each other, there would be a very different state of things from what we now see; alluded to the doctrines of election, reprobation, free grace and free will; all which, he said, were scriptural doctrines; named some of the leading and fundamental doctrines of the religious world; said that all the sects and parties of Christendom have truth, and that it is the business of the Elders of Israel to gather up all the truth there is in the world and bring it up to Zion. Spoke of the impossibility of mortals comprehending eternity; that the atmosphere is full of life; that it is boundless in its extent and, instead of striving to comprehend eternity, they should begin to inquire, What am I here for? What was the object and intention of bringing us here? Reasoned on the varied and different qualifications and capacities of the human mind; to say that mankind can learn so much and no more is the height of folly; believed that there never was a child born into the world with less capacity than Jesus Christ, for in that he descended below all things. When the spirit of man has overcome the evils that are in the world, it will have power to bring its particles and parts together in the resurrection of the just, and those who come forth in the first resurrection will be more blessed than any others; but blessed will they be who come forth in the second resurrection, for they will have a kingdom and a glory that will be far superior to anything that the sectarian world can conceive of. Said that Joseph Smith was fore-ordained to hold the keys of the kingdom and, whatever the world may say about it, no man will be permitted to enter the celestial kingdom, except by the certificate of Joseph Smith, jr., and by and by he will be here dictating plans for the redemption of those that now persecute us; that God has created all nations of one blood, whether black or white, copper-colored or spotted; that the curse will remain upon the descendants of Cain until all the other families of the earth have received the ordinances of the house of God; blest all that had a desire to do right, in the name of Jesus Christ, and all the congregation said Amen.

Choir sung a hymn.
Benediction by Bishop E. D. Woolley.

2 O'CLOCK, P.M.

Choir sung, "May we who love the joyful sound."

Prayer by Bishop Leonard W. Hardy.
Choir sung, "Ye children of our God."

The sacrament was administered by Bishops Hunter, Hardy, Smoot and Young, which was the first time it has been administered to the congregation since the re-opening of the Tabernacle.

Elder Erastus Snow spoke of the peculiar views of some in relation to the move south; but he contended that if it had not been for that, we should not now have enjoyed the privileges we possess of meeting in conference in peace; alluded to the temptations and snares that have been thrown around the people here; he considered that those were highly blest who could learn by other people's experience; he rejoiced in the spirit that prevailed in the conference, and that the chastisements during the conference had not been with anger, but they had fallen like dew upon the newly mown grass; spoke of the duties of husbands and wives, and how plainly the errors of their lives had been shown to them.

Bishop E. D. Woolley said he was pleased to see the return of the emblems of the broken body and shed blood of Jesus Christ; he had enjoyed his home better since he returned from the southern country than ever he did before; felt satisfied that every move and all that transpired would be for the advancement of the kingdom of God and was happy in the midst of the Saints of the Most High.

President Heber C. Kimball said that God will end this work where he commenced it, and that is in Jackson county, Missouri; for that there is where he planned the garden of Eden, and all the evil powers combined cannot prevent it. Bore testimony to this being the work of God, and remarked, that the Lord will bear all those off-victorious who cleave to it.

It was then moved, seconded and carried, that the conference be adjourned till the sixth day of April next, at 10 a. m.

Choir sung, "O ye mountains high."
President Brigham Young pronounced the following benediction:

Brethren and sisters, I pray my Father in heaven to bless you with His Holy Spirit; with grace to help you in every time of need, under every circumstance, and to let His angels watch over you, to preserve you in your covenants and vows which you have made with one another, and with your God. I also pray you in Christ's stead to hearken to the commandments of the Lord, to seek until you obtain the Spirit of revelation; hearken to it, obey it, follow its precepts, walk in all the commandments and requirements of heaven, that you may secure unto yourselves eternal lives. I offer this prayer to the great I AM in your behalf, for you have yourselves to preserve, to subject to His will, and those that cease not to do His will, He will preserve them, and save them, and bring them up at the last day. And my petitions are to Him in your behalf, and to you in your own behalf, that you will do as nigh right as you know how; deal justly with yourselves, with one another, with your God, and preserve yourselves inviolate before Him; and I bless you in the name of Jesus Christ, even so: Amen.
You are dismissed.

"A sudden pitch
From a misplaced switch
Laid me dead in this ditch."

"Off the track the engine rushed—
Some were drowned and I was crushed."

"What is life? 'Tis but a vision.
Here I died by a collision;
Twenty more died by the same;
Verdict—'Nobody to blame.'"

"Sister, mother, aunt and me
Were run over. Here we be.
We should have had time to mizzle,
Had they blown the engine's whistle."

"Sweeping round a curve
Whose outer fleture bordered an abyss.
The cars were canted down the precipice,
And seven of us killed. But what of that?
'Twas the curve did it. And the engineer,
Being upon a bender, was excused."

"Train borne traveler, rushing by,
As thou passeth pipe thine eye,
Here a car, well filled with freight,
Killed sixteen and wounded eight.
For a moment, friends be weepers,
As you pass the railroad sleepers.
You may share our fate—why not?
Ere you reach the next depot."

