The deputation also urged the sheriff to keep Walworth in the Tombs as long as he could, but the sheriff expressed his determination to send him to Sing Sing to-morrow.

CHICAGO.—Accounts from Ohio, Indiana and Illinois state that the unprecedented rain storms of the last week have done immense damage. The crops of wheat, which in many localities were nearly ready to harvest, suffering most, but the growing grain also sustaining severe damage. The central part of Ohio, seems to have suffered most, and the amount of damage to the crops, fences, buildings and stock is estimated at hundreds of thousands of dollars. The storm was less general in Illinois, but still the loss will be very considerable.

BOSTON, 8.—A small sloop was found in the bay yesterday, and when being righted, a body became disengaged from the rigging and sunk. It is supposed that three others were drowned when the sloop capsized.

HALIFAX.—Bermuda dates to the 1st inst., say that while a number of men were pumping out the stranded ship Beaumaris Castle, Edmund Ryan, in attempting to clean the strainer of the pump, was suffocated with foul gas in the ship hold. Captain Brama and four other men went to his rescue, but became exhausted and had to be hauled out. Ryan was dead before he was got out.

The tug boat Daisy, of Liverpool, N. S., arrived here this morning with Henry Maid, the purser of the Inman steamer City of Washington, from whom the following particulars of the shipwreck are gleaned: The City of Washington sailed from Liverpool on the 24th of June, and from leaving that port until the vessel struck on the west side of Port Lebear, on the western coast, neither sun nor stars had been seen, so that it was impossible to obtain observations during the entire passage, in order to ascertain the position of the ship. When the steamer struck, about 2 on Saturday, the fog was so dense that no objects could be seen three rods ahead. Everybody on board supposed that the vessel was proceeding on her way to New York, and the only intimation to the contrary was the heavy grating sound as the vessel was driven over the rocks to the bottom of the shoals where she now lies. The steamer was going at about the rate of nine knots when she struck. There was no excitement on board at the time, everybody was perfectly calm, and Captain Phillips, the officers and crew immediately set about lowering the boats and getting the passengers on shore. There were 28 cabin and 481 steerage passengers. In the meantime guns were fired from the stranded ship, and in answer to them men came along side in small boats, from whom the first intimation was obtained as to the locality where the vessel had been driven. Fortunately the sea was calm and the distance from the main land was only a quarter of a mile, and the boats were speedily launched and manned, and in three hours from the time of the disaster every soul on board was landed at Port Lebear, where the inhabitants busied themselves in providing temporary accommodations for them. All the passengers' luggage and effects, the ship stores, &c., were also saved, and the stranded ship is lying on an even keel, as if riding at anchor. There is about fifteen feet of water at high tide on the shoal. The engine room is full of water, which ebbs and flows through it. It is supposed that a hole was stove in the bottom under the engine. The second deck is pretty clear of water, but below that the ship is full. The fog did not lift till yesterday, when for the first time it was seen that the vessel narrowly escaped total and immediate destruction, with the probable loss of every one on board. The distance between the port bows of the ship and Little Gull Rock was only about 200 yards. How she escaped in the dense fog is marvelous, and all on board, passengers and crew, are deeply thankful. In the direction the ship was steering along the dangerous western coast of this province, her escape from destruction on the reefs and sunken rocks, so plentifully sprinkled along the coast, was simply providential. There is no theory offered to account for the ship's deviation, though it is a fact that no observation had been taken from the time of her leaving Liverpool to the moment of the disaster. The place where the steamer is stranded is inside of Little Gull Rock, or what is properly known as Gull Bar. This is distant from Lockport, the nearest port, twenty miles, and from Halifax about eighty miles, in lat. 43 deg. 39 mins. north; long. 64 degs. 66 mins. West. The cabin passengers have been comfortably accommodated in houses at Port Lebear, while for the steerage passengers and crew, tents and awnings, made from ships' sails, have been erected on shore, where they have been comfortably attended to since landing. The agents of the co. have chartered a steamer to bring the passengers and crew to Halifax. She sailed for the wreck at daylight this morning, and will probably return to-morrow afternoon. The passengers will be forwarded to their destination by the most expeditious routes. Instructions to that effect have been sent to agents here. It is not correctly known whether the ship will prove a total loss or not. It is thought that all the cargo will be got out in a damaged state. Divers and wreckers with gear will leave here immediately for the wreck.
