

city. One of them is Louis Janin Jr., son of Louis Janin of this city and formerly an editor of the Mining and Engineering Journal, of New York. Mr. Janin was at one time a mining engineer here and is now in the employ of a London syndicate. His stay here will be short, as he is going to Australia to examine some properties that the London syndicate is thinking of purchasing.

Hamilton Smith of the London Exploration company, the largest mining syndicate in the world, is the other mining expert coming here. It was on this gentleman's report that the company recently bought the famous Anaconda mines in Montana. The company also owns the Oneida property in Amador county, California; the Alaska Treadwell, the Steeple Rock in New Mexico and the Minas Prietas in Mexico. It is believed that his trip to California has something to do with the rumors that the company is thinking of purchasing the famous Mariposa grant in Mariposa county, California, consisting of 44,000 acres in the heart of the Mother Lode country.

The property is owned by John W. Mackay, Alvinza Hayward, Senator John P. Jones of Nevada and the Hobart estate.

If the proposed deal goes through, it will be the biggest mining deal ever consummated in the West. It is also stated that Mr. Smith may arrange for the purchase by his company of the Homestake mine in South Dakota.

NOGALES, Ariz., Oct. 27.—A bull fight with fatal results occurred at Nogales, Sonora, Sunday, and for a short time caused a panic in the audience. One of the bulls, becoming more enraged than usual at the rather tame fight, rushed about the arena, goring everything within sight.

A horse was disemboweled. A pleader, Jose Angulo, in an attempt to place a thumb in the side of the wild animal, was caught on one of its long horns which pierced him like a sword. He was tossed and fell to the ground bleeding and mangled where the beast held him between its horns and pawed him. He was frightfully injured and died a few minutes later.

ROCKFORD, Ill., Oct. 27.—George Jacob Schweinforth and his bride, formerly Miss Tuttle, her two children and two other couples from "heaven" who were married at the same time as the so-called Messiah, at Minneapolis, returned to the city this morning after an absence of nearly five months. The "chariot" from the Weiden farm was at the station to meet the party. Schweinforth smiled as he referred to his wife. Asked whether he intended to move from his location south to this city, he simply replied: "Time alone will tell."

Both Schweinforth and his wife carried guitars giving an additional motley touch to the appearance of the party.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—The Venezuelan government has forwarded to Washington a brief prepared at Caracas by a commission of five eminent jurists on the British Venezuela boundary question. It will be submitted to the United States commission as soon as the translation is completed. The brief covers 300 pages and is said to be a forcible presentation of the case. Messrs. Scruggs and Storrow, counsel for Venezuela in this country, are about to submit their final arguments. Heretofore the documents presented have covered points of evidence, but the taking of proof now is practically over, and the final arguments are in order.

The recent document which has caused much comment among official purports to be written by a Jesuit priest. He presents the English side of the case, citing Catholic authorities, drawn from Vatican archives. The book was printed at Rome. Venezuelan officials say the views it expresses have been fully met and overcome in Venezuelan documents presented to the commission.

NEWS OF THE STATE.

Payson Globe: Dr. Wade was called over to Santaquin Wednesday to set a broken leg for Mrs. Sorley. The lady was with a company of other people from Ogden, who were traveling by teams down to St. George. When on the outskirts of Santaquin, the horses bolted to the wagon in which Mrs. Sorley was riding became frightened and upset the vehicle throwing the unfortunate lady out, breaking both bones of her right leg just above the ankle.

Randolph, Rich county, Roundup, Oct. 23: James Marshall is missing since last Sunday and his wife and friends are very anxious about him; he left here last Sunday to go to the ranch. On Monday his horse returned minus blanket, bridle and lariat, but the saddle was on it; another horse is missing from the ranch. A strong search party left here today to try and locate him. He is a married man with three children and his brother, Dan, says he has acted queer for some time.

Brigham Bugler: Tuesday there was a fire at Olef Jeppson's home in the Fourth ward. Mrs. Jeppson went down to visit her mother, leaving three little children alone in the house. During her absence a live spark hopped out of the stove and soon a blaze was started in the oilcloth and a towel. Seeing this, the eldest child, Emogene, a girl of only five, bravely picked up the burning towel and rushed outdoors with it. She then came back and with the aid of a pail of water extinguished the fire in the oilcloth. Her heroic work no doubt saved the house from burning down. Such presence of mind in one so young is quite remarkable. This is the third or fourth wonderful work of child heroes in Brigham City in the past few years.

Bountiful Clipper: South Weber farmers are now busy digging their potatoes and marketing them, being sold at 25 to 30 cents a hundred weight. Several carloads of wheat have been shipped this fall; some of it selling at 62½ cents a bushel. Tuttle brothers of Bountiful lost a number of hogs Thursday in the east windstorm; many of the ranchers or homesteaders on Church Island should run across the property the owners would be pleased to recover the same. Part of a day and a night last week

Willford Tuttle and his wife were away from home stopping at her grandfather's who was at the point of death at the time and when they returned home they found that burglars had entered their house through an unfastened window and relieved them of four silver dollars which were in the till of a trunk that was not locked. Nothing further, however, had been molested. The Relief Society conference of Davis Stake will be held at Kaysville, October 29, at 10 a. m.

Park City Record: Another of those distressing accidents occasioned by the failure of giant powder to explode when a row of holes were fired, occurred at Ontario No. 3 mine Saturday, Oct. 24, and John Keeler, one of the best known and highly respected young men in the camp, was the victim. Mr. Keeler was working in a raise and did not think of danger, as all the holes had apparently gone off, but it seems a small piece of powder had failed to explode and into it the unfortunate man drove his pick. The explosion which followed struck Mr. Keeler full in the face, cutting him in a frightful manner and destroying the sight of the right eye entirely and badly damaging that of the left. Drs. Gregor and Wilson were hurriedly summoned and put in the entire morning picking fine rock and dirt from the injured man's head and face. He will be sent to the hospital at Salt Lake. Tuesday evening about 6 o'clock the dead body of Peter Beriz was found lying near the bottom of the old Woodside dump with his head horribly mangled from a charge of shot. The find was made by Charles Hogan and Alfred Addy, employees of the Silver King mine, while coming from work. The first rumor that gained currency after the finding of the body was to the effect that it was a plain case of suicide; that the deceased had often threatened to blow his head off and that Mrs. Beriz had said so. The coroner's investigation, however, developed a different story entirely, and after a careful examination into the details of the case, the jury brought in a verdict to the effect that the deceased had come to his death from a gunshot wound accidentally inflicted by his own hand. The deceased had borrowed a No. 10 magazine shotgun from a neighbor early Tuesday morning, and about noon started out with the avowed intention of hunting chickens on Treasure hill. He went up the Crescent tramway and crossed to the Woodside hoisting works, where he stopped and talked for some time with M. F. Savake and Sanford Hyde. After inquiring if a certain trail led over the hill to the Cumberland mine Beriz walked out to the end of the dump, where he stopped and stood for some time as if in deep meditation, and that was the last seen of him alive. The body was found several hundred feet below the point where he had last been seen, he being in a reclining position, the gun resting between the legs and the muzzle pointing towards the left shoulder. From the mouth up, the head was literally blown to pieces, blood, bones and brains being scattered about in all directions. Through the deplorable event Mrs. Beriz is left with the care of six small children.
