

orders concerning the rallying point and never stopped until they had reached the fortified water works hill about a mile distant; four of them even ran till they reached camp. They spread all sorts of ridiculous rumors such as they lost all their comrades, had last seen Major Ward surrounded by the enemy and similar nonsense. A company instantly moved forward to the bank of the canal. The enemy had apparently not followed the fugitives far, but had taken the rifles they had thrown away in their flight and secured their reserve of ammunition.

PIONEER DAY.

BENJAMIN.

The people assembled at 10 a. m. at the grove.

After singing and prayer by the Chaplain Thomas Mills, a speech was given by B. F. Stewart, one of the Pioneers; a salute was fired by the Infantry; a speech by A. J. Stewart, in behalf of the Sunday School; a speech in behalf of the Relief Society, by Mrs. Sarah Houtz; a song by H. Richardson, entitled "Beautiful Star"; a speech in behalf of the Y. M. M. I. Association, by S. M. Richardson; an oration, by E. B. Hawkins; original poetry, by Millie Stewart, entitled "Them Officials"; a speech in behalf of the Y. L. M. I. Association, by Miss E. P. Stewart; a speech, by Gustavus Simons; singing, and prayer by the Chaplain. Dancing in the evening in the grove for the juveniles.

Committee: S. M. Richards, O. H. Warner, Sarah Houtz, E. P. Stewart and Susan Hawkins.

MORONI.

At daybreak the citizens were aroused by a salute of musketry, under Captain Phillip Marks. At sunrise the stars and stripes floated in the breeze, the bands serenaded the people under their leaders, Professors Simpson and Anderson. At nine o'clock a procession was formed under the Marshal of the Day Laurentz Laurentzen, Jun., marching round the principal streets in the following order: The martial band, ox team, drove by R. P. Christensen and son; pioneers to Utah, by W. Draper, Sen.; six spring wagons and a miniature locomotive, showing the speedy transportation of the Saints of 1882; Fathers in Israel; Mothers in Israel; Sunday School children. Returning to the bowerly at half past nine, meeting was called to order by the Marshal; singing by the choir under their leader Professor Nathan Fawx; prayer by the chaplain, Charles P. Thomas; music by the band; an oration by the orator of the day, Edwin Scott; William Draper recited some verses composed by himself, appropriate to this occasion. Song by John Ilby, music by the band, a song by sisters Blackham, and Hansen and child, accompaniment on the organ by Sister Mary A. Larsen, recitation by Jane Fawx, song by George Morley, speeches from Counselors Bradley and Olsen, music by the band, stump speech by Joseph Nielson. Toasts were read, singing by the choir, benediction by the chaplain. At 2 o'clock there was horse racing, ball playing and other amusements, a dance for the children, and in the evening one for the adults.

The whole proceeding passed off in a very peaceable manner, all feeling satisfied with their day's enjoyment.

Committee of arrangements: Jacob Jacobsen, Edwin Scott, Jos. L. Jolley, Albion C. Anderson, Peter Olsen, Jr., Mary Thomas, Nene Draper, Mary A. Larsen, Vicene Blackham, Arlettey Morley.

ST. GEORGE.

At sunrise 21 guns and raising of flags, followed by music of martial and brass bands, after which the various bands made the round of town, announcing the festive occasion. At 10 a. m. a general assembling of all classes at the Tabernacle, when the usual speeches were made, glee and hymns sung, music by bands played, etc. Bishop Thos. Judd was chosen marshal of the day, with J. C. Bentley as his assistant, President D. D. McArthur as orator of the day. The pioneer were represented by Brother Wm. Empey, the Mormon Battalion by Lieut. Lorenzo Clark. The Marcellaise hymn was sung by Brother James G. Bleak. The St. George choir did good service in the rendition of several choice pieces. Duets by Misses Maggie Ivins and Martha Snow; also by Miss Alice Worthen and Mrs. E. J. Cottam are well worthy of mention. The meeting closed after the usual toasts and sentiments, and all went home to reassemble on the public square at 3 o'clock to witness a tilting tournament for various prizes. In the evening a select sociable was given in the Court House, by Messrs. Thos. Judd and Jos. C. Bentley, which was an exceedingly pleasant affair.

The committee, Messrs. Judd, Bentley, Orton, Morris and Pickett deserve great credit for the way in which the affair was managed, from beginning to end, and never for years have we had such a wholesome, good, fellow-feeling time. One thing notoriously absent was the usual "red tape" which characterizes such affairs.

Q.

After the usual salutes in the morning, hoisting of the Stars and Stripes, Captain John S. Hawkins' brass band serenaded the citizens.

