"But you got from Paulson the money by which you traveled to Cald-well to kill Steunenberg?" Before he left Colorado, Orchard ad-mitted that he had written to Paulson asking him for 55.000 to help start an ice plant. Pettibone suggested this as an easy way to get some money. As the court adjourned for the day Atty. Richardson announced that he would probably conclude his cross-ex-amination of Orchard tomorrow.

tibone and the explanation of this re-lationship offered by the defense in its questions was that Orehard had come there to keep Petithone company while Mrs. Petithone was absent on an east-ern visit. The review of the Steunen-berg plot brought from Orehard the ad-ditional declaration when Haywood was proposing the crime he said that Ed Boyce, former president of the Western Federation of Miners and now one of the owners of the Hercules mine, had always deshed the removal of Steunen-berg for his part in the north Idoho labor troubles.

WHAT COATES SAYS.

Soon after Orchard left the stand David Coates said: "I do not care at this time to discuss the statement made by Orchard, I will have an opportunity to reply in full when I go on the stand for reply in full when I go on the stand for the defense. You may say, however, that Simpkins never talked to me on the subject of the kidnapping of Paul-son's children. Orchard did not speak to me about it in Denver, but did come to me in Wallace and outlined the plot. He said that he wanted to kidnap Paulson's children and get a bunch of money. I told him that he was a fool and that if he attempted to do so I would demounce him publicly and that he would be run out of Wallace. The story is absolutely untrue." Coates served a term as lieutenant-governor of Colorado, having been elected on the Populist ticket. After having Colorado he went to Wallace, active on the Populas ticket. After caving Colorado he went to Wallace, and until a few months ago, was pro-trictor of a newspaper there. He re-sently sold out his newspaper interests. #### AFTERNOON SESSION.

AFTERNOON SESSION. After the recess Richardson's cross-examination of Orchard led down at last to the time Orchard first started out on the mission which eventually resulted in the death of former Goy. Steunenberg, for whose murder Hay-wood is on trial. It was at the conter-ence with Moyer, Haywood and Petti-bone, after Moyer's return from Call-fornia in August, 1905, that the mat-ter was first monitoned. Orchard said Moyer had just finished telling him to get rid of Johnny Neville when Haywood brought up the killing of Steunenberg. Tes. Orchard said he had not brought the trunk containing the bomb from Nampa at the time he investigated Gov. Stennenberg's room. He abandoned the idea for fear that his quick get-a-way would arouse suspicion. "Why did you not tell us about this proposed attempt in your direct testinony : "Because I was not asked." "You were told several times to tell your story in narative form?" "I don't know what you mean by narrative and together they went to Coates to renew the scheme. Coates, who was in court, was asked to stand up for identification and fac-ing him Orchard said he was the man. Orchard was then asked if he had not himself proposed the crime to Coates, who immediately rebuffed him, and if Jack Simpkins had not warned Paulson the minute he heard of the plot. Orchard denied both suggestions and, reiterating his first story, insisted that Coates had consented to stay in the plot and handle the money that they hoped to get out of Paulson. Then the defense showed the witness in the commission of a series of mean Haywood brought up the killing of Steunenberg. "Haywood said it would be a good thing to get Steunenberg." Orchard related. "He said we could then go back to Paterson, N. J., and write let-ters to Peabody, Bell, Goddard, Gab-bert and some of the mine owners and that the only way they could avoid getting what Steunenberg got was to die. Haywood said it would be like a fiving death to all these men to know some one was after them all the time. time

Mr. Coates, a former lieuttenant-gov-ernor of Colorado and now the owner of a newspaper in northern Idaho, who has been summoned as a witness for the defense, was asked to stand up and confront Orchard. He was promptly identified by the witness. Orchard said that Coates had told him in Denver about how rich his old part-ners in the Hercules mine had become. "He told me he thought it would be a good chance for me to get even by stealing August Poulson's child and de-manding $50,000 or $60,000 ransom." "Had you met Gov. Coates before "Haywood also said Ed Boyce had always wanted something done to Steunenberg. "Moyer spoke up and said he thought it would have a good effect to get Steunenberg after letting him go so many years. Haywood said he had sent Art Baston, Ed Minster, Steve Adams and a man named McCarthy to Caldwell to get Steunenberg, but they had not succeeded. Pettlbone said he thought it would be a hard pro-position to get a man in a little town like Caldwell." "Pottbone balked at this, did he?" "No, sir; he just said he thought it

