

NEWS OF THE WEST.

A Firm and His Throat Cut on a Barbed Wire Fence.

BROWLLE ARRESTED IN IDAHO.
Liquor Cases a Part Fall—But a Year for a 100-Fall Cases a Desperate Act.

Quinn Brown, the Arizona train robber, will not be long, as the government has issued its subpoena to carry year imprisonment.

Honey Lake, a cotton-maker from Nevada, Cal., led from the railway company on Tuesday afternoon and broke up the railway company. It is believed that he was party to some of the cases of liquor cases in Idaho.

Tuesday morning a young man named Frank Brown started on his journey from the town of Union, Cal., to his home in Nevada. He was accompanied by his wife and two children. They were on their way to a place called Honey Lake.

Last year it looked as if cotton would be raised from Texas were expected to be raised in the future to a good many of the cotton fields. The cotton fields have been so dry that the crops are expected to be a failure of about 50 per cent.

Mr. Louis Korbender, who for thirty years thought he was the legal wife of Joseph Korbender, the German, Cal., capitalist, was told last Monday, when he took a girl with him and she was his wife. He was told that she was his wife.

William Lawrence, who was to have been tried Tuesday at Nevada, Cal., upon a charge of robbery committed last April, when he took a girl with him and she was his wife. He was told that she was his wife.

Captain John R. Fletcher, ticket taker at the Los Angeles theater, attempted to end his Tuesday at his home, owing to a matter through his head. Ever since the war Captain Fletcher has been a great sufferer from pain in the head, the result of an injury received in battle. Tuesday afternoon the pain became unbearable, and in a fit of desperation he attempted self-destruction. The chances of his recovery are slight.

Quinn Brown, Sept. 20. F. Hubbard and T. J. Winter of Marble Lake, Idaho, brought in range cattle. It is believed that the cattle are worth $100,000.

Mr. J. W. Stover, a prominent cattle owner of Colorado, Wyo., was last week with his flock of westerns. Mr. Stover says that the past season has been very profitable for him. He has raised a rule the cattle are in the condition.

Miss Ida, Miss Ida, Sept. 20. Sheriff H. H. Brownson of Boise from Idaho yesterday afternoon. He was taken to the hospital where he has been since he was wounded. He was taken to the hospital where he has been since he was wounded.

Ben Lawrence, driver of engine 30 on several trains to the Richmond station, San Francisco, Cal., had a throat cut almost from ear to ear by a barbed wire fence Tuesday afternoon. He is still lying in bed of his marvelous escape from a shocking death. The driver was taken to a hospital where he has been since he was wounded.

The driver, as required by the rules of the fire department, took his team out for exercise. He was taking the horse to the engine, Lawrence mounted on, and leading the driver by a rope. When he was about his disengaged hand, started up beyond avenue and turned into California street. The horse then was on its way to the engine, but was a considerable distance behind. The gap between the driver and the train was quickly closed by a string of white sounding the approach of the cars. The driver took alarm at the whistle and both he and the horse were thrown from his seat into the air, over the animal he was leading and out to the track. Lawrence's hand had just released the rope attached to the horse he had been leading. It being wound around his wrist, and by this he was dragged along the track with his body came in contact with a post and broke his head upon the latter. A way sent the horse, leaving the unfortunate man unconscious near the fence. The animal had been witnessed by several people who hurried to the driver's assistance. Lawrence presented a ghastly sight. His head, face, neck and shirt front were covered with blood, and as the horse was thought he was dead. But the sharp blade had missed the jugular vein. The driver was conveyed to the hospital, where a medical attention was promptly secured and at a late hour last night he was resting easy.

SUCKLING WOMEN.
Recently a Greater Post to England than of the Front End.
Recently the "Boston Herald" said: "The woman who made her neighbor's lives intolerable with her raging temper, her bitter tongue, her stow and calumnies—was found everywhere. Love was passed negotiating her so one kind of criminal. There were two forms of punishment by which she was repressed—she was carried into the hospital, and the mother's milk was pumped out of her. The mother's milk was pumped out of her. The mother's milk was pumped out of her."

by a chain. The subject being led on the chair, the other end of the beam went up and the chair went down into the water, leaving the woman completely dry. They did this three times, after which they let her go.
Such a shaft belonged to nearly every party. Along the streets and the piers, they formed part of the furniture of justice. For instance, about London, there was one on Barbican with which they ducked the wives of the judges. There was one at Rotherhithe, one at Kingston-on-Thames, and there was one which stood till the beginning of this century beside the great pond or reservoir of the Green park.
Apparently the chair and the shaft did not completely destroy the female tendency to seek, for it was found necessary to invent another punishment, which was extensively adopted, although not authorized by the law. This was the "back," or "back's back," which consisted of a small cage formed by iron hoops to fit the head, with a piece of iron which pressed the lungs and compressed the chest, so that the man was either led or carried about the town for all the world to see. Sometimes this was placed on a high scaffold. The back was used in some places down to the beginning of the century. Its absence, its disappearance, made one believe to the belief that the world had also disappeared. However, such is not the case. This device of punishing of smoking still exists, but in a much milder form. The children of the western form is usually due to the improved conditions of life.
Two hundred years ago, the village household was indifferently fed, the quality as well as the quantity of the food was bad; work was hard; men were rough; husbands beat their wives habitually; in cold weather they were thinly clad; in hot weather their clothes were too thick. If there was any indulgence possible, it took the form of beer. You did not starve, children, hungry and cold, tired all day and all night, everything combined to oppress a woman. What wonder it, from time to time, she lost control of herself and became capriciously violent over her wrongs? Things have greatly improved. The household is longer—or very seldom—beats his wife; the food has become cheap; wages have gone up; leisure, formerly unobtainable, has become necessary; the world is drying out of the land because there is so little left to be sold about—Philadelphia Ledger.
