

WILL PROSECUTE VIBORG SIGNERS

Proceedings Started Against Certain Members of the Russian Parliament.

FOR VIOLATING CRIMINAL CODE

The Charge is Attempting to Overthrow the Existing Government.

St. Petersburg, July 26.—The public prosecutor has started proceedings against the members of the lower house of parliament who signed the Viborg manifesto.

The charges under which the signers of the manifesto will be brought to trial is violation of article 119 of the criminal code, which provides for "attempts to overthrow the existing government." This is virtually high treason, and the maximum penalty is hard labor in the mines.

No arrests yet have been reported, and the Constitutional Democrats do not anticipate anything approaching punishment of their representatives. It is understood that the arrested will be admitted to bail pending trial. The Constitutional Democrats are chiefly apprehensive that the possibility of prosecution held over the heads of their leaders will render them ineligible for reelection in the same manner that Prof. Milukoff and M. Hessel and other were excluded from the last lower house.

Socialists and radical members of the late house may have to cool their heels in cells for a long time and thus be prevented from continuing the full-fledged revolutionary agitation upon which they are now embarked.

Many of these ex-members are now living under cover in the houses of friends in St. Petersburg or have gone into hiding in the provinces. A correspondent of the Associated Press reports that two Russian ex-deputies who had cut off their hair and beards and who could scarcely be recognized.

The motives of the government for abandoning its attitude not to prosecute the signers of the Viborg manifesto, as set forth recently by Premier Stolypin in an interview, is not stated, but evidently it was influenced by the need of doing something to counteract the effect of the Viborg address. This has attained an enormous circulation in the provinces in spite of the greatest efforts on the part of the administration to prevent its publication. "Seizure" of the Bessed printing plant here by armed revolutionists for the purpose of getting out copies of the Viborg address was duplicated today in Yakutsk, but it is believed that this forcible occupation of printing offices is a bit of amateur theatricals arranged between the proprietors of the establishments and the revolutionists to save the former from responsibility. This same method was employed to effect in the printing of the illegal organ of the workers' council of St. Petersburg last winter.

A manifesto to the peasants of Russia has been issued in the last names of all the various labor, socialist and revolutionary organizations, including the representatives of these organizations in the defunct lower house. This manifesto declares that the hopes reposed in the lower house of parliament must be abandoned, and that the revolutionaries must in conjunction with the troops seize the liberty and take the land which the government has denied them. The land thus possessed must be handed over to the popularly elected representatives pending the elaboration of a new land law.

The manifesto calls for elections on the basis of universal suffrage and concludes with the words: "Down with the government and the emperor. Long live the dear and free Russian people."

S. F. INSURANCE.

The committee has been asked to make a report on the concerns that are said to be evading their liabilities. Sec. T. M. King of the Polytechnic Protective League admitted that such a report is in his hands, but stated that it is strictly private and rendered solely for the guidance of the league in formulating its policy toward the insurance companies. He declined to divulge the contents of the document, in which it is said many concerns will find their fate when it comes to be spread broadcast over the world.

S. S. S. FOR THE BLOOD

The purifying action and curative properties of this great remedy have made "S. S. S. For the Blood" a household saying, and thousands who are today enjoying perfect health owe their recovery from blood or skin diseases to this universally used blood medicine. S. S. S. is made entirely from roots, herbs and barks which possess not only cleansing and healing ingredients, but building-up and strengthening properties to keep the blood in perfect order. No one can be well when the blood is impure; they lack the energy and strength that is natural with health, the complexion becomes pale and sallow, the vitality is weakened and they suffer from a general broken down condition. When the waste or refuse matter, which nature intends shall be thrown off, is left in the system because of a sluggish, torpid condition of the expelling members, it is absorbed into the blood, making this vital stream weak, sour and acid, and its condition is manifested by boils, pimples, rashes, blotches and other eruptions of the skin. S. S. S. goes into the circulation and removes every particle of blood taint or poison of every character, makes the blood fresh and strong and gives energy to the entire body. When the blood has been cleansed by S. S. S. all skin diseases and eruptions pass away and the smooth, clear skin, glowing with health, shows that the body is being nourished by rich, pure blood. Rheumatism, Catarrh, Sores and Ulcers, Scrofula, Contagious Blood Poison, etc., are all deep-seated blood disorders, and for their cure nothing equals S. S. S. It does not injuriously affect the most delicate parts of the body and can be taken with perfect safety by old or young. Book on the blood and any medical advice desired without charge.

CIRCULAR LETTER TO COMMON CARRIERS.

Washington, July 3.—A circular letter has been sent by the interstate commerce commission to all common carriers subject to the provisions of the recently enacted railroad rate law, directing their special attention to the provisions of section 20 of the act, which requires annual reports from all common carriers concerning the details of their business, and providing that the interstate commerce commission may describe the forms of any and all accounts, records and memoranda to be kept by the carriers. To these accounts and records and memoranda the commission is to have access at all times and the carriers are prohibited from keeping their accounts, etc., in any other form. The commission says in its circular letter:

"As to that portion of section 20 of the act which confers authority upon the commission to prescribe the forms of all accounts, records and memoranda which forbid carriers from keeping any other accounts, records or memoranda than those prescribed or approved by the commission, the carriers are advised that until the commission shall by order or otherwise prescribe the accounts, records or memoranda to be kept by any or all carriers subject to the statute no change in methods of accounting is required of any such carrier. On and after Aug. 23, 1906, the authority of the commission to inspect the books and accounts of the carriers will, of course, apply. The commission fully realizes the necessity of establishing as soon as possible a satisfactory system of accounting for carriers engaged in the transportation of commerce under the provisions of the regulating statute and has determined to proceed immediately in the work of arranging and preparing for the discharge of its duty in the matter of prescribing such accounts, records and memoranda and all practical uniformity in the accounting systems of the carriers."

