Farr Bingham Wedding -- Austrians in Street Race-- Roscoe Countryman In Jail for Assault.

Lest Sunday night as Mr. and Mrs. Goodfellow were returning to their beme in Ogden, they had a narrow escape from serious injury in Ogden canyon. They were caught in the sterm just below the Hermitage. It was very dark and the thunder and lightning made it still more dangerous a travel down the canyon. When they had reached a narrow place on the dugway the horse shied, and leaged down the embankment into the river below, carrying buggy and occupants with him. The buggy turned empletely over, and fortunately for Mr. and Mrs. Goodfellow, they fell mothe buggy top and escaped injury. into the buggy was badly wrecked.

Just at the time an excursion wagon came along and brought the unforanate people to this city.

EXCITING RACE.

Yesterday afternoon two Austrians gave a free exhibition of charlot racing lower Twenty-fifth street. They ared a horse and wagon from one of the livery stables and set out for a big time. While driving along Twenty-fifth street the horse became somewhat ex-cited and started to run. The Austrians became more excited and began to yell, and in two seconds were taking a sinuous ride down the paved street. A stable hand came to the rescue. He rushed out, caught the end of the wagon, swung himself into the rig, and soon had the horse under control. No damage was done.

Logan, Cache Co., Aug. 15.-There is little talked of on the streets now excepting politics. The great interest now is in the Republican gubernatorial contest. Each of the candidates have many warm friends in this county. None of them seems to have a walk over in the state and consequently are doing all they can to strengthen themselves. Several Salt Lake people were in Logan last week, working quietly for their friends. Local Democrats are jubilant over the warm forty in the Republicant fight in the Republican camp and hope to profit by any division among their opponents.

The contest in this county this fall promises to be exceedingly close, and both parties are exerting themselves to preserve party harmony. Indications now are that efforts will be made to place before the people the very best men possible

MONKS HAVE RETURNED HOME

Old Church Has Been Repaired and * Services Again Held Beneath its Venerable Roof.

Special Correspondence.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 14.-The palmy days of the Eighteenth Century are being revived in southern California. Brown robed Franciscan monks have reappeared at the ancient mission of San Luis Rey, 50 miles north of San Diego, a citadel of strength and a haven of rest in the early days. But for two generations this mission has been almost entirely deserted, until in recent years it has become a mere picturesque ruin, its gray walls and arches crumbling, and its capacious halls and lofty towers abandoned and silent-a decaying monument of the former glory of Spain's church and state. of Spain's church and state.

Beginning about the middle of the Eighteenth century the Franciscans created a chain of these mission settlements extending from San Diego, near the Mexican border, to Sonoma, north of San Francisco. They were located about one day's journey apart, to convenience travelers, but this feature was only incidental to the great spiritual. incidental to the great spiritual only incidental to the great spiritual, educational and economic work which they did for California, before the time of the American occupation.

The mission fathers selected the most fertile spots in beautifully sheltered valleys for their settlements. Here they built their churches, counded their schools and established communities which took firm root upon the soil. Each community was made self-sufficient and self-sustaining. The useful arts and trades were taught and cararts and trades were taught and carried on. Within the shadow of the church, artisans and skilled workmen labored at their various tasks. Water was brought in irrigation ditches from the nearest stream flowing from the snow-capped Sierras, and field, orchard and garden, reclaimed from the desert, yielded of their abundance. The Fran-ciscans were the teachers of the irrigation of the southwest, and this is per-haps the deepest and most lasting mark which they left on California's civiliza-

This new activity at San Luis Rey has come as an entire surprise to the quiet neighborhood. Patriotic Ameri-cans have been engaged for some years past in an effort to preserve some of the old missions from further decay and even to restore them, to a certain ex-tent. But those most familiar with this work did not dream that the industrious followers of St. Francis would ever return to make practical use of the old andmarks. Even now it is not known but that the movement is to extend to other historic spots.

RETURN OF THE MONKS. However that may be, the gentle protherhood has come back to San Luis Rey. The old church has been re-paired and services are again held be-neath its venerable roof. The cloisters are being rebuilt and the irrigation aqueducts reconstructed. The fields will be tilled again and yield the same leval support to the community.

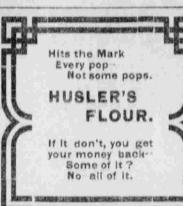

The leader in the movement is Fath-

The leader in the movement is Father O'Keefe, who came unheralded from Mexico and quietly set out upon the restoration of the old landmark. His fellow-laborers are all members of the Franciscan order and perform their heavy manual work in the brown cassocks that were familier to generations. neavy manual work in the brown cas-socks that were familiar to generations now passed and forgotten Father O'Keefe does not expect to revive the former economic life of the settlement in all its amplitude. Much has hap-pened since his predecessors toiled and taught and ruled in these lovely south-ern valleys. Modern people have come ern valleys. Modern people have come with modern improvements, and there is now no need of the paternal scheme which did so much for the simple population of the country a century or more ago. Father O'Keefe's plan is to convert the old mission into a self-susspiritual and educational work will live again, but the social and ecenomic features will not be restored, beyond what is necessary to meet the necessities of the monks themselves.

PIONEERS OF CIVILIZATION. The mission fathers were the pioneers of Firepean civilization among the coast hills of California. They supplied leadership and instruction to those who were engaged in founding homes and wresting a living from the gaunt appearing desert. The work which they began must still be continued and upon a vastic leagung scale. which they began must still be contin-ued, and upon a vastly larger scale, but it has passed to other hands—to the government of America and to an army of settlers who come from all parts of the world. The government is supplying both the capital and the ex-pert knowledge needed in this con-quest of the desert. It is laying the foundation of prosperity, pointing the way, and inviting the people to enter way, and inviting the people to enter into their heritage. While its resources are far greater than those of the devoted missionaries who planted the seed of California, its spirit is much the same. It is helping the people to help themselves.

In one respect the mission fathers were better situated than Uncle Sam. They could locate their settlements in the choicest spots without encountering the 'sooner," the speculator or the land grabber who had anticipated them by filing on the property under preposterous land laws. The cream of the country was open to the real settler and homebuilder in those days. There will be many new "missions" founded in California—in the whole great west-missions dedicated to industry, thrift and the satisfaction of that craving for homes upon the soil which is a healthy homes upon the soil which is a healthy American characteristic. But the fu-ture of these "missions" depends in large measure upon the intelligence of Congress as a guardian and trustee of its children who are to build up and oc-cupy these productive lands. Under exsting laws, speculators are taking up a single entries from four to eight times as much land as is reasonably necessary for the support of a family. They are getting title to this land with-While the richest agricultura ands are being rapidly acquired for speculation and monopoly under one law, the oplendid forests which clothe the western mountains are being cos solidated into great holdings, under another law, to be held against the needs of coming generations. These things are nothing less than a crime against are nothing less than a crime against the children of the United States.

And the lesson taught by the brown robed Franciscan monks of San Louis Rey was one of helpfulness and self dependence, but not greed and rapacity. Will their successor, the United States, teach the same lesson to her children or will absentees to their states. teach the same lesson to her children or will she carelessly allow the inter-loper to wrongfuly profit at their ex-pense? Congress has been asked to take some action on the land laws of the United States. It has failed or refused thus far to do so. If it recognizes pub-be semiment, it must no longer evalor this lesse of importance to the way. this issue, of importance and to the United States.
