ing of His Three Campaigns.

DISTINGUISHED SPEAKERS.

Among Them Ex-Gov. Francis and Gov. Hoke Smith, Both Members Of Cleveland's Cabinet.

Madison Square Garden, New York, Oct. 26 .- At the close of a trying day -a day of outdoor speaking in a drenching rain, of fast, flying trips by automobile and special train, of receptions and formal dinners, and of three big evening meetings in different see big evening meetings in different sec-tions of the city, William J. Bryan to-might, in Madison Square Garden, ad-dressed the most notable gathering of his three campaigns. The great oval amphitheater of the Garden had an im-mense throng, limited only by its vast capacity. From platform to the farther-most reaches of the loftiest of the four encircling galleries there was no vacant place. The police early in the evening cut off all access to the building, with a disappointed waiting line blocks in length. length.

length. Notable as it was in the size and en-thusiasm of its great crowd, the meet-ing took superior rank in the distin-guished personnel of its speakers and party leaders who sat with Mr. Bryan upon the platform and cheered his eve-ry sentiment.

BRYAN REACHES GARDEN.

BRYAN REACHES GARDEN. It was 10:15 o'clock when Mr. Bryan finally reached the Garden. His com-ing was heraided by eager outposts at the door, and the first cry of "Bryan" brought all to their feet in one rising wave of humanity. A flag was in the hands of every person in the vast audi-ence, and the scene as the presidential calididate made his way through the alses to the stage was strikingly a re-petition of the demonstration at Denver when Mr. Bryan was nominated. The waving of the flags in a rippling sea of color, the cheering and music lasted for 4 minutes before Mr. Bryan with up. lifted hands finally secured the silence that permitted him to proceed. Mr. Bryan appeared tired and worn when he began to talk, but as he pro-ceeded the cheers of his hearers seemed to imbue him with new strength, and he spoke with all his characteristic vigor. His voice, clear and resonant as a bell, filled the big Garden to its far-thest corners. The candidate began his long day a bell, filled the big Garden to its far-thest corners. The candidate began his long day with a dash through mud and rain to Paterson, N. J., in an automobile. He spoke in a downpour for 20 minutes, and, like the thousands in his audi-ence, was drenched to the skin. Re-turning to the city, he was the guess at a reception of the Woman's Demo-cratic club at the Waldort-Astoria ho-tel, where two impulsive ladies threw their aims about Mr. Bryan and kissed lim. Next he made a flying trip tei, where two impulsive ladies threw their arms about Mr. Bryan and kissed bim. Next he made a flying trip through Westchester county, speaking at Yonkers, White Plains, Port Chester, New Rochella and Mount Vernon. Once more returning to New York, Mr. Bryan was the guest of honor at a reception and dinner at the Democratic club. Then began his evening tour which took him first before an outdoor gathering in Hamilton Fish park, be-fore a crowd that filled Cooper Union, and to the Palm garden at Fifty-eighth street and Third avenue. It was from the Palm garden that the candidate went direct to Madison Square Garden, In his Garden speech Mr. Bryan de-voted a large part of his time to labor topics. The enthusiasm reached its height when he predicted that, whether the Democratic party wins or loses, its policy of publicity of contributions would become the law of the land. Mr. Bryan was given another ova-tion when he concluded at 11:35

Mr. Bryan was given another ova-tion when he concluded at 11:35 o'clock. He had spoken several times of the lateness of the hour, but the crowd called to him to go on. The demonstration of applause and cheering seemed to increase in spontabelty and volume, rather than diminish as the midnight hour approached.

Women should understand that melancholia, commonly called "the blues," is in nine times out of ten a sure symptom of some serious female organic derangement and should have immediate attention.

Women whose spirits are depressed, and who are ailing and miserable, should rely upon LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEL. TABLE COMPOUND as is evidenced by following letters.

Mrs. F. Ellsworth, of Mayville, N. Y., writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

N. Y., writes to Mrs. Pinkham: "For three years I was in an awful despondent and nervous condition caused by female troubles. I was not contented anywhere, and was in such constant fear that something terrible was going to happen that it seemed as though I should lose my mind. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored my health, and I cannot sey enough for it." Mrs. Mary J. Williams, of Bridge-port, Ill., writes to Mrs. Pinkham: "I have been suffering from a female trouble, backache and hendaches, and trouble, backache and headaches, and was so blue that I was simply indespair. I feel it my duty as well as my pleasure to tell you that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cured me. The change in my appearance is wonderful, and I wish every suffering woman would try it." FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN. For thirty years Lydia E. Pink-ham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulcera-tion, irregularities, periodic pains, backache. Why doe't you try it?

opened the meeting with the nomina-tion for chairman of former Judge D. Cady Herrick, who was chosen. Judge Herrick spoke on national issues and attacked the policies of President Roosevelt, which, he said, would be perpetuated should Mr. Taft be elected. "The election of Mr. Bryan." he de-clared, "means a cessation of these policies."

