

ATTEMPTS ESCAPE IS SHOT BY GUARD

Mike Aaron, Ex-Convict, Brought Down By Bullet from Harris' Gun.

DIES AT ST. MARK'S HOSPITAL

Meets Death While Making a Break
From Chain Gang—Shot
Through the Head.

Mike Aaron, alias Ahearn, alias Bernstein, ex-convict, petty thief and vagrant, was shot through the head by Policeman George Harris, one of the guards on the chain gang, in City creek canyon, about 3:30 yesterday afternoon. Aaron died at St. Mark's hospital at 8:30. He was shot while trying to escape from the chain gang. Two shots were fired by Harris. The first shot was fired in the air by Guard Kast. The others, according to Guard Harris, were fired at the man's legs. One of the bullets struck Aaron just above the left ear and came out on top of his head.

When the chain gang was taken out yesterday morning, Aaron said to one of the prisoners that he proposed to escape from the gang. He was serving a sentence of 30 days for vagrancy. Harris overheard the remark and warned the man that he had better not try to get away.

The gang was divided yesterday afternoon. Guard Kast having charge of one division, and Harris watching the other about a block away from Kast. With Aaron five other prisoners were at work. The man asked permission to go to the creek for a drink of water, and Kast permitted him to go. Aaron dashed into the brush and began to run. Kast called upon him to halt and then fired a shot in the air to attract the attention of Harris. The escaping prisoner was going in the direction of the other gang. Harris heard the shot and soon spied Aaron running along the hill about 100 yards from the guard. Harris called upon him to halt, but the man paid no attention to him. He ran in a crouched position and seemed to care nothing for the desperate chances he was taking. Harris fired a shot at the man's legs. Aaron stopped for a moment and then ran on. Harris fired a second shot, he says at Aaron's legs, but just as the shot was fired, Aaron dropped down and the bullet struck him in the head. He fell and Harris hurried to the man. At first the guard thought the man was only shamming and ordered him to get up. Then Harris saw blood flowing from the wounded man's head.

Word was at once sent to police headquarters and the patrol wagon hurried to the scene. The wounded prisoner was hurried to the emergency hospital, where Dr. S. G. Paul made an examination. The physician at first thought Aaron had a chance for recovery and sent him to St. Mark's hospital, where he died at 8:30.

"I called on the man three times to stop before I shot," said Harris. "He was running in a crouched position, and I fired at his legs. I called on him repeatedly to come back to the gang but he only ran the faster. The last shot I fired is the one that hit him. I aimed at his legs but he was in a crouched position and just as I fired he went down an incline and the bullet struck his head."

Aaron was well known to the peace officers of this city. He was a German Jew, and came to Salt Lake in the fall of 1900. He served several terms in the city jail for various offenses, and on one occasion tried to escape from Deputy Sheriff Sperry. The latter fired at the man and struck him in the head. Shortly after this episode Aaron was convicted of grand larceny and was sentenced to one year in the Utah state prison. After his release he was arrested several times. He also served two years in the Montana state prison for robbery. Aaron made a practice of selling phony jewelry and recently served a term in the county jail for smuggling morphine and other drugs into the state prison. Aaron was arrested for vagrancy some time ago and was given what the police call a "hokey." He failed to leave town and was arrested and sent to work on the chain gang for a period of three months. The man came here from Montreal where his parents reside. His father and brother are in business there. His relatives have been notified by telegraph of Aaron's death. The body was taken to O'Donnell's undertaking parlors.

The inquest and inquiry into the circumstances of the shooting were set for 3 o'clock this afternoon in Justice Dana T. Smith's court.

Why the Grand Jury Wants Frank J. Sefrit

The problem of bringing to Utah peace and good fellowship between all the inhabitants of the fair state, has ever been made difficult by the presence here of those with whom citizens of one faith have the same chance in argument that the sparrow has with the hungry sparrow hawk.

When U. S. Judge Drummond half a century ago, after being exposed here by his own wife in the personal infamy of sitting on the judicial bench in company with a public woman imported with him, and introduced as his wife, carried tales of treason in Utah to the national capital, he stood revealed before the whole nation as a discredited falsifier, within one year after the nation had expended $30,000,000 in money to investigate his charges.

Drummond was a full brother in his day to the man of a latter generation who sank his reputation as a representative of a great religious body in a false affidavit on Senator Smoot's family relationship, and to another man who today, were he present in Salt Lake City, would have an opportunity to show his color before a United States grand jury, in regard to declarations made in the Salt Lake Tribune March 23.

The threat of the Tribune on that date, given in black type on the front page, was written at a time when Samuel Dowse was still peddling the essential declarations of the article, and before the certainty of having an opportunity to face a grand jury with the data back of such a declaration was made known.

Here it is.

