

GRIEVED MOTHER BLAMES OFFICERS

Mrs. Caroline Olson Says Stanley Rasmussen Was Not Treated Kindly.

BODY COMES FROM CALIENTE

Fugitive from Industrial School Was Victim of Box Car Smashup While Trying to Reach California.

The body of Stanley Rasmussen, who was killed in a wreck on the Salt Lake route near Caliente, Nev., last Sunday, arrived home yesterday and is now lying at the residence of his mother, Mrs. Caroline Olson, at 176 West Second South street. The scene at the home when the body was taken there was a heart rending one, the mother being almost frantic with grief at the untimely end of her wayward son. Stanley Rasmussen was only 20 years of age. He had been somewhat wild, through unfortunate early associations, and had been sent to the state industrial school. On the night of Aug. 4, Stanley, in company with Willie Buchanan, saved his way out of the industrial school, and made his way to this city, where he remained in hiding at his mother's house for three weeks. He left the city Friday evening with his brother, and was going to pay his fare to Los Angeles, where he intended to join the navy and try to live down his old ways. He got just beyond Caliente, when his life was snuffed out in a box car wreck.

BLAMES AUTHORITIES.

Mrs. Olson is strong in her feelings of resentment against the management of the state industrial school at Ogden. She says that on Aug. 2, the day before her son escaped from the institution, she went to the school and requested permission to see her boy. She says that Supt. Thomas refused her the privilege, and that she was told that he would get something worse in the near future. Mrs. Olson pleaded for a chance to see her boy, but was met with a persistent refusal. Now that the boy saved his way out through the iron bars of the institution and made his way to Salt Lake.

There was a reward of $25 up for the capture of the runaway lad, and the police were watching every avenue for him. He managed to get out of the city Friday evening with his brother, fleeing a freight train go by, Stanley jumped on that instead of waiting to pay his fare as a passenger. His choice resulted in his death, for it was while rolled up in his coat in a box car that the wreck occurred which resulted in his body being crushed at Caliente, a few miles the other side of Caliente.

Funeral services were held from the funeral chapel of Eber W. Hall at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

FIND NO CLUES.

Identity of Thief Who Took Lead Pipe Is Still in Doubt.

Persistent probing on the part of Supt. of Waterworks Hobday has failed to fix the responsibility for the theft of 1,100 pounds of lead pipe from the department's storehouse on Canyon road. Alexander Burt, a plumber employed by the city, says that he counted the stock every day up to Thursday, Aug. 13. Two days later the material was missing. The place was not broken into, but the pipe was taken from the front door. It would require at least two men to carry each of the 300 pound coils, unless the pipe was cut into sections. There is no indication that this was done.

Joseph Cohen is storekeeper for the department, and he maintains that Burt told him that the coils had been counted up to Tuesday, Aug. 11, a discrepancy of two days from the other statement.

Until the guilty parties are apprehended, all the employees in City Creek canyon are more or less under suspicion. The police have the matter in hand, but as yet there is no clue as to who may be guilty.

WEST SIDE GYMNASIUM.

A number of residents of the Poplar Grove district held a meeting last evening at which it was decided to erect a building for a gymnasium for the young people of the district. E. J. Lucas, of the Y. M. C. A., organized a club and started the movement for erecting the building. The plan is to put up a structure 52 by 72 feet in dimensions with a 22-foot ceiling for the gymnasium. The project will be under the control of the Burlington mission of the Baptist church.

SHOPLIFTER IS NABBED

Mexican Sheepherder Run Down After Long and Exciting Chase Through Alleys.

Salt Lake City is at the present time harboring a gang of Mexican crooks. According to Officer C. A. Carlson, one of the most energetic officers in the police department, there is a large gang of these crooks operating in Salt Lake and he has undertaken the task of weeding the city of them. Carlson started out this morning and landed two behind the bars. One proved to be a rather important capture when Louis Reyes, aged 19 years, a sheepherder, was caught after a spirited chase of about four blocks and locked in the city jail for shoplifting. The man is believed to be a clever crook.

Early this morning Reyes with a pal entered Hamilton's store at 216 Main street and said they wished to purchase some silk skirts. While one of the men was examining some articles, Reyes slipped a silk undershirt valued at $7.50 under his coat and ran out. He ran down to Third South street with a clerk, R. E. Ventish in hot pursuit. Carlson then took up the chase and followed the men to the I. X. L. store where the fellow ran through an alley and out onto State street. Here Officer Carlson captured Reyes and placed the "hippers" on his wrists. He took the man back to Main street to get the silk skirt. He happened to look up an alleyway and saw a newsboy proudly displaying a cakewalk with the skirt on. The article was recovered and then Carlson marched the crook to the station.

The officer then started out to find Reyes' companion and shortly before noon brought in another Mexican who gave the name of A. J. Vasquez. The latter, with several pals of the shoplifter, was stopping at a dive on Commercial street.

