

COUNT ZEPPELIN'S AERIAL VOYAGE

Took His Airship from Friedrichshafen to Bitterfeld, 456 miles, Without Landing.

HE HAS BEATEN ALL RECORDS

Inventor Personally in Charge—Conditions Favorable—Journey Took Twenty-two Hours.

Berlin, May 30.—Count Zeppelin, whose remarkable performance in his first airship brought unbounded honor to the inventor, today accomplished the most striking feat in his career. He guided his Zeppelin II from Friedrichshafen to Bitterfeld, a distance of more than 456 miles, without landing. The journey lasted nearly 22 hours and so far as known tonight Count Zeppelin is still in the air on the return journey to Friedrichshafen. He has already beaten all records for dirigible balloons with the opportunity of greatly improving the performance.

It was announced that the count would come to Berlin and land at the Tempelhof parade ground. Hundreds of thousands gathered there this afternoon. The emperor and empress, several of the princes and the leading military officials and officers were present and toward evening searchlights were set to work in anticipation of the approach of the airship. Soldiers kept an enormous space clear until half past 10 o'clock at night, when a dispatch from Bitterfeld announced that the airship was returning to the starting place at Friedrichshafen, which caused the most intense disappointment.

Count Zeppelin, who personally was in charge of the airship and whose hand was at the tiller during the greater part of the journey, left the floating mill shortly after 9 o'clock last night. The ship ascended directly for a few hundred feet and, passing over the town of Friedrichshafen, proceeded northward.

VOYAGE BEGUN.

The voyage began under favorable conditions. There was a lowering sky, rain clouds and a strong side wind when the airship left the floating mill.

The ship ascended directly for a few hundred feet and, passing over the town of Friedrichshafen, proceeded northward.

Early in the morning the people of Trossingen, a small city in central Bavaria, were awakened by the noise of the propellers of the craft, which was passing slowly. This was the first occasion the count had journeyed over Bavaria and his arrival an hour and a half later at Nuremberg caused the greatest surprise to thousands of pleasure seekers who were preparing for the holiday excursions.

The ship maneuvered over the city and then a card was thrown out, stating that a greater amount of water and benzine had been used than was expected, and that the craft would descend to the surface of Lake Dutzendich to replenish the water supply. This, however, was not carried out. Count Zeppelin continued his cruise onward without interruption in a direct line toward Berlin, passing over several towns at a low altitude until he reached the frontier of Saxony, where the airship was headed straight for Leipzig.

MANEUVERED AIRSHIP.

Telegrams received there from the south indicated that Count Zeppelin would make a landing and the entire population waited for several hours in the streets and open spaces to greet him. Instead of landing the count put his craft through a series of maneuvers for a half hour, coming at times comparatively close to the tops of buildings. He then went on crossing Halle to Bitterfeld. No time was wasted there and to everybody's surprise the airship, after describing a circle, turned again and sailed to the south.

In the meantime the military authorities at Berlin were absolutely without advice as to the count's plans. Maj. Gross, commander of the army balloon corps, said that no arrangements had been made for the landing of the airship at Tegel, the military balloon headquarters. The local authorities, however, learned from private dispatches that the airship was approaching and so informed the emperor and the prince. When it was definitely announced that the airship would not land here the crowds at first refused to give credence to the report, but finally dispersed.

PROGRESS OF VOYAGE.

The following dispatches were received here throughout the day, describing the progress of Count Zeppelin's flight from Friedrichshafen along the route to Bitterfeld, which is about 90 miles from Berlin:

"Friedrichshafen—Count Zeppelin ascended in the airship Zeppelin II at 9:42 last night. Complete secrecy was maintained as to the object of the trip, but it was reported that if conditions proved favorable an effort would be made to reach Berlin. Count Zeppelin himself was at the helm and there were two engineers and a crew of seven aboard."

"Trossingen—The population awoke at a surprise this morning when the Zeppelin airship was sighted at 6:45. The count threw out a card addressed to the manager of the Zeppelin company on which was written: 'Beautiful morning! all well! strong contrary winds; rain during the night. Will arrive at Nuremberg at 8:30.'"

"Nuremberg—The airship was sighted at 8:15 a. m. It maneuvered over the city. Thousands of persons, composing the holiday crowds, greeted the airship enthusiastically."

"The craft, however, continued on its journey without taking a water supply, owing to the large number of boats on the lake."

"Bayreuth, 10:30 a. m.—The airship has arrived here and is now moving slowly above the roofs at a low altitude. Thousands of spectators greeted it with hurrahs and the crew responded."

