DEPUTY-MARSHALS.

UTAH is not the only place where Deputy Marshals are made. The business is being largely carried on in Brooklyn just now. It will be seen by the dispatches in the NEWS to-day that U. S. Marshal Dalton has notified one thousand persons that their services will be needed in that capacity in the big whisky spill that has been going on there for the last few days. The "ring" here will feel bad to hear of so much whisky being spilled as the authorities have been under the necessity of throwing out at Brooklyn. In Brooklyn it is the canaille who are opposed to the pouring out of the liquor in the streets—the blackguards the roughs and the dregs of society—while the officers are in favor of enforcing the law, and Marshal Dalton calls Deputy Marshals from among the respectable, law-abiding classes to aid him in making it honorable. Contrast this with proceedings in Utah! Deputy Marshals here are called out at the bidding of the "ring," because liquor is spilled by legal authority and to prevent the repetition of the act, and who respond to the call? Not having the names of all those who were sworn in, we cannot say whether the robbers of the mail before Nephi were made Deputy Marshals or not; but of this we are assured, if they were not, it was because they did not happen to be in town at the time. They are of a class to answer the purpose admirably, and could scarcely have been omitted. Have respectable, law-abiding, responsible citizens been sworn in? If any have, we have failed to hear their names. We are told that a man who attempted assassination in this city lately was one of these Deputies. We have heard it rumored also that two, at least, of these mail robbers were Deputies. So that in this city we have a spectacle which affords a wide contrast with that witnessed in Brooklyn. We have Deputy Marshals summoned here to do the same work which the scum of New York society is trying to do there, and which the officers of the law are exerting themselves to prevent; and if whisky in Salt Lake City and whisky in Brooklyn does not have friends of similar tastes, instincts and character to oppose it being spilled in any gutters but their own throats, then we are misinformed as to the character of the Deputy Marshals sworn in lately in this city; that's all.

THE horrors of the slave trade as it was formerly encouraged and conducted in this country, and in the foreign colonies of some of the countries of Europe, excited the compassion and indignation of the civilized world, until public opinion doomed the abominable institution, and except in Brazil, its existence in Christendom is no longer tolerated by law. But the horrors of the traffic bid fair to be revived, to a very great extent, in the Coolie trade, which is now being carried on between China and some of the countries of the western hemisphere.

A late number of the Honolulu Commercial Advertiser, contains a most harrowing account of the condition of a cargo of these unfortunates, on their arrival at that port recently, on board the ship Dolores Ugarte, bound for Callao, in Peru. The cargo, numbering 600, was obtained at Macao, a Portuguese town on the Chinese Coast, sometime last June. For three weeks after leaving port the Coolies were not permitted on deck, but were stowed between decks, a space sixteen inches wide being allotted to each one. At the expiration of that period they were allowed to come on deck an hour a day for exercise, in gangs of fifty, and to make them exercise in lively style armed sentries occasionally applied the cat-o-nine tails. Their daily allowance of food consisted of one pound of boiled rice, with a pint of boiled water; this short allowance of water, in their terribly confined state, compelled them to endure great torment from thirst; while the stench that arose from between decks, in consequence of their being so closely confined, without ventilation, was intolerably offensive, the mate declaring that "you could not hold your head over the hatch one minute without vomiting."

During the voyage from Macao to Honolulu the poor wretches were frequently whipped, from twelve to twenty-four stripes being the usual allowance. Twenty-four deaths occurred during that portion of their trip; but on reaching Honolulu forty-three more were so far gone through disease, that it was thought necessary to land them, their condition was so utterly wretched and deplorable. They were unable to move hand or foot, and were placed in tubs and washed by the natives. One of the poor creatures died, twelve of the remainder were in the last stages of decay, some with ship fever, others with diarrhoea. Two at least had ulcers in the corner of their eyes so far advanced as to render them blind for life.

The condition of the poor fellows excited the compassion of all who beheld them, and measures were taken, quietly to prevent them being re-taken to the ship; the captain declared, however, that he did not care for the loss of this number, as they would have been sure to die before reaching Callao.

The recital reads more like a transaction, occurring in the days when all Christendom sanctioned slavery than of to-day; and after "barbarian" or "heathen" men have thus been ill-used and brutalized, while under the surveillance of white men, claiming to be Christian and superior, who can wonder that they should rise en masse and slaughter and commit atrocities on the race to which their tormentors belong, as the telegrams, a week or two since, stated the Coolies had done in Chili?

Surely such an inhuman system of traffic as this merits the interposition of the law makers and philanthropists of Christendom as much as slavery ever did! And nothing short of this will put a stop to it. The demand for cheap labor is so great, that Coolie importation will continue despite the protests of white labor; but for the sake of humanity and for the credit of Christendom and civilization such brutality as this should be repressed when practiced upon human beings with a yellow or copper colored skin, with as much promptitude and efficiency as when practiced towards the negro!