"There seems to be a gang of these fellows in town," said Carlson, "and we are trying to weed them out. Many petty thefts have occurred and there has been some shoplifting and we have reason to believe that these fellows are responsible for most of it. We will land some more of them before night."

INTERESTING LECTURES.

On Friday the Pioneer Stake Relief society will hold an interesting conference in the Pioneer stake hall. Two sessions will be held, one commencing at 7 o'clock and the other at 8 o'clock. The first session will be devoted to the presentation of the "Domestic Science in the Home," by Mrs. J. W. Grant. The second session will be devoted to the "Political Status of the Women of Utah," by Mrs. J. W. Grant. The lecture will be held at 8 o'clock.

NEGLECTED GRAVES.

Suggestion That Municipalities Ought To Take Care of Burial Grounds.

A friend of the "News" in the subjoined communication suggests that municipalities ought to take care of burial places and see that graves are not entirely neglected. He writes:

"Salt Lake City, Aug. 25, 1908.

"To the Editor:

"I believe it was Emerson who wrote, 'Beware when God turns loose a thinker! I am thinking, but I hope, not to endanger anybody or anything.'"

"Sunday I attended the funeral of Laron Pratt and listened to the beautiful remarks of the speakers and the inspiring singing. Then I followed the remains to the city of the dead, where they were deposited near the resting place of the late Apostle Orson Pratt, the father of Laron Pratt. At that grave the thoughts crowded in upon me. Once before I stood upon the same spot. That was 25 years ago, when I, together with a member of the Pratt family, paid a visit to the burial ground of the family. So unknown was that spot then that we actually had difficulty in finding it. After a number of inquiries the sexton accompanied us to the grave. We walked along the beautiful streets of the silent city and passed a number of imposing monuments and finally came to a place where the sagebrush grew just as it did when he, the first of the pioneers, came to this valley, the ever memorable 24th day of July, 1847. There was a little mound of earth and a little wooden board on which the name of Orson Pratt was written. I took in the desolation surrounding this spot. I looked at the 'sacred urns and animated busts' yonder, and realized that in this neglected spot was laid some heart once pregnant with celestial fire. And so I was thinking.

"Knowing as I did what Orson Pratt was to Utah, and indeed, to the entire mountain region, I thought that we who enjoy the fruits of the labor of such men are hardly doing justice to their memory. I have trod the floor of Westminster Abbey and have gazed upon the slab that covers the dust of Dickens. His name upon this slab is prominent enough. The author of David Copperfield, raised his own monument, and so did indeed Orson Pratt, but a grateful nation placed the remains of the immortal writer among the 'immortals' while we neglect the graves of our pioneers. Twenty-six years ago I wrote a letter on this same topic and I made the statement that though Orson Pratt could compute the distance of the fixed stars and the weight of the planets, he could not calculate the time it would take a family to consume a sack of flour. That is a peculiarity common to men of real genius. But should they therefore be neglected? "

"Poets sing of the death that levels all ranks and the place where the king's scepter and the shepherd's crook lie side by side, but when we walk through the cities of the dead we find some spots all beautified with green grass, shade trees, flowers and monuments, and others totally neglected. And these are graves all grown over with weeds, covered with dead weight, swept by devastating fires. And this makes me think: Why should not the community do something toward keeping the graves of all in a somewhat presentable condition? Would it be too much Socialism to spend some of the people's money on the beautifying of the cemeteries? Could the graves be kept green, at the expense of the public? Would it be too much to expect that the graveyard be not made an excuse for graft? "

"The idea of making the sexton's position a purely simply revolting. The practice of letting the grass and weeds die out because there is nobody to pay a dollar for water is almost galling. "

"Such were the thoughts that crowded upon my mind as I stood before the grave of Orson Pratt, now shaded by a willow tree and marked by a board on which it is written that he was born in 1811, and died in 1882. "

DEATH OF EMIL BOUKOSSKY.

Emil Boukossky, passed away at the family residence, 124 H street at 8:15 this morning of general debility at the age of 51 years and 8 months. The deceased went to California in 1848 and 25 years later came to Salt Lake and engaged in the wholesale liquor business. He leaves a widow, two daughters and a son, the daughters being Mrs. David Fulp of this city, and Mrs. Sternberg of Chicago. Louis Boukossky, the son, resides in New York.

CHILD'S NARROW ESCAPE.

Little Tot Falls From Second Story To Pavement.

Lewis, the 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Callister, of 260 G. street, had a narrow escape from death Monday night by falling from a second story window and alighting on the hard road below. The little fellow fell through a wire screen while playing circus in the room. He had just returned with his parents from a visit to friends. He had been prepared for bed and had on his pajamas. He moved furniture about to make a ring and while playing struck a chair and fell.

FRIENDLY TIP

Restored Hope and Confidence.

After several years of indigestion and its attendant evil influence on the mind, it is most very surprising that one finally loses faith in things generally.