"Pauzen, 12:30 p. m.—Count Zeppelin carried out evolutions over this city at an altitude of about 600 feet. The propellers could be plainly heard."

"Leipzig, 2:30 p. m.—The airship arrived over the city at 2:15, a maneuver in the sight of tens of thousands, coming down a considerable distance to do so and then ascending to a high altitude and proceeding in the direction of Berlin."

"Bitterfeld—Count Zeppelin was over two cards, one of them containing the following message: 'Have decided to return—call in received order.' The airship then turned to the southward."

PAY UP YOUR DEBTS. RETURN BORROWED BOOKS

Ithaca, N. Y., May 31.—Pay your debts, square up your account with your landlord, return the borrowed text book or baseball glove or tennis racket and leave your account with the world square, was some of the advice given to the Cornell mechanical engineers by Prof. Vladimir Karapetoff, in his last lecture. Prof. Karapetoff is a socialist and one of the unique characters in the university faculty. "The faculty and registrar certainly do not treat you right on all accounts. What are you going to do about it? Are you going to poison the joys of coming years by carrying such reminders home with you? Settle your accounts now and for all time as far as Ithaca is concerned."

New York, May 31.—The debut on the vaudeville stage of Mrs. William F. Annis, was of the most successful nature. She was accompanied by her husband, who was applauded last night in a theater at Rockaway Beach. She did a piano selection, sang and recited, and her team of men and played as a request number "The Rosary" which she announced as the favorite of her husband. On insistent calls by the audience Mrs. Annis appeared before the curtain and announced that the death of her husband made it necessary for her to appear for herself and her children and that she felt that the stage afforded her a better opportunity than anything else.

WHOOPING COUGH.

This is a more dangerous disease than is generally presumed. It will be a surprise to many to learn that more deaths result from whooping cough than from pneumonia. The cough is often fatal, especially in children. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has been used in many cases of whooping cough and always with the best results. Delbert McKelg of Hercul, Iowa, says of it: "My boy took whooping cough when nine months old. He had it in the winter. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy which proved good. I cannot recommend it too highly." SHOE DEALER BADLY FRIGHTENED BY BULLFROG

New York, May 31.—A strange noise issuing from a small box which a stranger had requested him to keep temporarily led Antonio Sarnella, a prosperous shoe dealer at Bellevue, N. J., to suspect the package to contain a dynamite bomb, and especially as he had received threatening letters. The police were summoned and after the box had been doused in water it was opened. It contained nothing more than a two-pound bulldog, from which the alarming noises had emanated.

Chicago, May 31.—"To Miss Helen M. Gould, the friend of all soldiers, I hereby give and bequeath my death benefit to be paid to her by the United States government to be used by her, her heirs and assigns as she or they may see fit." That was the beginning and end of the will of Private John Barrett, who died recently at Fort Sheridan, and Miss Gould, who has been designated more than once as "America's foremost philanthropist," says it is the most touching tribute to her career.

What shall be done with our Millionaires?

Quite a problem, eh! You'll realize this more than ever when you read what Gilbert Chesterton, the English Mark Twain, says about them.

He declares there are only two things to do with our millionaires: either lynch 'em or tell the truth about 'em—and "one is as dangerous as the other."

Three thousand words of hot shot, tickle-grass, and cayenne pepper that will make you think—and talk. Then you can write us and tell what you think—and maybe we'll give you $25.00 for your opinion on Chesterton's article.

TONGS USING BOMBS.

New York, May 31.—In the war of the tongs at which there have been many casualties in New York City, a bomb was exploded last night in a Chinese laundry in East Twenty-second street. A minute before the explosion, a Chinaman presumed to be the one who planted the bomb, came out of the laundry and warned a score of children playing in the street, away from the scene, telling them that there was room to be a great explosion. A minute later the laundry blew up. The Hip Sing tong of Sang Lee, the owner of the laundry, is a deadly enemy, is accredited by him with the explosion. The laundry was wrecked, but no one was injured.

Chicago, May 31.—Further prosecution of Martin B. (Skinny) Madden and his associates, M. J. Boyle and Fred A. Pouchot, who were convicted on a charge of extortion Saturday is to be pushed by State's Atty. Wayman. That was the definite announcement which came from the public prosecutor yesterday. No date has been set for beginning the trial of the labor leaders on one of the other indictments, but Mrs. Wayman said it would be not earlier than six weeks as he had other work to attend to, and because of the difficulty in getting a jury while public attention was centered on the case.
