FRAGMENTS.

Judge Stoker and Sheriff Wiley were down from Davis County today.

MANY gardeners and farmers are anxiously waiting for a rain storm.

C. R. SAYRE and Alfred Lambourn left for California on Saturday afternoon.

This evening Dr. Fred Clawson, surgical dentist will arrive from New York.

RECORDED H. M. WELLS is expected to reach home about the last of the week.

BAIRD'S MINSTRELS appear at the Theatre on Friday and Saturday evenings next.

THE PROVO MANUFACTURING Company has declared a dividend of $1 per share, payable in cash.

EDWIN BOOTH opens a five night engagement at the Theatre on April 12th, in "Richard III."

It will be a good thing when the City Council get an effective nuisance ordinance in force.

Mrs. MARGARET CLAWSON and Mrs. Phoebe Kimball are expected home from the east this evening.

PREPARATIONS are being pushed on the Utah & Northern to turn that road into a broad gauge in short order.

OPENING is worrying over the proposed erection of gas works. The people want the streets lighted.

THERE was one death from diphtheria in the Sixteenth Ward on Sunday night—a little daughter of Mrs. Smith.

THE family of C. C. Shaw, of Hyrum, Cache County, is now free from diphtheria, and the quarantine has been removed.

SANFORD has no sooner got rid of diphtheria and swallowed the test without a grimace, than an outbreak of "rimofore" is threatened.

WE have seen a portrait in crayon of Appleton Herbert J. Grant. It is from the hand of John B. Fairbanks, and is an excellent likeness, the best we have examined of the handwork of the artist.

CHIEF INSPECTOR MONROE, of the Postoffice Department, is now in Salt Lake. He is examining the affairs of the postoffice preparatory to turning it over to the newly-appointed Postmaster.

PATTI took $40.00 and Booth $50.00 during their respective engagements in San Francisco last week, but it is confidently predicted that Bernhardt will realize something between the two sums named during her approaching engagement there.

YESTERDAY morning an accident occurred at the depot whereby a little fellow named Austin broke his arm. He was holding a horse, which became frightened at a passing train, and threw him down with the result named.—Ogden Herald, March 28.

COMPLAINTS are made by the ushers and others in the Theatre that those who get up the programmes for performances are invariably too exacting. There are never more than half enough for the programme, and names and other details are either missing altogether or are not right.

THERE is in our advertising columns an announcement that Mr. David Anderson has a new house for sale, situated near the Eighth and Wild chapel. It is a neat, compact residence, with numerous conveniences, and admirably constructed for ventilation. It is two stories, with a garret in addition. The view obtained from the windows and roof is such as would be a constant feast to any lover of the beautiful.

WE think the Federal officials were a little previous in endeavoring to prosecute Elder Woodford on the charge of adultery with his polygamous consort. A little blunder was also made by the prosecution in conducting the examination, and the precedent thus established will give the Saints a cue to administer a similar snub to the Gentiles.—Park City Record, March 26th. That Park City man's head is not much muddled.

IN another part of the paper will be found a notice of the departure from this life of Sister W. P. Thomassen, wife of Brother P. O. Thomassen, of the 18th Ward. From a long personal acquaintance with the deceased, the writer learned to esteem her as an unassuming, kind hearted, faithful Latter-day Saint, religiously conscientious to a far more than ordinary degree. The bereaved family have our sympathy. So far as she is concerned, she has gone to enjoy the rest of the righteous.

IN the Police Court yesterday afternoon Wm. Bowden was tried and convicted of the offense of drunkenness and vagrancy. He declared that he worked for his living and was perfectly sober, but the testimony of the witnesses for the prosecution showed that the only work he engaged in was draining beer kegs that had been put out by saloon keepers as city, and that his "sober" was in fact a sometimes termed "dead drunk." He was sentenced to 30 days in jail, with employment on the gravel beds for that length of time.

A HORRIBLE MURDER.—The following special telegram appears in the San Francisco Chronicle:

"Benson (A. T.), March 23.—The brutal murder of Con Ryan, an old citizen of Arizona, is still the sensation of the hour. The coroner's jury is taking evidence under the direction of Judge Handfield of Crittenden. Some think that the same hand that killed Ryan some time ago for money was also the one which took the life of Ryan. The crime was discovered on the 20th inst. by Mrs. Deves of Crittenden, who entered the house, and not seeing Ryan looked through the back room, used as a store, and was horrified at seeing the remains of Ryan horribly cut up. His head was chopped to pieces. The weapon, a butcher's cleaver, was lying near by, all covered with blood. Two Mexicans who were in the employ of the deceased have fled, and as they are suspected of the crime officers are on their track, which leads toward Sonora."

