

PAINTS GLORY OF ANCIENT GREECE

Dr. George Horton, U. S. Consul
At Athens, Entertains Audience at Packard Library.

MODERN NATION PROGRESSING

Speaker Expresses Belief That Greeks
Will Prove Themselves Worthy
Their Ancestry.

Packard library was well filled with people last evening on the occasion of the lecture by Dr. George Horton, United States consul at Athens. Greece and her people was the theme of the speaker, and it was intended that the lecture be illustrated with stereoscopic views, but the machine placed at the disposal of Dr. Horton was not adapted to the pictures of the lecturer, and the part of the evening's entertainment had to be abandoned, much to the regret of the audience.

The address of Mr. Horton was very interesting and was listened to with great attention by all present. The story of ancient Greece, and the present condition of her sons and daughters in literature, in art and in beauty of face and form, were depicted. Then the decadence of the race, principally through the slavery that came upon the people, was dwelt upon. The speaker said that modern Greece is now rising into its own, and he believes that the time is not far distant when the Greeks will prove themselves worthy of their ancestry.

That Dr. Horton, perhaps no man better able to speak of Greece and Greeks, for he has studied both for the greater part of his life, has been in Athens for a long time and has a personal knowledge of the country and the people of which that city is the capital.

The consul is lecturing from coast to coast in America on the theme that he deems his heart. He came here from Los Angeles, and is hurrying eastward. Boston is the city where he will lecture last before sailing for London, and from the latter city he will go directly to Athens.

HAS WRITTEN BOOKS.

"Like Another Helen," "The Tempting of St. Anthony," and "The Monk's Treasure," are from the pen of Dr. Horton. At present he is engaged in writing a novel that has for its foundation Greek emigrant life in America, and to get necessary impressions for the same the author came over from the other shores in the steamer of an ocean liner that carried him to Greece and to get necessary impressions for the same the author came over from the other shores in the steamer of an ocean liner that carried him to Greece and to get necessary impressions for the same the author came over from the other shores in the steamer of an ocean liner that carried him to Greece.

GREEK ENTHUSIAST.

As stated, Dr. Horton is an enthusiast on everything Greek. He is one of the administration's strong young men in the diplomatic corps, and is keeping strictly in touch with the renaissance of Hellenism. After a night of weary travel, the Greeks are beginning to wake up a little. The speaker still hanging over the fair realm is the way of the "Sick Man of Europe." When Constantinople shall have become the capital of Greece then, and then only, will the heart of the Greek be made supremely glad. Superstition says that when Constantinople and a Sofia sit upon the Hellenic throne the happy consummation shall be realized. The present crown prince of Greece is a Greek, and Dr. Horton is of the opinion that those bearing the same name must needs come before the dream of the Greeks shall be realized.

MAKING RAPID STRIDES.

"The people of Greece are making rapid strides in progress and civilization," says Consul Horton. "The Greek tongue is now spoken by 18,000,000 people, though the population of the country is but 5,000,000. The Greek of today is a far more advanced man than he was a few years ago. He is now turning his eyes toward America more than to any other country beneath the sun, except the United States. Yearly $10,000,000 is sent to America by Greek emigrants, and is turning in this country. But for this fact, it would doubtless be the policy of the Greek government to restrict the number of its emigrants. A Greek will seldom marry with any other nationality, and he is never too far from his native land to send home for a wife."

REMOVED TO HOSPITAL.

Ms. Catherine Rowe to be Treated for Mental Malady.

Ms. Catherine Rowe, who was carried to the police station for a time because of mental derangement, and who was later placed in charge of a private family, has been removed to the hospital and mental hospital for treatment. She received kind attention at the McKoon home on South Temple street, and is said to have been treated by Christian Science, but without result. It was deemed advisable to send the unfortunate woman to the hospital.

Ms. Rowe came to Salt Lake several months ago, on route to the coast, but she did not go farther than Midway and returned to this city. Her former home was in New York, and it is said that she was there divorced, securing a new name, possibly as a result. She is well educated, and gives every appearance of refinement, but her mental faculties are seriously impaired.

MIGHT UTILIZE GAS.

U. S. Geological Survey Engaged in Interesting Experiments.

The U. S. geological survey is making experiments at Pittsburgh, Pa., and Denver, Colo., with reference to utilizing the gas from coke ovens for the production of gas engines. The Utah Fuel people were asked whether anything of that kind was feasible with the waste gas plants, but they said that while it was feasible enough, as far as the principle was concerned, the cost of rebuilding the ovens was so great that it would make it unprofitable. The company has now over 100 coke ovens in operation. But where an oven is built with the utilization of the gas in view, the scheme is feasible enough. It has been reported in some mechanical engineering that could the gas from the coke ovens be used for driving engines, an extensive electrical plant might be erected in connection with the scheme for distributing electricity over quite a part of the state, thus effecting a large reduction in coal consumption.