With this danger-ous burden the trunk was checked as ordinary baggage to Nampä, Ida., nine miles from Caldwelt Orchard bought a round-trip excursion ticket to Portland, Or., the Lewis and Clark exposition be-ing on at the time. He stopper off sev-eral days at Salt Lake. He met several friends while here. They commented upon his evident prosperity and he told them he had an easier way to make them he had an easier way to make money than by working. "Did you tell them you were a card sharp and that you made your money that way?" asked Richardson.

"And that you were enroute to Port-land to run a shell game?"

ON STEUNENBERG'S TRAIL.

From Sait Lake Orchard came on di-rect to Nampa and began to make in-quiries there about Steunenberg. After he had been in Idaho some little time Orchard said he called up Bill Easterly at Silver City, on the long dis-tance telephone. "I asked him if he didn't want to come over and help me on a contract. He said he was too busy to leave at that time."

He said he was too busy to leave a that time." From Nampa, Orchard went to Cald-well, where he spent a day or two Goy. Steunenberg was in Boise, however, and Orchard come on here. "By the way." said Richardson. "didn't Haywood tell yon that Steu-nenberg rode out in a buckboard every day to one of his sheeep ranches and that would be a good chance to get him?"

That would be a good chance to get him?" "He told be the governor did that; he did not say where to get him." Orchard said a commission man to whom he had gone to inquire about buying lamps pointed Steamenberg out to him. He learned the governor was stopping at the Idanha hotel. Orchard went over and got a room on the same floor as the governor. He entered life room with a pass key and looked around with the ideal of setting the bemb under the bed in a grip with an alarm clock to set it off. "The bomb would have blown UP hotel all to places, wouldn't it?" "Yes."

Yes." And you were willing to do this?"

rative." Abandoning temporarily the pursuit of Steunenberg, Orchard went on to Portland and then to Seattle, where he made inquiry about some ranches up near the British Columbia line. From Seattle Orchard went to Spokane, en route to the Coeur d'Alenes. "What were you going there for?" esked Biehardson they hoped to get out of Paulson. Then the defense showed the witness in the commission of a series of mean crimes and reduced to poverty, in which he had to resort to a pawnshop, borrowing and theft to live for a long period. First he pawned some jewelry and guns. This brought $25 or $30. Then with a man named Cunningham, whom he said Vinceot St. John had, he discussed a project to give Cunning-ham the oild Peabody bomb which he still had in his trunk for use by Cun-ningham on some non-union men at the Tiger and Poorman mine. Then he accepted the hospitality of Paulson's home at the very time he was plotting to steal the Faulson children. indefiniteness. Then they emphasized the abandonment of all effort to kill after Orchard first tracked Steuten-berg to a hotel in Boise and with a skeleton key had gained entrance to the very room in which the governor was living. Here they delayed for a me-ment to prove that Orchard twice wrote and cnee telephoned to fill Easterly at Silver City to unge him to come and foin in the crime and the di-rect complication was that Orchard was endeavoring to inveigle another federation man into the crime which would bring discredit and dishoner to the organization.

Then the Steamenberg erime was temporarily thrust is to the background and the witness was careled over his long diverting fourney into north Idaio and his erime there, including the dark plot to kidnap and hold for ransom the Paulson children, was forcefully emphasized. Orchard swore that Davy Coates, a former lieutenani-governor of Colorado, then a publisher in Walkae-Idaio, first suggested the kidnaphing to Pettibone and himself at Denver. Paulson, once a poor miner, had made a fortune in the Hercules mine, in which Orchard held an interest when the property was valueless and It was believed that it his children were stolar he would come through with $50,000 or $60,000 in ransom. Orchard said that when he went to north Idaho he got Jack Simpkins to come in on the poil and together they went to Coates to renew the scheme.

Harry Orchard down to the actual

LONG ERA OF CRIME.

