propriation of 1884; for monitors and for pay of navy and marine corps, there is given in lieu of one-half the equal to the balance remaining after the appropriation for the first six months from the whole sum proposed in said bill. There is nothing in the bill for the steel cruisers, an appropriation to complete them having already been made. The bill appropriates in all $6,120,155, which, added to the sum appropriated for the first six months ended Dec. 31, 1884, $8,800,317—makes the total appropriation for the navy for the entire fiscal year of 1885, $14,980,-472, or $913,941 less than appropriated On a point of order raised by Glass-cock, the provision that naval line officers may be detailed as instructors in any schools or colleges, was struck from the bill. No amendments were offered, and the committee having risen, the bill passed without a dissenting vote. The House then went into committee of the whole-Wilson of Iowa in the chair-on the consular and diplomatic appropriation bill. Burns stated that the appropriation carried by the bill was $1,190.835, or less than the estimates. An item of $225,000 asked for by the esti-mates for resurveying the boundary line between the United States and Mexico was omitted. Many things remained undone that, under the treaty with Mexico, must be done before that government would be bound to pay one-half the expense of the work. Robinson of New York said he was opposed to appropriating money to pamper a lot of incurable snobs. He did not want a democratic snob to succeed a republican snob (Lowell). Holman raised a point of order against the item providing for a consul-general at Madrid. The point was sustained and the item struck out. The committee then rose, and the House adjourned. AMERICAN. KANSAS CITY, 10. - The interview with Captain Pheelan, heretofore meutioned as published in the Journal of amount contained in said biil, a sum this city, of December 21st, is devoted chiefly to the relation of a plot to blow for the fiscal year 1884. There was no debate on the bill, and it was immediately read by sections for amendments. On a point of order raised, by Class ecured from the full report it seems likely that one of them will die. The origin of the quarrel probably had some rela-tion to Irish politics and dynamite. Description of an In and elsewhere that Rossa's office was the headquarters of a harmless lot of blusterers whose interest in Ireland's wrongs was far less zealous than their ardor for the filling of their pockets, and that they claimed the planning and direction of dynamite schemes in Great Reitain merely for the sake of stimu-

up a steamer and a description of the manner of manipulating their mysteri-ous dynamite machine. The story, as told by Captain Phelan, is substantially as follows: In June, 1883, he made a voyage to Europe to secure information which would prevent the extradition of P. J. Sheridan, the Irish agitator, and his removal to England. visited Paris and accomplished his mission. Meanwhile, however, the British government abandoned the cfney, who blew up the Caledonian railway station at Glasgow, and after-wards escaped to America. He sailed in the Belgravia, and Kearney was to follow three days latter in the Qien, and they were to meet in Edin-burgh. He knew that there was a plan to blow up the Queen after the passengers landed at Liverpool. When the men metat Edinbur, h, Phelan asked Kearney why he had not gers were taken in a tender. He was approached by Inspector Marsh of Liverpool, Head Constable Murphy of Ireland, and also Mr. Jenk-insou, who had charged of the criminal prosecutions in Ireland, all of whom tried to get him in the service of the government. They told him the names of several pretended Irish patriots who were working for the government, and he began to see how the authorities some of their information. He could not conjecture how they discoverd the Queen plot, as Kearney said dropped upon Kearney's plaus in New York. Concluding his narrative, Phelan said he was finally permitted to have Liverpool. When he arrived at Glasgow he found his valises had been broken open and searched-done, he thought, by a man who introduced himself in Edinburgh as James Powers, and whom Phelan believed was a British detective who had shadowed him isn detective who had shadowed him from New York, and endeavored to get into his confidence. Kearney had to lay very low, but Phelan succeeded in getting him out of England by dis-guising himself as Kearney and throw-ing the officers off the track. The Captain also described the mechanism Description of an Infernal Machine. The machine is simple, but works with fatal precision. It consists of a reservoir of acid, which drops upon a tube enveloped in sheets of tissue pa-per. It takes a minute for the acid to eat through each sheet of paper. In this case, 120 sheets were wrapped around the tube. When the last sheet is eaten through the acid runs down the tabe and apon the percussion cap beneath, and then comes the explosion. The machine is noiseless and almost infailble in its working of terrible in-

The latter re-plied that he had placed a sufficient quantity of dyvamite to blow up the Pyramids in the vessel's hold, but the senate containing of Indian lands to-day. He had no personal knowledge of any bribery or irregularity in con-nection with the leases. He had heard a rumor that,$4,000 was paid C. the Cherokee Nation, was examined by M. After considerable pressing as to who 'so and so' were, he mentioned Major Scaler, Chiel Justice of the Supreme Court of the Cheroke nation, as one of them; had talked with Bushy Head, the Chief, about the lease. Bushy Head talked as if an in-vestigation would hurt the nation, and said: "Gus, you are an asplring man you want to run for the Senate, and you had better not do anything that will hurt you." Bushy Head said the lease was the best that could be done under the circumstances. Many under the circumstances. Many thought Bushy Head would veto the bill, as inferior hands were renting at 4 to 6 cents per acre, while the Chero-kees received but 1% cents. Bushy Head said, however, it was better to
