COAL FAMINE THREATENS BOISE

Commercial Club Sends Representative to Investigate Condition of Mines.

FREIGHT RATES DISCUSSED.

Senator Heyburn Touches Upon Question of Great Interest to The People of Idaho.

Special Correspondence.

D OISE, Ida., July 18 .- A coal famine more terrible than this city has ever known is staring the citizens of Boise in the face, and the grim monster will come upon them with the falling of the winter snows, if some This fact is a patent one and has had the serious consideration of the Boise Commercial club for some time past, and the club has now decided upon a plan of action. At a meeting yesterday afterneon the board of directors of the club appointed M. Alexander to go as a representative to the Wyoming coal mines and investigate conditions there in regard to the supply of coal and then confer with the officials of the Oregon Short Line railroad at Salt Lake relative to transportation facilities, then return and give his report to the club and through it to the public.

Another action taken by the club with regard to the fuel situation was that of the directors in tructing the traffic committee of the club to take up the question of securing rates on anthractic coal from Pennsylvania, to insure a sufficient supply of coal for Boise next winter. MOVEMENT FOR CITY PARK.

Another matter of great importance to the citizens of this city discussed at the meeting of the directors of the Commercial club yesterday, was the proposition of securing from the military reserve, grounds for a city park. While the proposition is just in the nucleus, yet it gives promise of development and life.

MORE LAND SEGREGATIONS.

MORE LAND SEGREGATIONS.

At nearly every session of the state land board the board is called upon to consider propositions of segregating new lands for Carey act projects. At its meeting yesterday it granted the proposition of the Pratt Irrigation company and ordered 5,000 acres set aside in Oneida county. The state engineer was ordered to investigate the proposed site for the irrigation works.

At this meeting of the board the date was fixed for Sept. 4 on which a portion of the lands under the big Lost river irrigation project will be opened to settlement. The townsite of this project is Arco, in the northeastern part of Blaine county. The project contemplates the reclamation of 80,000 acres of choice land.

Applications were also considered for the turning over to the settlers of the Marysville and American Falls irrigation projects, which have completed their contract, delivered the water and disposed of the land.

RECEPTION TO SENATOR HEY-

RECEPTION TO SENATOR HEY-BURN.

On the return of Senator and Mrs. Heyburn from Washington the Boise Commercial club gave them a recep-tion at the club rooms Tuesday even-ing, which was participated in by Senator Borah, Congressman French, Gov. Gooding and numerous other of-ficials of state and city together with hosts of the many friends of Senator Heyburn Heyburn.

After an informal little visit and hand shaking around, the chairman called order and speeches were delivered by Mayor Haines, Gov. Gooding and Senator Borah, followed by a short address by Senator Heyburn.

After which refreshments were served. The Columbia band furnished music during the evening

PREIGHT RATE QUESTION

In his speech, Senator Heyburn touched upon a question of great interest to the people of Idaho, especially Boise. It was in reference to freight rates. The senator said:

"We propose, and I can speak for my colleagues because I know they are with me on these propositions, to see to it that we are not tributary to Portland, Spokane or Salt Lake. We do not exist for their benefit. We do not desire to draw what is entitled to them, but we don't propose to furnish them customers.

"I refer to the terminal freight rates or fare rates. The interstate commerce commission now has the rates or fare rates. The interstate commerce commission now has the right to determine rates and regulate them under similar circumstances. What I am working for is to cut out the provision which gives them this right and make the rates arbitrary, so the railroads will have no right to charge more for a shorter haul than they do for a longer one. I propose to hammer at that question in season and intelligently until I hammer it out.

and intelligently until I hammer it out of existence."

Senator and Mrs. Heyburn left yesterday for their home in Wallace, where they will spend a few weeks at rest

IDAHO MARBLE FOR STATUE.

At a meeting of the Shoup statue commission Tuesday in the governor's office it was the sentiment of all present that when the contract was let for the erection of the statue in honor of Senatur Shoup, to be placed in Statuary hall at the natural capital, Washington, D. C., that the sculptor should come to Idaho to make his selection of a suitable marble block for the purpose. Two bids have already been received, both from famous New York sculptors.

This commission was created by the last session of the state legislature and consists of Senators Heyburn and Borah, Congressman French, Gov. Gooding and Joseph Pernault. The fund at the disposal of this commission is $6.000.

The members of the commission disposal the scales.

The members of the commission discussed the peculiar appropriateness of having the first statue from Idaho to Statuary hall be that of Senator Shoup. In him the statue will represent the pioneer, the soldier and the statesman. He was the last territorial governor and the first state governor of Idaho, and its first United States senator.

LOST THEIR MONEY. A. B. Clifford, a lawyer from Fresho, Cal., came with his wife to settle in Bolse and get away from the earthquake country. They secured comfortable quarters and were having a nice time, when all at once they discovered that their money was gone—they bost their whole accumulations, which consisted of $2.080, in two $1.000 bills and eight $10 bills. Mrs. Clifford had carried them all the while pinned on

THREATENS LIFE OF HORSEMAN.

Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt has again come conspicuously before the public and for no fault of his own. This time the notoriety is occasioned because Miss Florence R. Schenck, of Norfolk, Va., swears that she became the wife of Charles H. Wilson, trainer of Mr. Vanderbilt's string of thoroughbreds which took many prizes at the London horse show, when Wilson already had a wife in Orange, N. J. Miss Schenck went to London with Wilson as his wife, returned to America and was repudiated by the man, who swears he never married her. She is a daughter of Dr. Powahatan Schenck, very proud of her ancestry and has openly threatened to kill Wilson unless he acknowledges that he married her in Richmond after deceiving her regarding his marital status. In the meantime Mr. Vanderbil is in the limelight and Wilson is poised between a bullet on the one hand from Miss Schenck's father, an outraged wife on the other, an insanely angry young woman and an expected dismissal from a very enviable position as the head of the Vanderbilt equine menage. Developments of a startling nature are expected at any moment.

BREAKS JAIL WITH WOODEN KEY.

This is the story of a penknife g enius. He is known as "Stub" Griffen and his home has been in the hills of Duchess county, New York. "Stub" has a failing for steam engines, so one day, in order to pursue his favorite study, he stole a locomotive and ran it full speed over a branch of the New York Central railroad. For that escapade, he was incarcerated in the county fail at Poughkeepsie, where he got very busy. He concluded to leave the jail and, having an old knife and a small piece of broken broom handle, he began to whittle his way to freedom. To "Stub" the process of making a key to fit the cell door was very simple and shortly he walked forth, going straight back to his home in the hills. His friends, however, were his undoing, for they congratulated him in many a flowing bowl and under the influence of the apple jack he stole another locomotive and hit up a hot gait for northern New York. Again captured, he was returned to jail and a commission in lunacy will be appointed to examine him. It is likely that he will be sent to Mattewan state asylum for the criminal insane.

The house was entirely consumed and one child, 3-year-old Peder Abel Larsen was burned to death. Mr. Larsen received painful burns in trying to save the children, as also did F. E. Warner, driver for the Bistline Lumber Co. who assisted Mrs. Larsen in the vain attempt to save the little one. The fire department did good work under unfavorable conditions. A 'phone message was received by Fire Chief Will Price that a fire was raging in the Grant suburbs, and he and Driver Joe Reynolds instantly attached the horses to the wagon, and they were well on the way before the general alarm was sounded. A strong wind was blowing and the house was nearly consumed before their arrival. Mr. Price being told of the fate of the child, rushed into the house, but found only the remains of the body, the feet having been entirely consumed by the fire.
