WIFE NOT SO MAD AS HUSBAND SAYS

Mrs. Anna Studness Declares She is Not Eligible for Mental Asylum.

CALLS IT A CONSPIRACY.

Lunacy Commission After Hearing Both Sides Postpones Action for a Month-Sensational Accusations.

When Mrs. Anna Studness, the wife of Edward T. Studness, proprietor of the Lion drug store at Third South and State streets, was arraigned before the lunacy commission this morn ing in Judge Lewis' court, she charged her husband with attempting to send her to the insane asylum in order to get possession of their property. In detail she told of her domestic unhappiness and that he had been cruel in his treatment of her, and wanted her to get a divorce from him. She appeared to be rational in her statements, except that she was nervous and somewhat excited. But she stated that she had excited. But she stated that she had excited. But she stated that she had enough money to go to a private sanitarium and take a treatment for the nervous troubles which she claimed had been brought on by the cruel actions of her husband. She pleaded with the physicians not to send her to the asylum on the testimony of her husband. It was upon the recommendaband. It was upon the recommenda-tion of Judge Lewis that further hear ing of her case would be postponed for a month and in the meantime that she could go to a private institution and re-ceive treatment for her nervous afflic-

IS PERFECTLY RATIONAL. Studness swore to the affidavit that he believed that his wife was insane. When she was taken to the county jall Sunday night she seemed to be perfectly rational. She declared at that time that her husband was attempting to put her in a madhouse and that he had broken down her health by his cruel actions.

a family of three children. The fam-ily lives at: 43 Eighth East street. Studness has considerable property and is considered to be wealthy.

is considered to be wealthy.

When Studness was sworn he took the witness stand and testified that Mrs. Studness had been in ill health some time, and wandered about at night. It developed from the statement made by Mrs. Studness that this was in 1908 before she was operated on for the trouble which caused it. Dr. E. Viko, who operated on the woman, was called and said that after the operation her health improved. He never knew of her afterward wandering out in the nights.

Mrs. Stuffness said that she had often left home on account of her husband's treatment and had not lived with him as a wife for more than a year. She declared that for months she had dreaded her husband to come home. If it was not for the children, she said, she would have secured a divorce long ago, before her health was broken down.

AUSTRAIN ARRAIGNED ON CHARGE OF MURDER

John Kothiaftis Pleads Not-Guilty to Killing a Fellow Countryman At Bingham Junction.

John Kothiaftis, an Austrian, was arraigned before Judge Lewis this norning in the Third district court and entered a plea of not guilty to the charge of murdering Peter Getis, another Austrian, in the first degree. The shooting occurred in a saloon at Bingham Junction on Dec. 23, 1908.

Before Kothiaftis was allowed to plead, his attorneys demurred to the information. Then a motion to set aside the information was argued. It was held that Kothiaftis was charged with murder in the first degree, in the information and that he was given a preliminary hearing on the charge of murder in the second degree. other Austrian, in the first degree. #### SELLING BEER TO MINORS.

Salt Palace Bar Keener Arrested on Warrant This Afternoon.

Fred Böreham, bartender for Heath Bros., who are conducting a saloon in Bros., who are conducting a saloon in opposition to their father, Frederick Heath, proprietor of the Salt Palace, was arrested this afternoon, on a warrant sworn to by Deputy Probation Officer Charles Sperry charging him with selling beer to minors. The complaint alleges that Boreham sold a bucket of beer to Harrison Butcher, 14 years old, on Saturday.

The probation officers says that this saloon is conducted in a manner to get all the trade the proprietors can and will sell liquor to minors as soon as to anybody else. It is claimed that the hoys in that neighborhood have been "rushing the growler" every day since the saloon was opened.

ever it is that's batted back and forth, and now its Chlef Barlow's turn to serve.

It is some years ago that Ellen, tired of Evanston and attracted by Salt Lake, arrived here, and became attached to the women's ward of the city jall. She made it a home for a couple of years, only leaving it at the end of 20, 60 and 30 days' periods and her excursions were only for the brief period of a day or two at the most, sometimes she was only gone a couple of nours. Ellen wore her welcome out and a way was found to send her back to Evanston. Not for Evanston, though—not for more than four hours, or until the westbound passenger train pulled into the depot, when the Evanston authorities, with a full appreciation of Ellen and with a sympathetic feeling for her homesickness for Salt Lake, kindly placed her on board the train with a ticket for Salt Lake.

Since them Ellen has made the police station her home again, except for the occasional jaunis downtown to meet her old friends, until last week Chief Barlow for home again, except for the occasional jaunis downtown to meet her old friends, until last week Chief Barlow for home again, except for the occasional jaunis downtown to meet her could go back to Evanston and get a home there. So many times his Ellen Matron Glifford to accompany the homesceker as far as Ogden and seer that she was safely placed on the Evanston bound train. That was done, and since then the police have chuckled many a time to think that Ellen was gone.

Ellen went-but this forchoon she was around her old faunits, greeting her old cronies on Commercial street and preparing for her return visit to police headquarters, which is likely to take place before sundown. Meantime Chief Barlow is to get a future home.