The mention of Mr. Bryan's name called forth prolonged cheers and pre-saged the pent-up demonstration that was to come.

was to come. Gov. Francis, who was secretary of the interior in Mr. Cleveland's cabinet, referred to the fact that the Democ-racy was united this year and said it was time there was a change in the administration of federal affairs. The office-holders, he said, were afraid to be succeeded by other than their own party "lest the examinations will de-velop that they have not been true to their trusts." The arrival of Lowis Stuyvesant their trusts." The arrival of Lewis Stuvyesant Chanler, Democratic candidate for governor of New York, provoked a great demonstration. He told briefly of his tours through the state and declared that the sentiment every-where encountered was not only in favor of the state ticket, but for the south of the state ticket from William The Republican party he said, used quiet was restored, Mr. Bryan began speaking.

Notwithstanding the strain of the campaign his volce was in good condition and he was heard in all parts of the immense hall.
"If expect to be in Washington after March 4," he said. "I am gaid," he continued, "to be encouraged by the reports that come from your city and your state."
He pleaded for a Democratic Congress to help frame the remodial legislation which the Denver platform demanded and said that it would be possible to send to the senate measure after measure," and with a majority of the American people behind us "a can demand the senate sumbit to the will of the people expressed at the polls."
Mr. Bryan once again took occasion to urge the election of Mr. Chanler and 'he entire state ticket.
" friends in asking for your vote for our candidates stand for, and I want in a few minutes tonight to show you what our candidates stand for. I aspire to the presidency. It is not the honor of the office that attracts me. It is not because I shall find great pleasure in distributing patromare. There is one thing that makes "the first please the courtry is ripe for that legislation is needed—remedial elegislation. I believe the country is ripe for that legislation."

REPUBLICAN LEADERS.

REPUBLICAN LEADERS. Continuing Mr. Bryan said: "I have watched the progress of this campaign. I want to know, as the campaign is drawing to a close, to leave with you some thoughts I believe worthy of your consideration before you go. I charge that the Re-publican leaders no longer lead the Republican voters. I believe that out platform better expresses the real de-sire of a majority of the Republicans of the United States than their desire is expressed in the Republican plat-form."

is expressed in the Republican plat-form." He called attention to what he said was the departure of the Republican leaders from the ideals of the early Republicans. "The Republican party has claimed to be the party of morality." he de-clared. "It has claimed to express the conscience of the nation. I charge that today it misrepresents the moral sentiment of the country and betrays the conscience of the American peo-ple. There is a great question before the American people. It is honesty in nolitics. You cannot have honest government without honest politics and the Democratic party is inauger-ating a new era in American politics. The investigations, disclosures, the re-velations have shown what enormous campaign funds have been secretly collected and corruptly used and an awakened people demanded that that should stop, but the Republican sen-ate and house refused to listen to the demand, and a Republican nation-al convention rejected the plank that was almed at honesty in politics. Our committee applied the doctrine of the platform to the present campaign and has done what no national committee ever did before—it has taken the people into its confidence and laid bare the sources of its dampaign contributions. "The Republican national committee refuses to do this. The Republican national committee has promised to let you know after election what con-tributions have been made to that committee, but the Republican con-gressional committee has m-' yet an-nounced that you will ever know what contributions have been made to it." The Republican party, he said, used to claim that it represented the consti-tutioni that it represented the consti-

had waited for five hours for his com. Ing. Mr. Bryan appeared tired, but his volce was clear and firm and his deliv-ery energetic. In his speech he dis-claimed all personal credit for the pres-ence of the doctrines which he advo-cates. "I am not worthy to have my policies designated as 'Bryanism," said he. "I did not invent them: I did not make them great. They have given me whatever strength I have." Mr. Bryan's work did not end with his Cooper Union speech. It would be more accurate, perhaps, to say that his plans called for the running of the work of one day directly into that of the next, for he was scheduled to speak at 3 o'clock in the morning of Tuesday to an audience of night-workers in Cliy Hall park. Mrs. Bryan and Mrs, Nor-man Mack, it was funounced late to-night, also planned to attend the meet-ing.

Oct. 26.—Fourteen prisoners were brought into camp today in connection with recent night rider outrages in this section. This makes a total of 61 now in custody here. Three mounted scout-ing parties went out and two of them returned. The third will not be back before tomorrow night. A detachment headed by Maj. R. E. Martin, prepared to go to Obion tonight to search for the mysterious masked men who were reported to have been seen near that town. After communi-cating with several people. Col. Tattom decided that the story was without foundation and recalled the order.

