The military euche party given yesterday by Mrs. E. R. Holmes was a most artistic and delightful affair. All details were suggestive of the idea of the entertainment, and a large number of guests were present. The local one given in the drawing room which was handsomely decorated in chrysanthemums, American Beauty roses and palms, the hostess being assisted by Mrs. Wallace Bransford and Miss Shoup. Later the guests repaired to the art gallery where the tables were placed for the card contest, each room being a different color, the names being inscribed on white satin flags, in gilt letters. The decks of cards used had the pictures of George and Martha Washington on the reverse sides, and the score cards were in silver, while each guest was given a dainty flag to mark her progression from one table to another. A drum tap marked the stages of progression, and during the game the "Star Spangled Banner" was played by a victrola, which has been recently added to the art gallery. The tables were decorated with American Beauty roses, and shaded lights and fruits, which with the raffish china and silver made a picture. Presiding at the table were Mrs. W. W. Armstrong and Mrs. L. L. Terry. The prizes, which were delicate English china after dinner coffee cups and saucers in blue and gold, were won by Mrs. Thomas Weir, Mrs. F. L. Oswald, Mrs. George W. Commercial Club Indulges In Swell Musical.

The parlors of the Commercial club were so crowded that no more people could get in last evening, on the occasion of the annual musicale of the Commercial club. It was estimated that 500 persons were present, and over $80, but notwithstanding the great crowd, the entire program passed off without a murmur, and greatest credit to the participants. Prof. J. J. McClellan and Fred C. Graham were in charge, the program being as follows:

Quartet from "Rigoletto".....Verdi
Miss Edna Evans, Miss Edna Dwyer, Fred C. Graham, Horace Engsign.

Opus 81.....German

Miss Mary Olive Gray.

Aira from "Carmen".....Bizet
Fred C. Graham.

"Serenade".....Strauss
Miss Edna Dwyer.

The stringed quintet was an especially pleasing feature, whose successful performance led to the hope that chamber music might be made more of a feature in Salt Lake programs. The club room decorations were elaborate and beautiful, with long rows of palms and chrysanthemums lining the corridors, the tables and mantels in the parlors were masses of chrysanthemums, with American Beauty roses as the decoration in the ladies' dressing rooms. The silver cups won by the state in agricultural competitions were placed in the ladies' dressing room, and at the close of the program a buffet supper was served in the dining room, with an impromptu social. There were many elegant toilets among the ladies, and most of the gentlemen wore in full evening dress. Judging from last night's experience, the audience room facilities of the new Commercial club building will be taxed to their utmost when the next musicale is given. The reputation of Salt Lake as a musical center was again fully demonstrated last evening.

Mrs. F. E. McGurrin was hostess at an informal luncheon on Monday at the Alta club in honor of Miss Lees, who is visiting Mrs. W. H. Armstrong. The decorations were in yellow chrysanthemums and covers laid for eight.
