At Liberty Again.

We were pleased to greet Brother Alexander Bills, of South Jordan, this morning, who, after serving a five months' term of imprisonment and paying fine and cest of suit amounting to $154 40 for having and acknowledging two wives, had just emerged from the penitentiary. He is feeling well, and will doubtless appreciate the degree of liberty he will now be permit-ted to enjoy all the better for having been deprived of it. The brethren who are now confined in the penitentiary are now reported to be in good health generally, and , enduring the trials of prison life with that patience and

The Creator has a pro-gramme to work to in governing the affairs of this earth and whenever individuals or nations cease to per-ferm their allotted part, they will be removed and succeeded by others. PRESIDENT W. G. SMITH of Morgan Stake, next addressed the congregation. He referred to the con-dition Utah was in in 1846, when it was generally thought that it would never be inhabited by civilized man. And yet in the carly part of that same year, a people were preparing to remove bither. He described some of the cir-cumstances under which the Saints began their westward journey, and pursued it, and the bardships they en-dured. The speaker was one of five hundred men who, when the Saints were in the straits he had just de-scribed, volunteered from among then, in response to the call of the United States Government, to go to Mexico to fight ther their country. At the time that call was made Sepator Benton thought the Saints would re-fuse to respond to it, and thus that solut the saints were in the straits he had just de-scribed, volunteered from among then, in response to the call of the United States Government, to go to Mexico to fight ther their country. At the time that call was made Sepator Benton thought the Saints would re-fuse to respond to it, and thus that was simply to raise a religious test of the question. He insisted that the fac-tion in Utah which opposed admission under the proposed constitution would be satisfied with nothing short of the disfranchisement of the Mormons because of their religious faith. Mr. Wilson's argu-ment was throughout able, eloquent and conclusive, and in discussing the Benton thought the Salats would re-fuse to respond to it, and thus that they could be charged with disloyalty. It was also expected that the Salats would be destroyed by the tribes of savages among whom they were go-