CAINE AWARDED BIG JUDGMENT

Wins Suit for $236,000 Against Frank Hagenbarth on Mining Deal.

Joseph E. Caine was awarded judgment for $236,000 this morning against Frank J. Hagenbarth by Judge Lewis, after having the case under advisoment for nearly a year.

The action was brought to recover 200,000 for the sale of an option on the Ludwig mine in Yerrington, Nev., which Caine sold to Hagenbarth. In the trial of the case Hagenbarth conthe trial of the case Hagenbarth con-tended that he was not required to pay the amount of the option because he had not exercised it. But Caine de-clared that the sale of the option for a certain period was outright and the court upheld the sale. When the op-tion was delivered, Hagenbarth ad-vanced $10.000. In the judgment Caine recovers the remaining principal, $190,-000, with interest. Attorney C. Stanley one, with interest. Attorney C. Stanley Price was the attorney for Mr. Caine. The option was executed Feb. 7, 1907, to expire Sept. 7, 1907, but was not taken up by Hagenbarth at that time, but other arrangements were made to nurshase.

IS UNDER ADVISEMENT.

Judge Marshall Withholds Decision On Unique Point of Law.

The paint of law as to whether or not the property of the Indians when stolen comes under federal laws or state laws, was argued this morning in the United States district court before Judge John A. Marshall, in the case of Allison A. George, who was in-dicted by the federal grand jury for stealing about 12 head of cattle from an Indian on the Ulntah reservation. Judge Marshah took the matter under advisement.

The point is an interesting one and has not been settled before. A somewhat similar case, known as the Rickett's case, came up before a United States circuit court in 1890, when it was sought to be maintained that the cattle of Indians was subject to county faxes. It was then decided that such property was really the property of the United States put into the hands of the Indians to enable the government to execute its purpose in reference to them. It was also held that the government was interested in the property, as if it should be taxed and sold for taxes, the purpose of the government in giving it to the Indians would be nullified, as the Indians could not then maintain themselves on their alloted lands. not then maintain themselves on their alloted lands.

William Probst Thrown from His Wagon and His Age May Add

William Probst, aged 74 years, driver of a mail wagon between the depots and the postoffice, was badly injured his morning in a runaway. It happened just after he had received the mail rom the 10:40 train, when the horse bolted and threw him out. He was picked up and carried to the depot, where everything was done for his comfort. As soon as possible. J. L. Cunningham contractor for the delivery of the mail, visited the injured man, and offered to supply a carriage to take him home but he said he was feeling too bad to move. He was made easy at the depot and later was taken to his home at 238 east Fifth South street. Just how badly hurt the old man is could not be learned, though on account of his age, it is thought the accident may be serious.

The horse was stopped after it had run from the depot to Third West and turned north towards the O. S. L. depot. horse bolted and threw him out. He

LYMAN J. GAGE A VISITOR.

Said to be En Route to Scene of Woodill Murder.

Lyman J. Gage, secretary of the treasury under the administration of President McKinley, and a well known panker, is in the city, having come in banker, is in the city, having come in on yesterday's Los Angeles limited. It is hinted that Mr. Gage is en route to the scene of the recent murder of Mrs. Edith Woodill, who was his ward for several years when he was in the official life of Washington. Mr. Gage could not be found this afternoon to confirm of deny the report. Since the tragedy Mr. Gage has denied himself to reporters and has said very little about Mrs. Woedill and his association with her. Mr. Gage was a banker from 17 years of age, when he entered the employ of an Oneida, N. Y., bank, having ricen from that place to the head of several of the most important financial institutions in the United States and then to the head of the treasury department of the United States. He is the guest of Samuel Newhouse while in the city.

REFINING THE FINEST.

Salt Lake Police Force to be Put Through Physical Culture Mill.

in two or three days, Salt Lake's "fin-est" is going to be put through the refining process. When the process is completed, the article will be branded superfine, it is hoped, by Chief of Police Barlow, who is still cogitating on some of the things he observed during his recent eastern trip.

The body of men in the department today are "picked," men, of course, and individually are all good men, alert, brave and intrepid officers and unfilching at the call of duty; of late they have been having revolver practice, and in competition starting from the ground they have climbed a rung or two on the ladder; but when it comes to twos right, the "two" is pretty straggling, fours or squads left is something that has to be thought over, and squads right front into line for platoon formation, is a mass and thouse the rule. tion is a maze—and there's the rub, or rather the distinction between the finest and the superfine.

This afternoon Chief Barlow is on the hunt for a drill hall with the large room of the fire department headquarters in mind. Tomorrow the order will be issued and then next day, if the be issued and then next day, if the program carries out, it will be daily drill for each relief. By the time of the G. A. R. encampment there will be a noticeable difference in the escorting platoons of police, the soldlers of the city. Chests will be thrown out, the point of roundity equalized between front and back, shoulders square, head erect with chin drawn in, and—well, other things that will give a soldierly bearing on the soldierly occasion, and then it will be kept up when the men resume their beats after the glory of the event and when they have shown that they can do it.
