That is the Term Applied to The Railroad Rate Measure.

GIANTS YET IN THE SENATE.

Presentations of Questions in Debates Are as Masterful These Times as In Days of Yore.

Special Correspondence. Washington, March 12.-Both sides in the railroad rate contest are conunding for the approval of the president. Men with amendments to be made to the Hepburn bill and those who oppose any changes in the bill seek the support of the White House. When the measure is finally completed it may be either the Hepburn bill, the Deliver-Clapp bill or the Spooner Teams it compromise; but whatever name it c who eppose any changes in the bill mere would not have been as drastic a measure as the Hepburn bill, so it is a Roosevelt measure no matter what name it may bear.

TWO GREAT DEBATES.

ed in every Congress. They pass the senate quite often, but they meet defeat in the house. The men who guard the purse strings of the government in the lower branch of Congress are not quite so liberal in expenditures of this kind. It would scarcely comport with senatorial couriesy for a senator to object to a bill of another senator for a monument any more than to obfor a monument any more than to ob-ject to his public building bill.

CLAPP WAS IMPATIENT

The day an agreemnt was reached to vote on the statchood bill the sen-ate had one of those long "sewing so-clety" wrangles over the unanimous ciety" wrangles over the unanimous consent arrangement. Meanwhile Senator Clapp of Minnesota had been trying to get consideration for the bill settling the affairs of the five civilized tribes. Finally when some reference was made to this measure Senator Beveridge said he did not think more than a day would be necessary for the Indian bill. "I suggest." said Clapp. "that at the present rate of progress a vote will not be reached for several a vote will not be reached for several days."

"The senator is ready to take up the Indian bill immediately, I understand, said Beveridge.

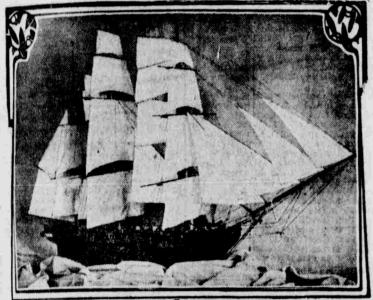

"If I ever get a chance," answered Clapp, who was getting impatient.

After more wrangling the agreement was reached, and Clapp went on with his bill.

SUPREME COURT NEWS.

It has been generally understood that Secy. Taft was to have a place on the supreme court bench if one of the present justices should retire. It has been intimated for a number of years "There were giants in those days," is an expression that is often heard in comparing the senate of the present time with the senate before the Civil war and for a decade afterward. If

MODEL OF OLD FRIGATE CONSTITUTION MADE BY THE GOV-

The monster petition presented before Congress, signed by thousands of the most prominent men and women of the New England states, to preserve to posterity the old frigate Constitution has attracted a great deal of atention in all parts of the country by its size as well as it manifestation of patriotism. The petition is the outcome of the proposal of the secretary of the navy to use what is left of the aged warship as a targetship for its fren-clad descendants.

The National Museum at Washington is preparing a model of the old ship which will soon be placed on exhibition to the public. The plans are the original ones from the drawing of the navy department.

those persons who think there has been one recently asked the secretary if a retrograde movement in the senate would carefully read the debates between Bacon and Spooner on the rights of the senate and the president and the debate between Bailey and Patterson on the right of a caucus to control a senator's vote, they might think that there are "giants" in the senate now. It is the belief of those who heard the discussion that the senate has not heard such strong presentations in many days. Senator Blackburn, who has been more than a quarter of a century in public life, says these de-

A senator who had called up and passed a bill for a monument in his state said, "I do not believe that the United States ought to build monuments in states or in places outside of the national capital but other states are getting these bills through, and I am obliged to do the same."

These monument bills are introduc-

Senator Hopkins was pointing out the great advantages that were to be gained by states keeping their men in the senate, as they reached positions at the head of important committees and that therein was the power of several states. "I will venture to say," remarked Senator Carter, in a slow and deliberate manner, "that upon the mat-ter of the advisability of continuity of service in this body there will not be found a dissenting opinion."

And the senators laughed heartily.

A NOTABLE RISE IN LIFE.

Governor James O. Davidson, governor of Wisconsin, is a remarkable example of the self made man. Thirtyfour years ago he landed at Castle Garden from the steerage of a transatlantic steamer which had brought him and several hundred of his fellow Norwegian compatriots to the new world. His first work in America was as a farm hand and the first money he earned went to pay for his passage, for he had borrowed it. In time he became a merchant and grew exceedingly prosperous and was eventually sent to the legislature. Finally he was elected lieutenant governor on the ticket headed by La Follette. At the elevation of that gentleman to the United States senate Mr. Davidson became governor.

HOW PEET "CALLED" SENATOR DUBOIS

Mormon Eater Badly Jarred During His Lecture to Women.

OFFER BY MAN FROM UTAH.

Although it Was a Good One, the Man From Idaho Had Nothing Much to Say.

Philadelphia Record: A small but sturdy man of middle age, who declared inself to be V. S. Peet of Utah, gave Senator Fred L. Dubois of Idaho an awkward 10 minutes last night and made a goodly crowd of women gasp in amazement and horror. The women, representing the Congress of Mothers and several Mothers' clubs, had assembled to hear Senator Dubois lecture on his recent trip to the Philippines, but the eloquent opponent of the retention in the United States senate of Reed Smoot could not resist the temptation to touch on the "Mormon" menace and the interference in politics of the Church.

That touch brought to his feet the small but sturdy man who had been strting quietly in the rear of the assembly room. His first word focused upon him the eyes of the 290 or more women present. "I am V. S. Peet of Utah," he said, clearly and distinctly, while the women shivered visibly and looked daggers at the presumptious intruder, who women shivered visibly and looked dag-gers at the presumptious intruder, who claimed to have paid a dollar for his card of admission. The frown of the women falled to daunt the little man, however, and, without a tremor in his voice, he continued:

OFFERS CASH FOR PROOFS.

"I am the authorized representative of the responsible business men of Salt Lake City and the entire state. I'm here for the specific purpose of offering you a reward of $1,000 for the antevery case of Mormon inter-rence in politics that you can prove. I am backed with $500,000 and a guarantee that my offer is made in good faith. I refer you to C. E. Loose, state senator and Utah's member of the Republican national committee. May I recall to your mind, senator, the fact that in 1898 you said, in direct contradiction of your statement tonight, that Mormonism did not interfere in politics?" "You ought to be in fail," replied Senator Dubols, who had recovered somewhat from the embarrassing effect of the unexpected interruption. "You are a lack Mormon or worse." The flutter among the women had. flutter among the women had subsided and nods of approval rewarded the leader of the propaganda against Mor-monism. ## H. H. ROGERS TO BE WILLING WITNESS

A decision of vital interest to the State of Missouri will be rendered by the Supreme Court in New York State on March 26 when a hearing will be held on the question as to whether H. H. Rogers of the Standard Oil company should answer questions propounded to him before Commissioner Sanborn in the efforts of the state of Missouri to revoke the charter of the Standard Oil company and subsidiary companies to do business in

At an adjourned hearing of the question a week ago, W. V. Rowe of counsel for Rogers made this surprising statement regarding his client's willingness to appear as a witness.

"I also wish to tell the courts, as the mouthpiece of Mr. Rogers, that if the final decision of the Missouri court is against Mr. Rogers he will answer the questions as to the stock tra usfer without any order of the court."