"Here are deposited the bones,
(The flesh being torn off.)
Of an unknown man,
Who, being deaf, blind and lame,
Neglected to obey the customary signals,
And was run over as a punishment
For his contumacy.
The engineer promptly stopped the engine
After it had cut the body in two,
And, with most exemplary humanity,
Conveyed the remains to an adjacent wood shed
Where all means of resuscitation were tried:
But alas!

The vital spark had fled!
For the humanity they displayed,
The engineer and signal men
Were presented by the company
With a service of plate.
Go thou and do likewise."

GEN. SHIELDS ON BARRELS.—A short time since Gen. Shields, landing at Hastings, on the Mississippi, compared his freight and bill of lading, one item calling for seven barrels.— Strange to say, however, the General could only find, on landing, six of his barrels! He was heard counting them over several times with the same unsatisfactory result each time. Moving the index finger of his right hand up and down in a pointed manner at each barrel, thus he soliloquised aloud, with deliberate military emphasis:

"One—two—three—four—five—six." And shaking his head with dignified gravity, saying, "something wrong here," he recommenced his count—"One—two—three—four—five—six; where is the other barrel?" Full of wrath, he was proceeding to demand the production of the missing cask from the officers of the boat, when, lo! on his getting up for this purpose from where he was surveying, with characteristic dignity and gravity, his goods and sundries, it was discovered, to his infinite amusement and that of the bystanders, that he had been setting on the missing seventh barrel!

QUAKER SARCASM.—Thomas Coles—more familiarly known, from his great amiability and good nature, as Tommy Colles—was a consistent member of the Society of Friends. At the delightful village of Glen Cove, Long Island, where he resided, the Episcopal church had just erected in the church a very sweet toned organ, which was the admiration not only of the members, but of many others who were attracted to the service by the eloquence of Rev. Mr. Mallaby, the rector,—some particular occasion our venerable friend Tommy Coles took a seat among the congregation, and his opinion of the organ was gathered from the following conversation a few days afterwards:

"Friend Mallaby, I am pleased that thee has got a fine organ in thy church."
"But," said the clergyman, "I thought you were opposed to having an organ in a church."
"So I am," replied Friend Tommy; "but then if thee worship the Lord by machinery I weld like thee to have a first-rate instrument!"

A MASTER BUILDER.—The late Hon. Stuart J. Park, whose death occurred at Groton, Mass., on the 14th ult., at the advanced age of 86, held various offices in his town and was at one time a member of the Massachusetts Senate; but his chief distinction was acquired in his vocation as a stone mason. In the course of a long life he erected jails at Dover, Portland, Newburyport and Northampton; the old State Prison, Charlestown, Mass., the prison at Concord, and the prison at Windsor, Vt.; the capitol at Concord, and he also built the dry dock, at Charleston, Mass. He laid the granite sleepers for the Boston and Lowell Railroad, was employed two years upon the Boston Mill Dam, and upon various other public works in New Eng-land.

SEAL OF OREGON.—Oregon has adopted a State seal. The escutcheon is supported by thirty three stars, and divided by an ordinary, with the inscription, "The Union." In relief, mountains, an elk with branching antlers, a wagon, the Pacific ocean, on which is a British man-of-war departing and an American steamer arriving. The second quartering with a sheaf, plow and pickax. Crest—the American eagle. Legend—the State of Oregon.—The introduction of the English man-of-war is no doubt emblematical of that nation's being obliged to relinquish its claims to the territory.

SUPERSTITION.—A Southern paper, after noticing a dangerous wound received by a man in sliding from a haymow on a pitchfork, states, "that medical preparations were applied to the pitchfork and it has been carefully wrapped up and deposited in flannel to aid in the healing of the wounds!"

This kind of cure was quite fashionable about two centuries ago, and medical writers say that it was attended with great advantage; for, while the surgeon exhausted his skill on the instrument, dame Nature more skillfully healed the wound.

NAPOLEON AND EMANUEL.—The Paris correspondent of the London News, says:

"I have seen a Turin letter, which states that when the Emperor Napoleon announced to King Victor Emanuel the terms of the treaty of Villafranca, he said, 'Has your Majesty any observation to make?'—The King, understanding at once the situation, replied by the question, 'Has your Majesty anything to add?' The two sovereigns bowed and parted."

A JEWISH SCHEME.—A Parisian Jew desired to telegraph news of the peace to Berlin. His information was in advance; and to keep it from the telegraph people, he worded his dispatch thus: "Herr Scholem will shortly arrive." 'Scholem' is a Hebrew word, signifying peace. In the Berlin House, where the Hebrew language was understood, the true meaning of the announcement of Herr Scholem's expected arrival was readily interpreted.

Three Colts at One Foaling.—A mare at Oshaway, Canada, it is stated, lately produced three colts at one foaling, but would only acknowledge one. A second she kicked to death, and the third was taken away and reared by hand.