VARSTY WORKING ON PUNTING GAME

Maddock's Men Being Perfected
In the Art of Holding Ball.

GETTING READY FOR GOLDEN.

The Team is One of Colorado's Best
And Needs Strongest Treatment
Maddock Can Give.

At the university punting and receiving punts is the practice in vogue to the greatest extent. The team is working out its new men as the fact is now realized that they must be brought up into form of a higher quality than that so far displayed, in order to make a showing against such well organized teams as that at Golden and Boulder.

In some seasons over-playing has crippled the team before the big games and this year Utah is handicapped by the fact that the large Denver score has aroused Colorado teams that must meet Utah to the greatest activity. Golden, which is the next on the list, is out with a statement from Coach Ellsworth that he will put his men through the hardest kind of practice during the next two weeks to insure a Colorado victory. Golden is one of the state's leading strong institutions and each season fights it out with Boulder for first place, with Colorado college sometimes booming up with strong material.

Saturday next an all star aggregation from the alumni who booted the ball for Maddock will line up against the present holders for the diversion of the football element. What the game will result in the way of injuries is not yet foreseen by the doctors, but it is rumored that Jimmy Wade will fill his old shoes himself and prove how rusty a star can get with a few years out of the shining. The presence of an alumni body large enough to stir up a football game is a novelty at the university, and one that comes in with the changes of the past year or two.

The Alpine conference, advertised to be held on Saturday and Sunday, the 26th and 27th inst., will be held on Sunday the 27th inst. only, this in consequence of the busy best season being on, rendering it inconvenient for the people to attend meetings on Saturday.

JAPANESE PAPER.

"The Rocky Mountain Times" in the Mikado's Language Appears Here.

The rapid way in which colonies of foreigners are becoming located in Salt Lake and surrounding towns, is again evidenced in the fact that a Japanese paper has blossomed into life here, with weekly editions.

There is already a Greek paper here, several months old, and the Greek and Japanese colonies are beginning to assume considerable strength. Shiro Iida is editor of the Japanese paper, which is to appear weekly, printed entirely in Japanese. As there is no supply of Japanese type in the mountain country, the paper is edited here and sent to Los Angeles to be printed, the copies being returned by express. The editorial rooms are at 32 south West Temple street, and the subscription price is 2 cents per month. "The Rocky Mountain Times" is the name given the sheet, following out the Japanese custom of adopting the customs of the country instead of seeking to live by Japanese traditions. A large number of advertisements appear, mostly from Utah Japanese firms.

BADGER CLUB RECEPTION.

Sixty-eight former citizens of Wisconsin now resident in this city, and elsewhere in the state, met last night in the parlors of the Commercial club on the occasion of the first reception of the Badger club. There was music and after a banquet, a special feature of the evening being two live badgers.

Postum

is made of wheat which contains Phosphate of Potash. This combines with albumen in the blood to form new brain and nerve cells—builds up these important structures which ordinary coffee has a tendency to tear down.

If coffee seems to be causing your nervousness suppose you stop and use Postum for 10 days, and learn the truth. But be sure you "make it right"—boil it fully 15 minutes after it comes to a boil.

ABOUT 250 SAMPLE SUITS

EVERY ONCE IN A WHILE WE MAKE A LUCKY
PURCHASE of SAMPLES WAY UNDER MARKET PRICE.

How did the store happen to get them? This way: The last point on the traveling man's route was San Francisco.

There the trade bought from these samples. The traveling man could not turn over his samples there because his customers would not submit to the samples being sold and a sale made on them. It would demoralize the future selling of the suits bought from these samples.

The wise traveling man says nothing in San Francisco about that place being his last point. He came straight to Salt Lake and to this store.

"I'm all through!" he says. His samples were quickly inspected. They were elegant. There was individuality to every suit. The newest ideas were reflected.

One feature especially elated the buyer: there were so many leather shades, and not a house in the city had them.

Customers turned away every day. New York had been written and wired for these very shades. And here they were in the sample line.

Several of our customers are waiting for suits in leather shades. Now they will come in and buy at prices lower than they expected to pay.

Only one suit of a kind—and all the desirable shades: the new purple, the Copenhagen blue, leather shades, navy blue, green and a few fancy novelty stripes and invisible checks.

SALESMANSHIP CLASS.

J. D. Spencer Tells of Broad Field
Open for Trained Men.

The salesmanship class opened last evening at the Y. M. C. A. under the direction of J. Gustave White, director of education, and with J. D. Spencer as the lecturer. Mr. Spencer's topic was "The Opportunity and Need for Salesmen." He spoke of the increasing demand for trained men as salesmen, and the broad field open to them when equipped for this class of endeavor. Salesmanship is recognized as a profession now being reduced to a science. The theme was treated under the divisions of wholesale, retail and special sales, the latter requiring first to find a customer, then to create a desire and next to make the sale. A salesman ought to be a good talker. The attendance was good.