LONG ERA OF CRIME. It was a long era of crime and pov-erty and hard luck and summing it up the defense wanted to know why, if he was in Idaho on a mission of murder for Haywood, Moyer and Pettibone and with unlimited credit from them he did not send to them for mohey instead of borrowing and stealing. Orchard replied that he did send a letter to Moyer at Butte and got $100, but he did not send for more because he was temporarily off the Steunenberg lived, and he dig not want to send for more money until he could show that he was back to work.

to work. Lastly there came a showing that Or-chard had borrowed $300 from Paulson, whose children he had gone forth to steal, on the strength of a fraudulent story that he was going to Los An-geles to sell mining stock for Coates, and that this was the money that actgeles to sell mining stock for Coates, and that this was the money that act-ually paid his expenses when he went back to Caldwell on the final mission of murder. Swiftly reviewing his meet-ings with his old partners who had he the meantime become rich, the defense asked the witness if, disappointed and augered at his own hard luck in selling out the Hercules mine, when Steunen-berg sent troops into north idaho he had not suddenly decided to borrow enough money from Paulson to take him to Caldwell, where he would mur-der the man he blamed for his misfor-tune. Orchard strenuously denied that this was his motive. The earlier part of the day was con-sumed with a review from the stand-point of the defense of the alleged plots against Gov. Penbody, Judge Gab-bert, Judge Goddard and Gen, Sher-man Bell. It developed that during August, 1905, when with a shotgun and blackshot he was stalking Gen, Bell, Cr-chard went to live at the house of Pet-

A FAMILY BLOOD TAINT

Scrofula is not a disease that is acquired, under ordinary circumstances. It is a deep-seated family blood taint, handed down from generation to gencration, blighting the lives and sapping the vital forces of innocent persons who have inherited this legacy of disease. Parents who are blood relations or who have a consumptive tendency, or blood disease of any character, are sure to transmit it to their offspring, and it usually takes the form of Scrofula. Swollen glands, brittle bones, weak eyes, sores and eruptions on the body. Catarrh, and often deformities with hip disease, are the principal ways in which the trouble is manifested. In some cases the blood is so filled with scrofulous germs and poisons that from birth the sufferer is an object of pity because of suffering and a total lack of health, while in other instances favorable surroundings and prudent living hold the disease in check until A deep-seated blood disease like Scrofula can only be reached later in life. by the very best constitutional treatment. "Hard to get a man who drove out into the mountains alone every day?" "He said it would be a hard proposition.

Orchard said Pettibone suggested that he take the Peabody bomb on the trip. Orchard had brought the bomb trip. Orchard had brought the bomb from Canon City to Denver and buried it. This bomb was rather unique in that an alarm clock was attached to it. When the alarm went off a string fastened to the alarm key would wind up and pull over the bot-tle of sulphuric acid which would ex-plode the giant caps and dynamite. Orchard said he asked for $390 to cover the expense of his trip to Ne-vada to get Neville and to Idaho to assassinate Steunenberg. He got $240 just before starting and had $60 pre-stously.

"Was anything said at your con-ference with Moyer, Haywood and Pettihone regarding a ranch?" "Yes, sir. I said that if I fuished the job I was starting out on I ought to be through with this business and have the ranch I had been promised."

Coates said he would help and take a part of the money. He said we could have Paulson leave the money with him." Arriving in Walkace, where both Simpkins and Coates lived, Orchard saw Simpkins first and told him of the kidnaping plot. Simpkins agreed to go to Coates about the matter. Orchard also met Paulson, who gave him a cor-dial welcome. He invited Orchard to dinner.

"You accepted his hospitality, ate at his table, met his family, and plan-ned to steal his child?"

Orchard said he received some mon-ey while in Wallace, but in leaving he had to borrow $500 from Paulson. He also borrow $500 from Paulson, He also borrow $5 from Dave Coates and small sums from various persons. He gambled a good deal. "And you committed burglary while you were in Wallace, didn't you?" "I don't exactly know what you mean by burglary." said Orchard. "I mean breaking into the Oregon Ballway & Navigation depot." "Oh yes, Tyee done that," said Or-chard, amid laughter.
