Last Night's Dispatches.

CONGRESSIONAL.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, 1.—When Booth was called, on the impeachment vote, he said: If the question of jurisdiction was proposed he would vote against it. He was clearly of the opinion that it was competent for the Senate by a majority vote to assert jurisdiction, and such decision having been made, it was the law of the case until reversed. When Booth made this announcement there was some applause in the gallery, but it was promptly checked.

Sargent gave notice that if the demonstration was repeated he would move to have the galleries cleared.

Jones, of Nev., said, in voting not guilty he did not mean to vote on the question of the guilt or innocence of the accused, but he did so on the ground that the accused was a private citizen and not liable to impeachment; but, like any other citizen, liable before the ordinary courts, where he had been indicted and was now awaiting trial.

Allison called up the conference report on the military academy appropriation bill, and in explanation he stated that the bill, as agreed upon in conference, appropriated $74,675 less than the bill of last year. As the bill came to the Senate from the House it appropriated $250,231, to which amount the Senate added $19,640. The conference committee had reduced the bill $18,776. The report was agreed to.

Ingalls, from the committee on Indian affairs, reported back the Senate bill to authorize the Secretary of the Interior to deposit certain Indian trust funds in the United States Treasury in lieu of investment, and moved that the Senate nonconcur in the amendment to the House bill, and ask for a committee of conference; so ordered.

The House bill to establish a new land district in the Territory of Wyoming, to be known as Evanston district, was passed.

The Chair announced West and Cockrill as members of the commission to consider the work of reorganizing the army authorized by the army appropriation bill recently passed.

Kelley called up the House bill to create an additional land district in the Territory of Idaho; passed.

The House bill providing for the sale of the Osage ceded lands in Kansas was taken up.

Edmunds moved an amendment, providing that the act shall not take effect until the tribes of Indians affected by it shall file their assent thereto with the Secretary of the Interior; agreed to and the bill passed.

The Senate then took up the river and harbor appropriation bill, and the various amendments proposed by the committee on appropriations were agreed to.

Pending discussion a message was received from the House of Representatives announcing the action of that body in regard to the death of Ed. Y. Parsons, member from Kentucky. Appropriate addresses were made by McCreery and Stevens as a mark of respect to the memory of the deceased.

A message was received from the President in answer to its resolution of the 20th, transmitting copies of correspondence between himself and Governor Chamberlain and other reports in regard to the recent trouble at Hamburg. He alludes to the disturbances in the South and awaits the coming report of the committee who recently investigated the Mississippi affair.

HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, 1.—Hale made a point of order that the committee on real estate pool had no authority to make a report on the subject of naval affairs.

The Speaker pro tem., Sayler, regarded the matter more as a question of fact than of parliamentary law, and declined to sustain the point of order.

The resolution reported by Glover was thereupon agreed to without division, and the matter was referred to the judiciary committee.

Randall, chairman of the committee on appropriations, reported a bill appropriating $227,566 for the payment of the indebtedness incurred in the construction of the New York post office building.

Conger commented on the lack of the appropriations for other public buildings, and intimated that Randall's sympathies led him to favor New York and Philadelphia.

Randall—What do you mean by your insinuation?

Conger—I mean just what I say, as I generally do.

Randall—If you mean to imply in the least degree that I have moved in the direction of New York claims one hairbreadth from the line of duty, you state that which you know to be not founded on fact.

Conger—I thought the gentleman ought to move in the same direction in regard to other public buildings, that would be in the line of duty.

Randall—When they come up for action it will be time enough to judge. I have reported no deficiency for any public building in Philadelphia. Throughout the whole land there has been an utter disregard of law in connection with the expenditures of public money, and the evidence given has struck even in high places

Pratt, member of the committee on public buildings, which had investigated the New York post office, explained how this deficiency had arisen, and exculpated Potter, supervising architect of the Treasury, from blame in the matter, saying it was the fault of the system which he had inherited from his predecessor, Mullet.

Randall—And this gentleman, whom you (Pratt) so highly commend (Potter) has been invited to resign, and it is a remarkable coincidence that his predecessor is to be called to his place.

Hale—I doubt whether the gentleman from Pennsylvania is borne out in that statement.

Randall—I see it so stated this morning in the republican papers. Perhaps the gentleman will tell us what the fact is. Has Potter been asked to resign, or has he resigned, or is he going to resign, and why?

Hale—It is not for me to say, only that I doubt whether the gentleman's statement is borne by facts.

Randall—I did not mean to say exactly that this was because Potter had done his duty in this respect, but when the gentleman from Iowa (Pratt) was commending him, it occurred to my mind that he ought to be retained in his position, and that the man whose errors he was correcting ought not to be reinstated.

Hale—I suppose that he has resigned of his own motion, and that there is nothing involving censure in his going out of office.

Randall—I understand how people get out of office; how Bristow and Wilson got out of office, and Yaryan and Dyer and Henderson.

Frye—They ought to have been got out.

Hale—Now and then men actually do resign of their own motion.

