EDITORIAL NOTES.

Registered voters of the People's Party, male and female, should not neglect to attend the Primaries this evening at 8 o'clock. Select delegates to the County Convention who will represent the People properly and fully.

It is said that Postmaster General James contemplates reducing to 5 cents the registration fee on sums less than fifteen dollars.' Good. Supplement that action by a two cent letter postage, and the whole nation will be grateful.

The dispatches tell us that Don Carlos has been expelled from France, because while attending mass last Thursday he and his wife received extra attention from the priests and people, and the officials on escorting the pretender to his carriage officiously called out "hats off, gentlemen," to the spectators. Slight reason, one would think, to cause a man's expubsion from the country.

It is now neater than ever, and as proof of its popularity its business has so increased that larger premises have been rendered necessary. New, elegant and spacious quarters have been specially prepared for it at 1101 Pennsylvania Avenue, where the Star will shine every evening with increased lustre.

PRINTS,

SIGNS OF SOCIAL DECAY.

ACCORDING to the Boston Traveler, the marriage rate in the State of Massachusetts has been rapidly diminishing during the past twentyeight years, and this in spite of the growth and development of the resources of the country and the increased demand for labor. Statistics show that business depression, which occasionally occurs, does not materially affect the marriage tables, and the decrease is found to exist among the wealthy classes and not among the isboring population.

This we regard as a very bad sign. The condition of society cannot be good where aversion to marriage is exhibited among those who are financially able to assume the care and responsibilities of family life. It is frequently offered by young men as an excuse for not entering the matrimonial relation, that they are not able to afford the luxury of a wife, or to support one in the style which the young ladies of the period regard as necessary. Yet they frequently spend more in the indulgence of unwholesome habits than the cost of living would amount to for a companion. And this excuse is not valid, according to Massachusetts facts and figures, for it is not the indigent but the wellto-do who manifest disinelination to matrimony in that State. This is particularly evil and un-fortunate for the New England States, where the females so largely exceed the males in numbers. There are always plenty of marriageable girls and women, even in communities where the census shows that the masculine element exceeds the feminine, except in newly rettled districts or mining camps. But in Massachusetts and other places "down east," where the disproportion is so largely on the female side, the army of unmarried women is rendered immense by the aversion of the men to the family condition. of the men to the family condition. A decrease of marriage with an in-crease of population, is a state of so-clety which is nothing less than de-plorable. When to this condition is a state of so-clety which is nothing less than de-plorable.

When to this condition is added the in the ill fated valley: The killed disposition of many married persons in New Ulm are Mr. Eckert and 12 disposition of many married persons in the New England States to have no more than one or two chil-dren, the indications are plain and unmistakable that society is corrupt, and that licentiousness abounds. In a really virtuous com-munity, marriages are frequent and families numerous. Marriage is the legitinate regulator of the naturai a traction of the sexes, and family increase the natural result of proper matrimony. The rarity of marriage and the suppression of offspring are
