POLE STOPS HORSES.

A telephone pole at Third South and State streets stopped a team of runaway horses hauling a load of structural steel, yesterday afternoon. The team was standing in front of 237 State street, when a passing automobile frightened the horses and down the street they went. The pole was, fortunately, in the way, and as the runaway struck it the wagon pole flew into kindling. The horses, thrown down by the shock, were secured before they could go any further. The team belonged to the Silver Brothers company.
