The resignation of Ole E. Olsen, Jr., as deputy recorder was accepted and a vote of thanks tendered him for his services.

On motion of Councilman Boebe the Rocky Mountain Bell Telephone company was asked to move two telephone poles on Second West street, between Third and Fourth South, where recent sidewalk alterations are being constructed. This brought up again the question of franchise for the company, which is now operating without one having refused to accept the terms of the franchise granted some months ago. Councilman Giles stated that he had a resolution to present in the question unless the committee on railroads and telegraph lines which has the matter in charge, was prepared to make an early report. Chairman Carter of the committee stated the committee would re-

SCIENTIFIC MISCELLANY.

Helical steel tubes of great strength, from one to six inches in diameter, are being rolled by an improved method at a factory of Stockerau, near Vienna. The hot rolled flat bars are cold-rolled, cut into widths equal to the diameter of the intended tube, then flared. Fed into a machine at the proper angle, these strips have internal recesses formed at their edges by two sets of pressure rollers, with counter rollers mounted at right angles to the thread of the spiral, and the edges being fitted together, they are pressed on a spindle so as to form a closed joint. A second set of rollers, extending over two laps at once, completes the shaping. In the finishing process, the tubes are immersed in a bath of tin or lead, and this forms a lining and at the same time so softens the joints as to ensure perfect tightness. Tested in Vienna, the two-inch tubes of one-third inch lap showed an average bursting strength of 1,325 pounds per square inch.

The new electric oven of a bakery at Korn's, Switzerland, is about eight feet long by four wide, with a baking surface of three square yards, and will bake 100 pounds of bread at a time, in two-pound and three-pound loaves. The furnace has 42 electrically heated tubes arranged along the base and the vaulting. The baking heat is reached in two hours, and in 12 hours eight 100-pound batches of bread can be baked, at a cost of 1.5 cents per pound for heating. Even heating is ensured by such means as lessening the current toward the back of the oven, where cooling is least.

On beginning his steam turbine experiments in 1884, the Hon. C. A. Parsons found that the fine drops of water in steam traveling 2,800 feet per second cut the hardest steel, wearing a hard file 1-32 inch in 145 hours, but in the present compound turbine the difficulty has been overcome, so that even brass and copper blades can be used. Steam consumption has been greatly reduced. The turbine in 1887 used 16 pounds per shaft horse-power, but 1907 the Lusitania and Mauretania used only 12 and 11½ pounds respectively.

Pessimistic as it may seem, the conclusion that man's downfall will begin with the exhaustion of our coal is strongly suggested. Geologists find that since the beginning of the Paleozoic era various leading animals have appeared, reached their culmination, and declined. Some thousands, or ten thousands of years ago, the human race began. Since then man has become the dominant animal, occupying the place held by gigantic reptiles in the Mesozoic era, and has been approaching the culminating stage of existence. With his resources have been fully utilized—some centuries hence—can development go further? It is confidently but vaguely asserted that before the coal is gone something to take its place must be found, but an inquiry by Mr. W. Ramsay into the known sources of energy are discouraging for Great Britain and not port Monday night. Reports of telephone rates had been received by the committee from 40 cities in the United States and Mr. Carter intimated that the report would not be favorable to the company in the way of recommending the changes in the franchise, contended for by the company.

DOLLAR WHEAT.

PROVO, Sept. 18.—Reports from the dry farmers of Cedar valley is to the effect that the wheat crop on the irrigated land ranged from 15 to 20 bushels to the acre. One piece of 50 acres produced sufficient grain to produce a check for $2,500 paid to the owners at the time of harvesting, the price being $1 a bushel. The harvesting was done by a combined harvester and thrasher, which delivers the grain sacked as it passes through the field.

MURRAY BRIEFS.

The party given by Mrs. David Frame at her home last Tuesday was one of the successful events of the season. The evening was spent in playing games and a delicious midnight lunch was served.

Elder George Brown left Wednesday last to fill a mission in the Central states.

Mr. and Mrs. John Berger and daughter Alice, and Mr. and Mrs. John Williams left for Seattle last week.

A complaint was brought against H. J. Garrett yesterday for fast driving an automobile in Murray city limits.

Mrs. Hans Hanson, living in the southern part of the city, lost a valuable horse yesterday. Her son, 14 years old, was working on the city streets and while leaving his wagon one of the horses dropped dead. The boy and the team were about the only support the widow had. A number of citizens, however, got up a subscription and gave Mrs. Hanson $20 to help get another horse.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. P. West celebrated the twentieth anniversary of their wedding this week, and to add to the occasion the Murray choir came in a body and sprang a great surprise on them.

Politics is just warming a little in Murray. The citizens and lawmakers of the two parties that have lined up here for the past few years, are again in the field looking for material to make up their tickets. The Citizens have called their convention to be held in the Murray Opera House, Friday, Oct. 1. The ward primaries will be held Wednesday evening, Sept. 28, to elect delegates for the city convention. Ten delegates are apportioned to each of the five wards.

reassuring for other lands. These possible sources are—(1) water-power from rivers and reservoirs; (2) water-power from tides; (3) wind-power; (4) the earth's internal heat, to be reached by shafts eight or ten miles deep; (5) the discovery of a catalytic agent that may accelerate the loss of energy by substances like radium; (6) solar heat. Of these the first will replace coal to a limited extent, though not in Great Britain. The second and third are not economical, the expense and difficulties of the fourth are prohibitive, the fifth is hypothetical and not likely to give important results, and the sixth is available only in warm climates.

Alcohol briquettes, small tin boxes filled with dough-like combustible material, can be carried in the grip-sack and used as a spirit lamp at any time until exhausted. Putting on the cover extinguishes the flame. The filling is prepared by heating denatured ordinary alcohol to 140 degrees F over a water-bath, adding 20 parts of grated and dried Venetian soap and 2 parts of gum lac, and stirring until the added substances are completely dissolved. The solution is at once poured into the boxes, and the covers closed. When cool the mixture is solid.
