Death of Gen. Bragg.

GALVESTON, Tex., 27.—This morning General Braxton Bragg dropped dead while crossing 20th Street, in front of the post office, aged 61. The body lies in state at Artillery Hall. The remains will be taken to Mobile if arrangements can be made with the New Orleans steamer for conveyance. General Bragg was in his usual health up to the moment of his death. The cause of his death is fatal syncope, induced by organic disease of the heart.

The Postal Railway Commission.

CHICAGO, 27.—The special postal railway commission, in a three hours' session to-day, made considerable progress, examining M. J. D. Lang, general manager of the Pennsylvania Company, J. C. McMullen, of Chicago, and Alton and Mr. Hugitt, of the Northwestern. At one o'clock the commission left for Milwaukee. They will hold two days session this week at Cincinnati.

More Crooked Whiskey.

A quantity of illicit whiskey has been traced from Ansable, Illinois, to Chicago, and to day Ex-Aldermen Thomas Walsh, Peter McGrath, and a storekeeper named Joslyn, were arrested on the charge of conspiracy in the removal of the spirits, and warrants were issued for John Corcoran and J. B. McGrath on the same charge. The authorities are very reticent about the matter.

The Cherokees Object to the Sioux as Neighbors.

VINITA, I.T., 27.—The Cherokees and other civilized Indians of this Territory are greatly excited over the proposed removal of the Sioux into this country. They say the government is again proposing to violate the treaty stipulations by removing the Indians to their country without their consent. They characterize the action of the commission in agreeing to give the Sioux homes in the Territory of Oaklahoma as being similar to the one made by Satan on the mountain 1,800 years ago. There will be a united and solemn protest made by all these people against the consummation of this alleged outrage against the civilized as well as the Sioux Indians.

FOREIGN.

GREAT BRITAIN

War Items.

LONDON, 27.—The Times Belgrade dispatch says: There is much reason to fear that Prince Milan and his ministers are no longer their own masters in the question of peace or war. If the war is continued, and everything points in that direction, it will be a Russian war in Servia, until it becomes something more.

It is stated here, on Turkish authority, that the Porte is averse to a formal armistice, because that would inflame the fanatic element, with which it would be unable to cope. For the same reasons, the Porte may be afraid to consent to the conditions of peace submitted by the Powers. But the crisis admits of no hesitation. I believe the only chance of peace, and it is not more than a chance, lies in Turkey's prompt acceptance of all the conditions of the Powers; that also is her own best policy, for in a week there may be a different army in the Servian field. Hundreds of Russians are arriving daily. For one officer at Belgrade in the Servian uniform, you meet twenty in Russian. The situation is most alarming for the peace of Europe.

HOLLAND.

Reconciliation.

THE HAGUE, 27.—The Deutsch foreign minister announces in Chambers that there has been a reconciliation between Holland and Venezuela. Nothing now is wanting but the formal resumption of diplomatic relations.

AUSTRIA.

Prince Milan's Proclamation.

VIENNA, 27.—The Political Correspondence concludes with a semi-official article on the proclamation of Prince Milan, as King, as follows: The Austro-Hungarian government cannot allow any doubt to be entertained on one point, namely: That it would, in no case, be inclined to recognize the title of King if it were conferred on Prince Milan, and that all the principal consequences sought to be drawn from such an act would encounter its determined protests.

Crook's Official Report of His Late Fight with the Indians.

The following is the official account of General Crook's late fight with the Indians, dated Camp near Owl Creek, Dakota Territory, September 15th, forwarded to General Sheridan's headquarters at Chicago—

"Marched from Heart river, passing a great many trails of Indians going down all the different streams we crossed between Heart river and this point, apparently working their way in towards the different agencies. Although some of the trails seemed fresh, our animals were not in a condition to pursue them. From the North Fork of the Grand river I sent Captain Mills, of the 3d Cavalry, with 150 men, mounted on our strongest horses, to go in advance to Deadwood, to procure supplies of provisions. On the evening of the 8th, near Slime Buttes, he discovered a hostile village of thirty odd lodges, and lay by them that night, and the next morning attacked them by surprise, capturing the village, some provisions, and a number of ponies, and killed some of the Indians. Among the Indians was the chief American Horse, who died from his wounds after surrendering to us. Our own casualties were slight, but among them, was First Lt. Von Luettwitz, 3rd Cavalry, wounded seriously, and leg since amputated. In the village were found, besides great quantities of dried meat and ammunition, an army guidon, portions of officers' and non-commissioned officers' uniforms, and other indications that the Indians of this village had participated in the Custer massacre. Our main column got up about noon that day, and was shortly after attacked by a considerable body of Indians, who the prisoners said belonged to the village of Crazy Horse, who was camped somewhere between their own village and the Little Missouri River. This attack was undoubtedly made under the supposition that Captain Mills' command had received reinforcements. The prisoners further stated that most of the hostile Indians were now going into the agencies, with the exception of Crazy Horse and Sitting Bull with their immediate followers. Crazy Horse intended to remain near the headwaters of the Little Missouri, and about one-half of Sitting Bull's band, numbering from sixty to one hundred lodges, had gone north of the Yellowstone, while the remainder of that band, with some Sans Arcs, Minneconjous, and Uncapapas, had gone in the vicinity of Antelope Buttes, there to fatten their ponies and to trade with the Rees and others. I place great reliance in these statements from other evidence which I have. These Indians with Sitting Bull will amount probably to three or four hundred lodges, and, in my opinion, can very easily be struck by General Terry's column, provided it go in light marching order and keep under cover. Our prisoners also in their conversation fully confirmed in every particular my opinion as already telegraphed you. We had a very hard march here from Heart River. For eighty consecutive miles we did not have a particle of wood. During the greater portion of the time we were drenched by cold rains, which made traveling very heavy. A great many of the animals gave out and had to be abandoned. The others are now in such a weak condition that the greater number of them will not be able to resume the campaign until after a reasonable rest. I should like to have about 500 horses, preferably the half-breed horses, raised on the Laramie Plains or in the vicinity of Denver, and acclimated to this country. I intend to carry out the programme mentioned in my last dispatch via Fort Lincoln, and shall remain in the vicinity of Deadwood until the arrival of my wagon train.

"(Signed) GEO. CROOK,
"Brig. Gen."