A N. Y. woman writes an interesting letter. She says:

"Three years ago I suffered from an attack of peritonitis which left me in a most miserable condition. For over two years I suffered from nervousness, weak heart, shortness of breath, could not sleep, etc.

"My appetite was ravenous but I felt starved all the time. I was unable to eat food but it did not nourish me because of intestinal indigestion. Medical treatment did not seem to help. I got discouraged, stopped medicine and did not care much whether I lived or died.

"One day a friend asked me why I didn't try Grape-Nuts, and I had lost faith in everything, but to please my friends I began to use both and soon became very fond of them.

"It wasn't long before I got some strength, felt a decided change in my system, hope sprang up in my heart and slowly but surely I got better. I could sleep very well, the constant craving for food ceased and I have better health now than before the attack of peritonitis.

"My husband and I are still using Grape-Nuts and Postum." "There's a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

He lunged against a screen which flew open, precipitating the child through the window. His frightened screams attracted his parents who were in the next room. Mrs. Callister sank to the floor in a faint when she realized what had happened, but Mr. Callister quickly picked up the child and was overjoyed to find that he had not been seriously hurt. Dr. W. F. Eber was called and after a hasty examination announced that no bones were broken and that the child was all right with the exception of a few bruises.

FINDS FATHER DEAD.

W. E. Tribble of Green River Ends Long Search in Virginia.

After traveling thousands of miles in search of his father, in which every corner of the country was searched, W. E. Tribble, of Green River, Utah, arrived at Roanoke, Va., to find his father had died in the poor house there just a few days before. The old man disappeared from Green River about three months ago, and although every means to locate him were employed, no trace of his whereabouts could be found. The son decided to make a personal and systematic search for his father, and in doing so traveled thousands of miles in the search. He finally traced him to Roanoke, where the old man, penniless and without friends, sought aid of the public institution. He was a veteran of the Civil war.

AMUSEMENTS.

Theater—The sale of seats for "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary," in which May Robson, the well known character actress, opens the season at the theater, gives every indication of a big house tomorrow night.

Orpheum—The Boston Fadettes and the other features on the bill at the Orpheum this week are packing the State street vaudeville house nightly.

Grand—A big audience saw the new stock company at the Grand present "The Bell of Richmond" for the third time last night. The play, interpreted by good people, is a factor in heavy business.

Lyric—Patrons of the New Lyric are being treated to as realistic theatrical performance as live actors themselves could give, the cameraphone and moving pictures depicting scenes and action in a most natural manner.

Miss Gates' Concert—No greater testimonial of the position Miss Emma Gates holds in the hearts of her friends at home can be found than in the enthusiasm with which her rehearsals are now being carried forward. Prof. McClellan is devoting much time and care to the orchestral accompaniment of both the difficult and beautiful "Lucia" aria, and the equally difficult and equally brilliant Strauss "Waltz Song." That a singer should attempt two such folk roles in one evening is not only unusual, but with one of less preparation and ability than Miss Gates would be an impossibility.

ATTORNEYS IN HARGIS CASE FINED FOR CONTEMPT

Jackson, Ky., Aug. 25.—The most sensational session of the Breathitt circuit court held since Judge Carnes was here with the troops at the trials of the late Judge James Hargis was held today in the calling of the case of Beech Hargis, for the murder of his father, Judge Hargis. The courtroom was packed with spectators.

Judge Adams overruled the motion of the defendant requesting him to vacate the bench and directed the clerk to enter a fine of $25 each against Senator W. C. Bradley, Judge D. R. Redwine, J. J. Bach, All A. Young and Judge J. P. Adams. The defendant was fined $100 for failing to appear for the affidavit asking him to vacate. Judge Adams said the action of the attorneys in preparing the affidavit and filing it now is a contempt of court. He said he would discharge his duty and refuse to vacate.

The commonwealth's attorney then moved for a change of venue. Senator Bradley said the defendant was unprepared to argue this motion, and the hearing was postponed until Thursday.

appropriation for maintenance of the bureau during 1905-1908, covering Commissioner of Pensions. Warner's administration, as against the period of 1901-1904, is announced in the compilation of figures given out at the interior department today. The figures are taken from Commissioner Warner's report, which will be issued shortly. The statement follows:

"From 1901 to 1904 inclusive there were issued 516,251 certificates of pensions. From 1905 to 1908 inclusive there were issued, not including 232,577 increases under the act of April 19, 1908, made by directions to pension agents, $87,340. This makes an increase of 371,879. "From 1901 to 1904 inclusive, there was paid as pensions $554,888.97 and from 1905 to 1908 inclusive, $571,841,648, an increase of $16,952,671. "The operating expenses of the bureau from 1901 to 1904 inclusive were $12,281,748 and from 1905 to 1908 inclusive $13,077,162, a decrease of $2,044,586. "While the appropriations for the maintenance of the bureau have been reduced each year since 1904, there have been saved and converted into the treasury and unexpended, of such appropriations since that year, $1,343,666."