THE truism "The course of true love never does run smooth," has been forcibly illustrated in the experience of the hero of an o'er true story, related in the Bloomington, (Illinois) Pantagraph, the circumstances of which were brought to public notice through proceedings instituted in the Circuit Court of De Witt County. The story has a heroine, as all well concocted and well developed stories have, and the names given by the Pantagraph to the parties who figure in this singular affair, in the absence of their real ones, are Adam and Eve. Adam had been paying court to Eve for some time, and at length proposed marriage, to which the fair one assented. The license was procured and the ceremony performed, unknown to the girl's parents. After the ceremony the happy pair, to give time for completing preliminary affairs for housekeeping, resolved not to live together for three weeks, during which the affair was to be kept secret. Eve accordingly returned to the house of her parents, which Adam visited occasionally, as usual. The three weeks had nearly expired when Adam visited Eve on a Sunday, two or three weeks since, and as the old folks looked upon him as "sparking" their daughter his visit caused no particular attention or remark. During his stay the incautious youth, without a word of explanation, handed his father-in-law the marriage certificate of himself and Eve. The old man examined the document, and with signs of approaching wrath, turned to his daughter and asked if it were true. The faithless Eve, to escape the effects of parental indignation flatly and persistently denied the whole affair, the consequence of which was that the old gentleman seized master Adam by the collar and hastened his locomotion from the premises with sundry forcible applications of the foot to his nether parts.

The Pantagraph says: "Adam concluded that he did not want a wife, if he couldn't get her, and has filed a bill for divorce. He says the maiden and her people are worse than Philistines, and will not allow him to come around their dwelling. He is very emphatic in his relation of the circumstances, and his anxiety for a divorce is twice as great as it was to marry."

THIBET, in Tartary, a country as little known to the world at large as the interior of Africa, was visited by a very severe earthquake last Spring; and as electric telegraphs are still unknown there, and facilities for the transportation of news are few, and travel dangerous, the intelligence reached Bombay only a few weeks ago, having been transmitted by the Bishop of Batang, a place on the confines of Thibet, Birmah and China. Thibet is the country in which the Grand Llama, whoever that exalted personage may be, is worshipped, as the incarnation of Deity, his priests numbering many thousands. In one temple, the famous Lamassari, resided three thousand of them. This great building was levelled with the ground, and several hundred of the priests killed, besides near upon three thousand other persons. The quake extended over a district of country 16,200 square miles in extent. The message of the Bishop says that the Imperial highway, from Peking to Dhassa, at a point called Kong-dze-tin, has been rendered completely impassable by the fall of one mountain and the sudden upheaval of another.

A most singular case of somnambulism occurred recently at the town of London, New Hampshire. The somnambulist was a lady named Mrs. Sarah E. Ross. After working hard on Saturday she went to bed about midnight, without taking off her dress, and about four o'clock in the morning she rose and walked to a house in the south part of Concord, a distance of seven miles. The owner of the house, on rising about seven o'clock, saw a woman standing in the yard, who asked to come in and rest herself. Her appearance was very strange, and the man thought her insane. However, he invited her in, and she ate some breakfast and then lay down on a lounge and slept until about noon. Then she awoke suddenly and inquired where she was. On giving her husband's name and residence the man took her home, much to the joy of her relatives, who, knowing her habits of sleep-walking, had already dragged a pond in the vicinity and were searching the woods for her when she arrived.

Daring Robbery.

SAN FRANCISCO, 5.—The great overland eastward bound train, on the Central Pacific Railroad, was stopped and the express car robbed, last night, between Verdi and Reno, by a band of highwaymen, who boarded the train at fifteen miles and took possession of the express car and detached the express car and robbed it of about forty thousand dollars in coin, with which the robbers escaped to the mountains. A hot pursuit is organized.

SAN FRANCISCO, 6.—A dispatch from Toano, Nevada, to-day says the passenger train for the East arrived there yesterday three hours behind time, having been boarded at Independence, twenty-two miles west of Toano, by four highwaymen, while taking water. The train was uncoupled behind the express car and the robbers ordered the engineer to proceed leaving the train of cars behind. After running about fifteen miles, the engine stopped. The express car was sacked and several thousand dollars were taken. The deputy sheriff of Toano and a posse armed with Henry rifles immediately started in pursuit of the robbers. The train robbed is the same one that was stopped between Reno and Verdi the day before and plundered.

The following are the particulars of the robbery of the overland train near Toano: The mail car was also plundered of a large amount of bonds and greenbacks, estimated at high a quarter of a million. Wells, Fargo & Co., offer a reward of ten thousand dollars for the apprehension of the robbers. A pursuit has been instituted against both bands.

A counterfeit bond, of ten thousand dollars, was passed in the Bank of California by a man named Van Tassel. He escaped.

NEW YORK.

The Wreck of the "Varuna"—The Brooklyn Whisky Spill—Papal Zouaves—Taken Prisoner.

NEW YORK, 5.—The Canadian Papal Zouaves, over 200 in number, landed from the steamer Idaho, at Castle Garden, this morning. They proceeded to St. Peter's Church, heard mass, and then to the Astor House to breakfast. They left the Astor House at 11.15 o'clock, morning, and marched up Broadway, enroute to the depot of the New Haven Railroad. They wore a grey Zouave's uniform, trimmed with orange braiding. Their fine physique and soldierly bearing excited considerable admiration. They are commanded by Leuts. Tutufut and Murray.

