The Revelations of Gen. Grippenberg Will Have Strong Influence on The Emperor.

cause is Danger Threatening Mancharian Army from Attempts to Cut Line of Communication.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 18, 1:30 p. m .--In diplomatic circles the opinion is quite merally expressed that yesterday's tragedy may be followed by the decision of the government to conclude peace. For some time despite the offdisl attitude maintained by the govemment there has been growing appredation of the difficulties of prosecuting the war in the midst of increasing compitcations at home and as announced by the Associated Press yesterday, the matter was actually the subject of formal consideration by the emperor and his ministers Feb. 16. Strong influences which, it is understood, in spite of denials, are headed by M. Witte, president of the committee of ministers, having been working quietly in this direction. den. Grippenberg's reverations followed by the murder of Grand Duke Sergius, in the opinion of some of the ablest diplomats, are not unlikely to lead the emperor definitely to decide upon peace. In this connection the war office is considerably alarmed by the new danger threatening the Manchurnan army from the systematic attempts making by Japanese and Chinese bandits to cut the line of communication back of the army. According to reports, about 10,000 men split-up into bands of several hunded each are operating from Mongolia and are striking at the railroad. The prosecution charged that Mrs. Watson had died from the effect of poison and that the conditions under which her body was found had been arranged by Dr. Watson to bear out a runaway theory. Much expert testi-mony was introduced at the trial and Dr. Watson took the stand in his own defense. Medical men testified for the prosecution that unmistakable traces of poison were found in Mrs. Watson's polson were found in Mrs. Watson's stomach, but other medical experts testified for the defense that there were

SIX MEN KILLED. Mine Gunboat Jumped Track,

Causing Fall of Rock. Pottsville, Pa., Feb. 18 .- Six men were killed and 14 injured at the Lyttle colliery today. The men were being lowered into the mine in a gunboat when the latter jumped the track and knocked out several props. This caused a fall of top rock, and six of the men in the gunboat were crushed to death. Ten of the injured are not in a serious condition and were able to walk up the

HICHWAYMAN SNATCHES DIA-MOND BROACH FROM WOMAN

Nev York, Feb. 18 -- One of the most audacious of the many recent robberies in this city occurred in the Bronx today when a highwayman attacked Mr. and Mrs. John W. Cornish in front of their home, snatched a $5,000 diamond brooch from Mrs. Cornish's throat, fired two bullets through the clothing of Cornish when he remonstrated and then escaped after an exciting race with a policeman in which several shots were exchanged, but so far as known without effect. Some of them him, he found a man who is servant to have looked at it, and one has said it merits a trial. I have sent the plans to ing in it. Whatever the experts with university degrees behind them have to Widtsoe of the Agricultural college, say, this man says he has a solution

One encouraging thing to Mr. Pascoe, One encouraging thing to Mr. Pascoe, is that Dr. Franzmeyer, who is the ex-pert in the employ of the smelters, has written him from the Overland en-route to New York, asking that the plans of the invention be forwarded to him. Pascoe considers this as an in-dication that the expert's line of action may be similar to his. Concerning the article in the "News" of last Saturday by Prof. Jones, Mr. Pascoe mays that this article embraces the exact prin-ciples on which he has worked, and is a complete endorsement of his theories, although Prof. Jones has never seen his plans, or talked with him at all. Talmage and Dr. Widtsoe. Pascee's idea is to plant a second ser-ies of his batteries along the flue far-ther, where the smoke is cooler, and there treat it to remove the sulphur gas. He claims that in cooling in con-nection with water a temperature is reached where the sulphurous action changes to sulphuric, and this action he mays, he can easily accelerate by the in-troduction of electric charges or man-gonese. The sulphuric acid is then drawn off in a highly difuted form, and the problem of handling a flow of the poisoned water is encountered. This objection was raised long ago to the invention by smeltermen. his plans, or talked with him at all, "The principle I worked on," said Mr.