"A conspiracy has been connected to protect the criminals and smirch the reputation of honest men—a conspiracy that is as black as that entered into to protect the scoundrels who shot to death 124 innocent, unprotected and unarmed emigrants in southern Utah 50 years ago."

"The guilty ones are fencing themselves about with all evidence possible. Their friends are busy defending them and circulating the most shameful and baseless stories tending to incriminate men who are innocent."

"Will the truth of the bank robbery ever be made public? Yes, the Tribune's word for it. And if there is justice to be had in Utah; if the juries are unbiased, and uninfluenced by political and ecclesiastical power both principals and conspirators will some day go to jail."

"The Tribune is looking carefully into the entire transaction. It is making such headway as to feel confident of its ability to soon lay bare the crime and to name the criminals. These will be named regardless of the cost of the investigation or the character of the offenders. And the public will not be obliged to wait many days for important disclosures."

The paper publishing this charge and this threat of its ability to carry out the implied promise of the long record in which it has never discriminated between facts which might cause an honest man to investigate local affairs, and fact of the most innocent nature, which it can by any process twist into an interpretation which will attract the gullible and misinformed of outside cities.

How do those people, not of the dominant faith, but in whose hearts dwell honesty, a love for fair play, and a desire to enjoy life where their domicile is located, look upon an element in the community capable of constant use of such weapons as this illustrates?

PROCLAMATION IS RECEIVED.
President Designates Area for Natural Bridges National Monument.

Investigations made by an exploring party of the natural bridges in San Juan county last summer have resulted in the three curiosities being set aside as a national park. Under the direction of Prof. Byron Cummings of the University of Utah and Prof. Edgar A. Hewitt of Washington, a party of scientists of this state journeyed down to the extreme southeastern corner of the state. Measurements of each of the natural bridges were made and recommendations that they be made into a national park sent to Washington. That these recommendations carried weight is evidenced by the issuance of the following proclamation:

"Whereas, a number of natural bridges situated in southeastern Utah, having heights more lofty and spans far greater than any heretofore known to exist, are of the greatest scientific interest, and it appears that the public interests would be promoted by reserving these extraordinary examples of stream erosion with as much land as may be necessary for the proper protection thereof;

PUTNAM'S HOME ENTERED.
Bold Daylight Robbery of $250 Worth of Jewelry and Silverware.

About 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon word was received at police headquarters that the home of George W. Putnam, 78 P street, had been robbed of property valued at $250. The robbery occurred between 11 a. m. and 5 p. m. Mrs. Putnam left home in the morning and did not return until 5 o'clock in the afternoon when she discovered that thieves had entered the house and ransacked it for valuables. They secured about $150 worth of jewelry and $100 worth of silverware. A gold watch and chain and two bracelets were overlooked by the robbers.

Entrance was gained by breaking open the back door. The thieves were evidently in the house for some time as every room was visited and searched for valuables. Last August Mr. Putnam's store, 21 east First South street, was robbed of about $400 worth of goods.

PLEASING MUSICAL EVENING.

Pupils of Mrs. Martha Royle King appear in Recital at Barratt Hall.

One of the most entertaining musicals of the season just closing was given last evening in Barratt hall, where the vocal pupils of Mrs. Martha Royle King appeared in concert. The singers, all in excellent voice, were as follows:

Soprano—Miss Ora Dunford, Pearl Durnell, Elizabeth Crook, Edna Edwards, Lucile Hill, Blanche Kidder, Edna Parsons, Constance Reese, Phyllis Reese, Susie Russell, Lucile Young, Mrs. Rosamond D. Hart.

Contralto—Miss Bertha Cecil, Lottie Cotton, Edith Funk, Hilda Edwards, Lillie McFarland, Lulu Ryan, Anna Rogers, Helen Reddall, Sybil Sherrill and Mrs. Hallie Foster Sutherland.

Those of the vocal pupils who appeared as soloists were Misses Reese, Russell, Blanche Kidder, Helen Reddall, Pearl Durnell, Anna Rogers, Edna Edwards, and Mrs. Sutherland. Mrs. C. E. Edwards, who accompanied the soloists, was Miss Edna Evans and Miss Edna Edwards as accompanists, assisted. A noted singer of the occasion was Mrs. Hallie Foster Sutherland. She sang two songs by Clara Ward, and the "Chanson Boheme" from "Carmen," which were well brought out by the fair vocalists' clear, strong voice. She was deservedly well received. The chorus work was very creditably performed, well balanced, in unison, good intonation, and well in tune. The program was well selected, the numbers being those in which the singers felt perfectly at home and in which, as a natural consequence, they did themselves and their instructor justice. It was a pleasant and profitable evening and the congratulations of the young ladies and their teacher received at the close were well deserved.