JAIL OR ASYLUM.

That is Alternative Facing a Well Known Seattle Real Estate Man.

Portland, Or., July 30.—The Oregonian tomorrow will say:

"Arrested on a charge of embezzling $25,000 in Chicago, eight years ago, Paul J. Mahoney, a prominent Seattle real estate broker, who for the past few weeks has been an inmate of a private sanitarium in this city, is facing the unpleasant prospect of a term in jail or confinement in a lunatic asylum. On the report of a committee of physicians, appointed by Judge Webster to examine into Mahoney's mental condition, the law court in the matter. Step by step since he disappeared from the Windy City in 1918, Pinkerton detectives have been following Mahoney's trail. From Illinois to Texas, from Texas to California and from California to the state of Washington, they dogged his footsteps until they located him in Seattle about four months ago. Then after they had communicated with their clients, the losers by Mahoney's alleged peculations, and the trap was about to be sprung, their plans were again foiled by the action of Mahoney's relatives and friends in removing him to this city on the ground that his mind had become affected by business worries, necessitating his confinement in a private asylum."

"The case came to an end in this city yesterday, when detectives of the local police department placed Mahoney under arrest at a sanitarium on a fugitive warrant sworn out by I. W. Grier, a Chicago lawyer who had come to Portland to take the case when the work of the Pinkertons ended and secure the extradition of the alleged embezzler."

"At the present time neither the Portland detectives nor the Chicago lawyer will discuss the case and what happened during the insanity hearing is also a closed book. On this account few details as to Mahoney's alleged crime, or as to his wanderings since leaving Chicago, are obtainable. It is asserted, however, that for some time prior to 1918 he had been conducting an investment business in Chicago and that his alleged victims were for the most part women ignorant of business methods, including many widows, who were induced to entrust their money to him."

MRS. COREY GETS DIVORCE IN NEVADA

Case Submitted Without Argument, Jury Taking But One Ballot.

GIVEN CUSTODY OF HER SON.

Husband Was Anxious for Decree As Wife—Alimony Not Mentioned.

Reno, July 30.—At 2 o'clock this afternoon Mrs. William Ellis Corey, wife of the president of the United States Steel corporation, was awarded a divorce in the second district court of Nevada, sitting at Reno. The case was submitted without argument, and the jury took but one ballot. It was out but a few minutes.

Mrs. Corey was in tears when told that she had been given a divorce and the custody of her 16-year-old son, Allan Corey. She drove at once to her home on Riverside avenue, where she says she will continue to make her home. No evidence was submitted by the defense, and there was no argument.

The question of alimony was not introduced. Mrs. Corey made an interesting admission, however, touching upon this phase of the case, stating that in May, 1905, several weeks before her petition for divorce was filed, she negotiated, through her attorneys, a final settlement with her husband. She was not asked what the nature of this settlement was.

"I am a resident of Reno, Nev.," said Mrs. Corey when asked by the cashier, "and the wife of William Ellis Corey, the defendant in this action. We were married on Dec. 1, 1903, at Pittsburgh, Pa., and lived together until May 1, 1905. At that time my husband deserted me and went to New York. I followed him and held a conversation with him in the Hotel Lorraine. It was there that he told me that he had decided to live apart. He said that it was impossible for us to live happily together, and that I would never see him again. He stated that he intended going to Europe for several months. There was no scene. I talked with him about the matter, and urged him to again resume his place in our home, but he refused. I have never seen him since."

Mrs. Corey added that she came to Reno for her health, and that she had no intention of bringing an action for divorce at the time she took up her residence in Nevada. She stated that she selected Reno upon the advice of her sister-in-law, Addie Corey, and that they considered this place their future home, and expected to live here in the future. She stated that she was best suited for the custody of her son, and asked that the court place him in her care.

Mrs. Corey was visibly affected while telling her story, but testified without evasion and in a clear voice. Her attorneys feared that she would collapse, as her health had suffered seriously since the separation.

In his closing statement her attorney, J. R. Redding, stated that she had been driven to a separation and the divorce proceedings by the sensational stories printed in the newspapers. "If it true that newspaper notoriety was the principal factor in your separation from Mr. Corey, and is responsible for this divorce proceedings," asked Benjamin Currier, one of her attorneys, "Such is not the case. The stories that may have appeared in the press had nothing to do with it."

"Miss Addie Corey was an interesting witness from Mr. Corey's standpoint, statements that Corey had deserted his wife, and told how she and her aged mother had made several ineffectual attempts to effect a reconciliation. Her brother, she said, had lost sight of his time, being absorbed in business and infatuated with the fast life of New York."

"Do you consider Mr. Corey a proper custodian for his son?" she was asked. "I do not," she replied. "Why?"

"For the reason," she said, "that he is not a proper person for his son to associate with. He has no home, and his associates are not fit companions for a young man of Allan's age. I do not think any New York man is fit to have charge of a boy of his age."

"Do you mean all New York men?" continued the attorney. "I mean wealthy New York men."

Allan Corey stated that at the time of the parting his father called him to his office and told him that he had decided to part from his mother. "He said I was too young to understand the reasons. He then said that my mother was a good woman and that my place was at her side."

Several witnesses were introduced to establish the residence in Nevada of the plaintiff, all being citizens of Reno. At the conclusion of the trial Atty. Sardis Summerfield stated that his client, William E. Corey, was anxious for the decree of divorce as his wife. "If the decree is granted," he said, "Mr. Corey will be entirely satisfied. He has consented to the divorce. This understanding between Mr. Corey and the attorneys of Mrs. Corey was reached some time ago."