Pascoo at his home last night, when he says in answer to the question, "in the machine shop." There is something terribly earnest about the way he says "I tell you if you'll just let me go I can have a smelter and a rose garden side by side." He believes in his ideas, and when one realizes how seriously he takes his work, a parallel is quickly apparent be-tween his case and that of the man who first realized the power of steam by seeing the tea-kettle lid lift off, and the man who walked ragged with the first steamboat plans in his pocket. It is a thing scientists are proud of that science stands on the brink of the un-known and peers over into the dark-ness beyond, striving for what it may discover. sked for a description of his inven-ion, "was that it is out of the power of man to destroy any of the things God had created. He can use them, and tiod had created. He can use them, and charge their form, but he can never get rid of them." This statement of a well known scientific axion, was followed by the statement that in working with the Stockton smelters he had noticed the effect of the sulphurous acid on the vogetation, browning and eating the plant cells, but yet leaving it unpolsoned and per-fectly harmless if eaten. He had also noticed that a new chimney does not throw out flue dust, but that it begins to make a coat on the inside near the top, then coming downward slowly till the chimney walls are coated. "How would I handle that?" said Mr sing above which floated a solution of copper in sulphuric acid. Now this stream of poison water, if allowed to pour down over the slag dump will dis-solve it slowly, and when the water comes out at the bottom it will be richly laden with copper, and the acid element will be used up. discover. In the smelter smoke problem scient-ists agree that the border of the un-known has been reached, and that the problem is guch that the man who solves it will be adding a contribution to the world's knowledge. It would probably be a surprise to everyone if the honor of doing it should fall upon Utah's veteran smelterman, whose highest title is master of a lime quarry, and whose education has been gained through his eyes and ears and tending to his furnace. Yet this man is the only one to come The water, how perfectly narmiess, can be run into a reservoir and used over again in the flues. "How much water will it take?" "Wed. Mr. Channing, I understand, has filed on Jordan water to get a sup-ply of 14,000,000 gallons every 24 hours. I think that is many times what I will need. It won't take over a ton of water to a ton of ore. If there is more sul-pluric acid than the slag dump con-sumes, low grade copper ore is available in geat quantities to bring in for smelting. Poor old Spain can give us Americans cards and spades on that subject, for she makes at her smelters sulphuric acid, possibly from pure sul-phur, and gets a greater percentage than we do from her low grade copper ores. state scheme, and spent muty months figuring out the possibilities of my revolving spray of water, which will be used inside the flue." In the smellers now a cleansing of the flues means that someon has to get in and shovel out the accumulation of poisonous dust, and it was to obviate The robber followed Mr. and Mrs. Cornish home from a street car in which the lavish display of diamonds worn by the couple had attracted much attention.

Authorities Realize Their Impotency To Ward Off Swift Acts Of Terrorism.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 18, 1:05 p. m.-+ Oppression like the shadow of doom seems to be hanging over the Russian apital. Bells are tolling and the people in the streets are awe-struck at yesterday's bloody crime. Everyone seems to shrink before the contemplation of what may happen next. The tragedy struck deep in the heart of the the perplexed and tried emperor and many who were unsparing in their criticism yesterday today have only expressions of sympathy for his unhappy lot. The bitter cup which during the last year has been pressed again and again to his lips is once more filled to the brim and in almost pathetic words this morning he implores his subjects to pray for the repose of the soul of his murdered uncle. Death is in the air and no one knows where the next blow may fall, although precautions have been doubled in every direction for the preservation of the lives of the members of the imperial family and the ministers and the secret police are seeking out and arresting those known to be associated with the fighting organization. The authorities realize their impotency to ward off the swift acts of terrorism, murder in the streets being possible at any instant. The only safety seems to lie in seeking refuge behind palace walls and all the im-perial family have been warned not to venture out.

venture out. Although only the official papers and the Grashdanin appear with black bor-ders, the editorials of all of them are strangely sober. Some papers which in the past have been ready to lay almost any charge at the door of Grand Duke Serglus are drawing back be-tors the property of the inauguration fore the prospect of the inauguration of a reign of terror, fearing that it may destroy the bright prospect of reform and lead to an era of repression. But even in the midst of universal reprobation of the crime the majority express the hope that after all the express the hope that after all the darkest hour comes just before the dawn. Among the revolutionaries, however, there is a sentiment of ela-tion. They openly glory in the deed, proclaiming that it removes the most reactionary influence at court and also proclaim the general theory that in the absence of armed resistance only by terror can concessions be wrung from the hands of the autocracy. Ac-cording to their view any weepon is from the hands of the autocracy. Ac-cording to their view any, weapon is justifiable. As a matter of fact it is too early yet to say what the political ef-fect will be. For the moment every-thing is at a standstill.