U. S. Marshal Dalton has sent notices to one thousand men to act as deputy marshals in Brooklyn. On Tuesday three hundred had already been sworn. No trouble is anticipated by the police, though ample provision has been made for any emergency.

A dispatch, from London on the 4th, says that Garibaldi has been taken prisoner with thirty Italian officers.

Details of the wreck of the Varuna contain unfortunates of horror. The passengers were drowned in their state rooms, being caged, as it were, by the waves bursting in at the cabin doors. The captain and a number of the crew, while escaping in a boat, were caught by the rigging and went down with the ship. The second mate and four men escaped after dreadful suffering.

A cable to the World says the Provisional Government has rejected the terms of an armistice arranged by Thiers and Bismarck.

GEORGIA.

A Mordacious Affray.

ALBANY, 5.—The following are the particulars of the fatal affray, which occurred at Dawson, Ga., on the second, resulting in the death of two men and the wounding of a lady. A man named H. B. Russell, while intoxicated, asked the door keeper of the side show the price of admission and passed his family in. Russell asked the door keeper how many there were who replied "nine". Russell answered there were but four. The family back to prove that Russell was mistaken. The latter got angry and struck the doorkeeper, nearly knocking him down and then drew a pistol and threatened to blow the door keeper's brains out. The latter said he meant no offense. Russell, still threatening, cocked his pistol. The keeper ran inside the canvass. Col. Ames, being near, approached and remarked to Russell that this was not the place to get up a difficulty. Russell responded "I will kill you too," and shot at Col. Ames. Another circus man remonstrated with Russell. Two brothers named Kelly, known as desperate characters, approached and commenced firing. Ames was shot twice while endeavoring to escape. A spectator named Oxford was holding a child in his arms which was instantly killed. The child was taken into the tent and its dead body and a lady were wounded inside the canvass. Col. Ames died in the afternoon. His body was escorted to Macon by the City Council of Dawson. The murderers have been remanded to Centbert, Ga., and confined.

ALABAMA.

A Negro shot.

GLENATS.—This evening a quarrel between Jack Baxter white, and Alfred Granger, colored, both brick masons, culminated in the latter being shot and killed. Baxter surrendered himself to the City Marshal, from whom he was taken by a mob of negroes, stripped, beaten and dragged through the streets and left for dead. Through the influence of General Pettus other whites, who gathered and armed on hearing of the affair, were restrained from attacking the negroes. A strong force under General Pettus was summoned by the Sheriff by whom the body of Baxter was taken from the negroes, and the mob dispersed without further violence.

FOREIGN NEWS.

SWITZERLAND.

The French Repulsed.

BERNE, 4.—The French have been repulsed in an action at Mont Bellard, and a number of the fugitives have taken refuge in French territory. The Germans, in force, occupy Severance and have invested Belfort.

GREAT BRITAIN.

LONDON, 5.—In engagements from the 30th of October, to the present time, the French troops have displayed increasing valor and good discipline. The Prussian losses, from that date, amount to 28,019 men killed, wounded and prisoners.

There is increased bitterness at the slights Bismarck has shown in his language to the English, as contrasted with his courtesy to Americans and Russians. The investment of Belfort is confirmed. The French have been driven back, beyond Mont Bellard, and fugitives are pouring over the border. Clement Thome has been appointed to the command of the national guard.

PRUSSIA.

Preparations to Welcome King William.

A dispatch, from Berlin on the 5th, says that King William is expected at Berlin on the 11th inst., and that great preparations are being made to welcome him as Emperor of Germany.

FRANCE.

VERSAILLES, Sunday, via London.—Thiers has received orders from Paris to break off negotiations for an armistice and leave the Royal headquarters.

Special Notices.

PENMANSHIP.—Those desirous of being able to use the pen with ease and produce beautiful penmanship will do well to read the advertisement of Prof. Clark, the able and well-known writing master of this city. He is prepared to give lessons in this useful branch. d296 1

BEAUTY to be enhanced must be adorned, and its possessor can only accomplish its adornment by beholding its reflection. To better the appearance and increase the value of a fine picture, it must be put in a good frame; therefore we draw attention to the advertisement of G. Pfeiffer, 109 Fulton Street, New York, who manufactures Looking-Glasses and Picture Frames of every description. d296 1

FATHERS, HUSBANDS, BROTHERS, harden not your hearts, but give a kindly and indulgent ear to the pathetic appeal of your daughters, wives and sisters. When they lift to you their bleached and bleeding hands and ask you to buy one of Doty's Washing Machines and a Universal Wringer, unloose your purse strings. If you do so you will not regret it, for they will do on your behalf the labor you will thus save them. These valuable machines are for sale at Zion's Co-operative Mercantile Institution. See the advertisement. d296 1

PARTICULAR NOTICE should be paid to getting the BEST FLOUR, which is made by CHARLES WILKINSON, who has charge of the R. Y. LOWER MILL, his old stand, where he formerly gave such universal satisfaction. d295 1