At 10 a. m. the Tabernacle was filled to its utmost capacity.

The committee, Bros. Wm. H. Warner, Jos. W. Vickers and John Foot furnished a very good programme, as follows:

Music by the band; "On the mountain tops appearing," by the tabernacle choir; prayer by Patriarch Jacob G. Bigler, chaplain; a patriotic song by choir; speech, "Pioneer's Day," Hon. Geo. Teasdale; music by band; speech, Patriarch J. G. Bigler; music by band; song by Sister Elizabeth Grace; reading by Prof. F. W. Chappel; chorus by the Sabbath School choir; recitation, sister Elizabeth Schofield; cornet solo, Brother John Foot; comic song, Brother Robert Pyper; speech by Brother George Kendall; song by Sister Grace; recitation, by Georgina Parks; chorus, "Hark, the Song of Jubilee; toasts and sentiments. Congregation sang, "Praise to the Man."

Benediction, Elder John Squires. In the afternoon, the children had a joyous time at Captain John S. Hawkins Bowerly, dancing, songs, and recitations, a happy assembly. A dance for the adults in the evening finished a very agreeable day.

To Wash Calico Dresses.

There is an art about washing dyed goods which, when once acquired, will never be forgotten, and will, moreover, serve you in good stead many, many times. Bright colored dresses should be well shaken and all the dust beaten out after each day's wearing. A dress keeps clean, and looks bright much longer if the dust is shaken from it every day. And, too, if it should need mending, it should be done before being washed, then there is no marked difference between the garment and the patches. And patches should never be seen, or at least noticeable, if it is avoidable.

Plaid and gay-colored dress goods should be washed in bran water. Turn a pail of boiling water over two quarts of wheat bran, and let it stand and cool, then turn off the water and wash the dress as quickly as possible; pass it through a rinsing water and dry in the shade—dresses of this kind should never be dried in the sun. Thus treated the color will not wash out in any degree. Then iron it on the wrong side, as you should do all print dresses. This method consumes some time, but it will be found to pay, as by it all calico dresses may be made to keep their color till worn out.

Always That Way.

Last winter a great religious revival was held in a certain Ohio neighborhood, and several good men brought all their influence to bear on a certain farmer named Harris. After many efforts he was brought to the anxious seat, and then they had the happiness of hearing him announce that he felt himself saved. In the course of three or four days the minister met him and asked:

"Well, brother Harris, how do you feel?"

"Oh, kinder plaguery mean," was the reply.

"You do! What is the trouble?"

"Well, I hadn't found the Lord over twenty minutes before I run across a fruit tree agent who beat me out of $15 last year. There I was, ready to fly into the gates of heaven, and there he was, chuckling to think of how he worked off a lot of crab-apple trees on me for a new kind of pea! I couldn't even break his neck; and the old woman she got in an said I was allus gittin' in a box, and the hull thing has sorter stirred me up till I can't say whether I'd rather lick a lightning rod man or be an angel."

Why They Struck.

Last winter a Troy manufacturer who had taken a number of contracts at bottom figures in order to give employment to his men through the winter, was one day waited upon by the foreman of one the departments, who announced that all the men under him were about to strike for an increase of 25 cents per day.

"Going to strike! Great lands! but don't they understand that I took work at the very lowest figures in order to give them employment through the winter?"

"Yes, sir."

"Then why do they strike?"

"Well, sir, as long as they thought you might possibly come out even they were all satisfied, but it has somehow leaked out that you will come out $15 ahead on those saw mill engines, and the men are not willing to see capital oppress without striking a blow to throw off the shackles of bondage."

Being Neighborly.

He was a small boy, with dirt on his nose and faded straw hat on his head, and feet so long unwashed that it was hard to tell where his toe-nails were located. He walked boldly up the steps, pulled the bell, and when the lady came to the door he said:

"Say, can you lend me your telephone for a few minutes?"

"Why, I can't," she gasped out.

"We'll bring it back in half an hour."

"But I can't lend it, child. You don't seem to know what a telephone is. Who are you?"

"We live around the corner—just moved in, and we want to be neighborly. I tried to borrow your wheelbarrow and shovel, but your boy wouldn't lend 'em, and our hired girl has been over to borrow tea and sugar and couldn't get any. We kinder thought we might borrow your telephone or something, and ma would bring it back and get a chance to see your style and ask you to run right in with your old clothes on."

"That," said Biggling to his wife, when she told him that a new silk dress was necessary for her health and happiness, "is too diaphanous." "Now, Biglin," she answered, tartly, "I want you to understand that I am not the woman to be put down by musical terms. You may call it a fortissimo or a tremolo; but I'm going to have that dress."