Stock Fatality.—The past winter seems to have been the most severe on stock at all points north and east of Utah that has been experienced for many years. As evidence of this, it is stated that the Dakota Cattle Company had, a few months ago, 10,000 head of cattle, all looking fat and healthy, grazing on Iygon Kaiga range in that Territory. This great plain lies now buried in deep snow and but few of this splendid herd is now remaining. They lie in numbers from 50 to 200 in about a mile's distance. Some are piled together, which shows they had stood in the corner where Mr. Clapson's residence stands, going up City Creek Cañon road; the result was the vehicle was upset, and the old man thrown violently to the ground, lighting upon his forehead and making an ugly gash over his right eye. He died at once, as one of the men, Mr. Hoy made as comfortable as possible.

IN THE POLICE COURT.

THOMAS DANIELS AGAIN BATTERED SOME OF HIS ASSAILANTS IN CUSTODY.

There seems to be a regular conspiracy among the "toughs" who congregate around the D. & R. G. W. depot to state a few facts in relation to the "bone of contention" and the statement in the Ogden Herald of the 24th instant, "It is easy to charge up an offense but it is sometimes not so easy to prove it."

Perhaps it would be as well to refer back a few years. I am credibly informed that originally the road in Weber County, kept up by Morgan County. During the course of events a location was made at or near a point known as

THE DEVIL'S CHAIR, at the head of the Horse Shoe, supposed to be a vein of tin-bearing ore. At this date of affairs Weber County (for reasons best known to themselves) became anxious to have the line between Morgan and Weber counties definitely located, and surveys from Morgan, Weber and Davis counties surveyed and located the county line at the Devil's Chair. At this time Weber County put the line in the Horse Shoe in repair, and until the washout, some three years ago, kept up the same. While the road was impassable in the spring of 1884, Bishop Whitaker had a valuable mare killed at this point, and on his application to the authorities of Weber County for compensation, he was informed that they had ABANDONED THE ROAD.

This, I believe, was the first ultimatum of that fact. As soon as the high waters subsided the people of Morgan, Davis and Weber counties donated work and material to the amount of about $200 to keep the road in a passable condition, and have since kept the same in good order. Subsequent to this the county line was relocated by the Weber counties, the initial point being the Devil's Chair. In 1885 a petition was circulated in the southern portion of Weber County, and signed by over 100 resident taxpayers, praying the County Court to do something about the road.

I am not aware that any action was ever taken in the matter. It is a well authenticated fact that the people of Weber County constitute about one-fifth of the population of the cañon, and that said county receives CONSIDERABLE REVENUE from the railroad therein located. It is not my desire to cast any undue censure on the authorities of that county, but this disputed road certainly comes in some county and is an increasing development should be seen to at once, before some more serious accident occurs.

Respectfully,
C. W. ROCKWOOD.

From Prison.—To-day John C. Gray, who was sentenced to six months' imprisonment and to pay a fine of $25 and the costs of the prosecution, upon his refusal to promise to obey the Edmunds law, was released from the penitentiary, his fine having been paid.

Killed at Rock Springs.—Last Monday afternoon Abel Hickman, lately from England, but who has been engaged in the coal mines at Rock Springs, Wyoming, went into No. 4 mine to find out the reason why a shot he had fired had not brought down any coal. He had just reached the room to make an examination, when several tons of coal immediately overhead gave way, crushing him. Death was instantaneous. He leaves a wife and two children.

A Building Trouble.—A difficulty, which is not yet bridged over, has occurred between Mr. Karkick, the lessee and occupant of the "White Elephant" saloon, Mr. Clark. The former is excavating north of the latter place for a large building and owns the ground on which the north wall of it is situated, about 14 inches in width. To-day, the Karkick party had the fixtures moved, were putting in a false wall and going ahead with the excavation. Mr. Clark, it is understood, stands on his protest, and will probably have something to say about damages when things get settled down.

Baird's Minstrels.—We copy the following from an eastern exchange:

"The opera house opened the season last night, the attraction being Baird's Minstrels, which we take pleasure in pronouncing the finest company in that line ever seen in Bonham. The performance, all through, was a succession of pleasant surprises, and gave the best of satisfaction. They carry a large and very fine band and their own air concert, in front of the opera house, previous to the performance, was highly complimented by all who heard it. Our amusement going citizens will be glad to welcome Baird's Minstrels whenever they may return. Their appearance on the street led us to expect a dramatic performance, and we were not disappointed. Mr. Baird is one of the most successful managers on the road, and his success is certainly deserved."