OLDEST PHOTOGRAPHER.

Death of a Notable Personality Occurs
At Eastbourne, Sussex, England.

At the age of 88 Mr. WILLIAM BARD Kent, who was regarded as the oldest photographer in the world, died at his residence at Eastbourne on Sunday, says the London Daily Mail.

Mr. Kent, who was as well known in the United States as in England, spent his early years in New England.

Mr. and Mrs. Bart Needham will give a dinner tonight at their home at No. 5 Summer avenue in honor of Mr. B. Grant, Mrs. Needham's father, who today celebrates his fifty-first birthday anniversary.

Miss Van Cott will begin a series of demonstrations, next Thursday evening at 8 p. m., Utah Gas & Coke Co. 40 practical and economical dishes will be given. Tickets may be obtained at the door.

MYSTERY SURROUNDS CASE.

Nothing Definite Yet Known as to Disappearance of Ernest Williams.

The whereabouts of Ernest Williams, the traveling salesman who left Salt Lake Sept. 8, are still unknown to his family and friends here, so far as known no one in this country has heard from him since the date mentioned. Many rumors are afloat concerning the missing man, one to the effect that he drew a large sum of money from the bank prior to his going away. This, however, is denied by his family.

Williams shipped his sample cases to Pocatello, Ida., as he was wont to do when taking a trip to the West state, but his hand satchel and order book were left behind. A dead man was recently found in a hotel at Blackfoot, and some thought that the remains might be those of Williams, but the idea was refuted by his friends. There is an air of mystery surrounding the affair that is causing much speculation in the minds of the people who are acquainted with Williams.

ford, Mass., which was then the headquarters of the whaling industry. A few years after Daguerre's invention he learned the art of photography, and in 1848 he opened his first studio in New York. So great was his success that after realizing a small fortune he came to England in 1854, and opened three London studios—one in Oxford street, one in Regent street, and another at Knightsbridge.

He had an intimate knowledge of the improvements successively introduced into photography, but for a time devoted his attention to a manufacturing business. A change in fortune, however, induced him to return to his first occupation, and in 1878 he opened a business in Eastbourne. At the time of his death he was also interested in business at Brighton, Hastings, Newcastle, and Harrogate.

As a young man Mr. Kent held a commission in the United States militia, and he had crossed the Atlantic 29 times. Only three years ago he undertook a long tour in the United States by himself, journeying as far south as Baltimore.

A teetotaler and non-smoker, he retained his mental faculties to the last, and only recently manifested a deep interest in a new method of photography portraits.

He was twice married, and leaves several sons and daughters.

Mr. Kent's father was the inventor of the knife-cleaning machine, which has so long been in use throughout the world.

THE ATLANTIC FLEET.

People of San Francisco Are Preparing For Its Reception.

Washington, Oct. 16.—The citizens of California, principally of San Francisco, are making ready to give a royal reception to the great fleet when it passes in the Golden Gate next spring. A general committee on entertainment and reception has been formed, comprising all the principal factions, and with an adequate supply of funds to defray the cost of entertainment, it is said that San Franciscans will extend to the fleet such a welcome as has never been known in naval history except upon the return to America of Admiral Dewey's fleet from the Philippines campaign.

The coast people are very anxious to have Admiral Dewey come out to San Francisco as the city's guest to add to the importance of the occasion, and the admiral and Rear-Admiral Brownson, chief of the bureau of navigation, have been considering whether they can spare the time to make the trip to San Francisco and, boarding one of the cruisers, which do not make up the Pacific fleet, formally inspect the big battleships upon their arrival on the coast.

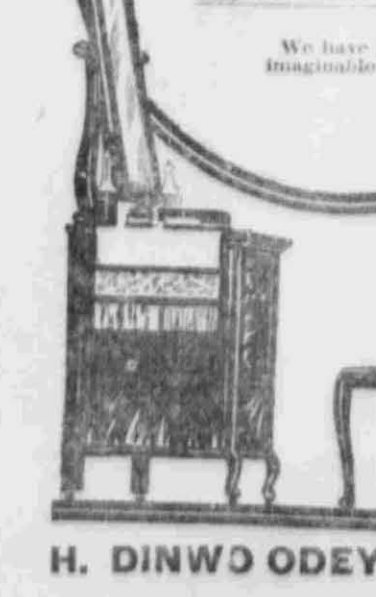

Admiral Dewey has advised the committee on entertainment that he hopes to be able to make the visit while the battleship fleet is in the harbor.