COAST ARTILLERYMEN LOST.

San Diago, Cal., Oct. 27 .- Late last night arrangements were made at Fort Rosecrans to send out a boat to look for four members of the Twenty-eighth coast artillery and an army mechanic from San Francisco. The five men left for the Coronado islands Sunday morning on a fishing cruise, expecting to return the same night. They have not been seen since. They carried food and water for only one day. It is feared they have met with some mishap. The men are: Corporal Reynolds and Privates Blanchard, Wykoff and Crossby and Mechanic light arrangements were made at For

GREAT CROWD WAITING.

Hours before the doors of the big auditorium swung open the crowd clamored for admittance. Long lines clamored for admittance. Long these of fortunate ticket holders stood in the drizzling rain, while those who had been unable to obtain the coveted pasteboards were not permitted nearer than a block of the Garden. Rain did not seem to dampen the spirits of the stathering throng.

not seem to dampen the spirits of the gathering throng. The immense auditorium was quick-by filed and when 8 o'clock came every scat was taken and the alslesways became choked with hundreds of en-thusiastic partisans. It was Tam-many's welcome to the presidential candidate. The galleries were jammed with Tammany shouters, while from the gallery entrance a serpentine line of people, four abreast wound its way up Fourth avenue two blocks away. Inspector Courtright with several hundred police under his command, formed a cordon around the building, and only ticket holders were permitted to pass this line. to pass this line.

"We are all right down here," shouted a score of voices, and we are going to put you in Albany." "It is not so much a question of putting me in Albany as it is of putting William J. Bryan in the White House at Washington," responded Chanler. A great burst of cheering greeted

GOV. HOKE SMITH ..

GOV. HOKE SMITH.. Gov. Hoke Smith, "as a Cleveland Democrat," eulogized Mr. Bryan and said he resented the idea of any one attempting to compare the Rebuplican candidate with "that estimable Chris-tian gentleman from Nebraska." He also said that he resented the idea that Mr. Bryan could not be intrusted with the appointment of the four justices of the supreme court of the United States. It was while Gov. Smith was speak-ing that Bryan came in. In an in-stant a roar of sound from the ex-pectant crowd drowned out the gov-ernor's voice and Madison Square Garden was in the vortex of another Bryan demonstration. Men leaged to their chairs, and, waving flags, cheer-ed for 14 minutes without ces-sation. Gov. Smith tore loose an American flag from the platform ballustrade and waved it vigorously as Mr. Bryan and his escort mounted the platform and took seats at the speakers' table. The crowds in the gallerics shock the bunting decorations that hung from the gallery rails and when the band played "America" the crowd sang the national air. BRYAN STEPS FORWARD.

The Republican party, he said, used to claim that it represented the consti-tutional thought of the country, but, declared Mr. Bryan, it was not the de-fender of the Constitution. "The Re-publican leaders do not rergard consti-tional limitations," argued he, "and in this respect the present president and the Republican candidate for president are not exceptions to the rule." Taking up the president's letter re-garding labor, Mr. Bryan said the presi-dent criticized Mr. Gompers the other day for criticizing the couts. "I sub-

PRESIDENT'S DAILY BULLETIN.

PRESIDENT'S DAILY BULLETIN. The Democratic candidate charged that the president was now issuing a daily bulletin assuring the people that Mr. Taft was the friend of labor. "My friends," he said, "there is a cer-tain mutuality about friendship; both sides have to be consulted, and Mr. Roosevelt consult only one side when he discusses Mr. Taft as the friend of labor. I care not what be may say about Mr. Taft's friendship for labor. Mr. Taft's record shows that he is not in sympathy with those who toil in this in sympathy with those who toil in this

Mr. Taft's record snows that he is not in sympathy with those who toll in this country. "Here is something that I hope will engage his attention for the rest of the campaign. It is a decision rendered by him in the case of Thomas vs. the Louisville, New Orleans & Texas Paci-fic Rallway company. In that case Mr. Taft rendered a decision authorizing the receiver to make a cut of 10 per cent in the wages of the rallway em-ployes, and he rendered that decision in 1894, when the same question came be-fore other judges. The same question came before Judge Caldwell; and he re-fused to authorize a cut of 10 per cent in the wages of the employes, and when these employes who were affected by Judge Taft's decision, mado application to have wages restored to their former amount Mr. Taft, In rejecting their ap-plication, used this language: "Their appeal is exactly like that of "The office was held by Washington and Jefferson, by Jackson and Lincoln, and if I take it I want to take it with those gacred tra-ditions still clinging to it. I do not want it thrown into the arena of poli-tics and made a football between the parties." -