Court Notes.—Proceedings in the Third District Court to-day:

Andrew Anderson, Andrew Nelson, John McLeary and A. B. Barton were admitted to citizenship.

W. A. Dunbar vs. John Morgan et al.; continued for the term at the cost of the defendants.

Wm. Perigo vs. Thos. Smith et al.; motion to set aside dismissal and reinstatement case allowed.

Salt Lake City vs. Mark Tobias; motion to allow defendant's attorney's fee denied.

Andrew C. Bixen vs. Deseret National Bank; trial before jury; case argued and submitted.

Sarah P. Castle vs. Edward Bohn; Henry P. Burns appointed guardian ad litem of Sarah P. Castle upon motion of Kosborough & Merritt, attorneys for said minor.

Augustus Podlech vs. E. D. Egan; continued for the term.

Reese vs. Kinney et al.; dismissed on motion of plaintiff.

An Astrakhan band of Nihilists made an underground passage to the post-office, which they entered and robbed of letters to the value of $125.00.

*New York seems perfectly willing to furnish the sepulchres of its dead to a limited extent, but when it comes to erecting monuments to their memories the city is very reticent. The mill-liners of the metropolis close their purses with a significant snap. The Statue of Liberty had a rough time of it in securing the necessary funds, the great Grant monument has failed to materialize, and now it is said that the city is about to erect a monument to the memory of a man who died in 1830. The total amount subscribed to March 21 was $3,000, of which $500 was contributed by one person.

Speaking of the defenseless condition of our coasts, Admiral Porter says: "In nine mile circular fire there are European ironclads that could today, if anchored off Coney Island, reach nearly all States Island, a large section of Bergen neck, the Southern railroad docks at Jersey City and all the lower portions of New York City or nearly a quarter of a mile above the City Hall—all Brooklyn to near the corner where Mr. Clapson's River bridge and the navy yard, Jamaica Bay and Rockaway Beach, with the mortar which is now being experimented upon abroad. It would be possible to shell a few of these mortar boats to devastate the country for miles around."

THE DEVIL'S GATE ROAD.

MR. ROCKWOOD SHOWS IT UP—WEBER COUNTY'S "ABANDONMENT."—THE ROAD SHOULD BE FIXED.

PETERSON, MORGAN CO., March 26th, 1886.

Editor Deseret News: If it would not be trespassing too much on your space I would like to state a few facts in relation to the "bone of contention" and the statement in the Ogden Herald of the 24th instant, "It is easy to charge up an offense but it is sometimes not so easy to prove it."

Perhaps it would be as well to refer back a few years. I am credibly informed that originally the road in Weber County, kept up by Morgan County. During the course of events a location was made at or near a point known as

The man who has twice revolutionized the world, and who has constructed with the London press is pleased to call "the diabolical masterpiece of American ingenuity," is eighty-three years of age, but he is hale and hearty, and his work capacity exceeds that of most men of sixty. Captain John Ericsson, the genius in question, attributes his health and vigor to the good constitution with which he was endowed by his Swedish parents, to his regular habits and to daily physical exercise. Winter and summer he rises at 7. After an hour's practice in a large, well ventilated and completely appointed gymnasium at the top of the house, in exercise the thing every muscle of the body into play, he takes a tepid bath, followed by a cold shower and a vigorous rubbing with rough towels. Having dressed he comes down to, with a good appetite, a breakfast of fruit, milk, a brown bread of his own invention, eggs and a chop. Coffee is tabooed. After glancing over the papers and reading his mail, he betakes himself to his work room. He drinks neither wine, beer nor spirits, and does not use tobacco in any form.

The Burfords, it is said, owned the finest farms, the best whisky and the fleetest horses in Kentucky, but a singular fatality attended them and the race is now extinct. Shortly before the war, Bishop Burford was shot and killed in the court house at Versailles, Ky., by George Carter. A few years ago Gen. Abe Burford's fortune slipped away from him, and depressed at his loss he committed suicide in Indiana. A year or two later his brother Tom, smarting under the conviction that he had been unjustly deprived of his legal rights by the courts, shot down in the streets of Frankfort, Judge Elliott, of the court of appeals, and subsequently died a madman. The fate of Tom weighed heavily on the mind of Henry and no doubt shortened his days. Quite recently he died suddenly, the last of the four ill-fated brothers, who were once noted for their wealth, hospitality, courage and decision.

DEATHS.