Randall—There is a proverb that few officers die and none resign.

The bill was passed.

Buckner, chairman of the committee of the District of Columbia, reported a resolution instructing the Clerk of the House to certify to the Attorney General and to the grand jury of the District of Columbia the testimony taken before that committee, with the view to having civil and criminal proceedings taken against persons shown to have violated the law and to have obtained money illegally; adopted.

Sampson called up the bill in regard to the measure of damages in the action for the infringement of patents.

Rice raised the question of consideration, and the House refused to consider the bill—yeas 74, nays 102.

The House then went into committee of the whole, Clymer in the chair, in order to take up the bill reported by the committee on invalid pensions for the payment of arrearages of pensions, making them date from the time of the pensioner's death or disability. It was necessary, however, under the rules to have each of the bills standing before it laid aside by a party vote, and as O'Brien and others sought to interpose all parliamentary obstacles to the consideration of the bill which would take many millions out of the Treasury, the process of getting at it proved to be too tedious, and had finally to be abandoned.

The committee rose, when obituary speeches were made by Jones, Boone and Lawrence.

Indians on the Move.

OMAHA, 1.—An official telegram from Camp Brown, Wyoming, says that the Indian scouts sent out from here report the hostile Indians moving south-east. They traced them from the head of Crazy Woman's Fork to the head of Little Powder River. The number was unknown, but is believed to be large. This corroborates the reports received from other sources, that a large number of Indians are doubtless making for the agencies.

Another New State.

The President, to-day, issued a proclamation declaring and proclaiming that the fundamental condition imposed by Congress on the State of Colorado to entitle that State to admission into the Union has been ratified, and that the admission of said State into the Union is now complete.

More About the Whiskey Frauds.

The sub-committee on the whisky frauds, to-day, examined Wm. A. Gavett, special agent of the Internal Revenue Bureau. He testified that he had been on duty on the recent investigation of the whiskey frauds in St. Louis. In June, 1875, witness met Solicitor Wilson at Cincinnati. In May previous, in obedience to instruction, Wilson informed him of his suspicion of the whiskey frauds in Cincinnati, and had a memoranda of several houses there, and was disposed to have the Collector removed. Witness remarked to him that unless he had charges against the Collector it were better he should move slowly. Wilson said it did not make any difference, as the President was backing the movements against the whiskey men. Wilson did not have the Collector removed, but frequently assured witness that the President was backing the movements no matter how strong the whiskey ring was, and Wilson said to him that Bristow was to be the next President, and gave him to understand this was the policy to be pursued. Witness differed with him, as he was rather under the impression that Blaine would be the next President. The instructions he received from Wilson were verbal, and he made seizures in Cincinnati. He had other conversations about the President, one of them at Wilson's office in Washington, September, 1875, when Wilson still insisted that Bristow was the man. On the 20th of May Yaryan was assigned as chief of the revenue agents. Yaryan undertook to instruct witness, saying he must work for Bristow, as it was a wise policy to do, and adding, "You will let up on that damned Blaine matter." This was said in a threatening manner. Yaryan gave witness assurances similar to those given by Wilson last year, that the President was in hearty sympathy with those who were prosecuting the whiskey thieves. Later, however, within the past four months, Yaryan seemed to feel differently. He did not make any direct charge against the President, and spoke as if he had not much respect for him.

Cochrane asked witness — Did Wilson speak of Bristow as a reformer?

The witness replied: At that time reform had not become a stereotype form as applied to the Presidency.

Cochrane—Did he say that Bristow was the right man in the right place? He said Bristow was the man for the next President, and that they were going to make him President. I listened to him attentively as I liked his zeal. He was very positive in his instructions that Bristow was to be the next President. I did not obey the instructions as such. I regarded what he said as a strong intimation that I must turn over to Bristow.

Q. Did Wilson ever ask you to go for Bristow?

A. Yes, at the Grand Hotel he said, "We are going to make him President." I said I was for Blaine.

Q Did you instruct him to go for Blaine?

A. He was my superior officer.

Q. Then he had no such power to instruct you?

A. If he had instructed me I should not have obeyed him, nor would I obey the President himself in such a case.

Marke Bangs, United States district attorney of northern Illinois, gave an account of the whiskey trials and the result.

Q. By Blaisted—Was the evidence disclosed before the grand jury, showing that Senator Logan or Mr. Farwell was complicated with the whiskey ring?

A. Not the slightest, nor in my investigation did I discover anything tending to implicate them in the whiskey frauds, nor did I hear evidence in that direction.

The examination of ex-solicitor Wilson will be resumed to-morrow, and other witnesses will probably appear to testify.

Bank Closed—Assumed his Duties.

ST. LOUIS, 1. — The Hibernia Bank closed to-day, and will go into liquidation. The stockholders lose about half, the others will be paid in full.

Wm. H. Bliss, the new U. S. district attorney, assumed the duties of his position to-day, vice Col. P. Dyer, with C. G. Drummond as assistant.

Frightful Accident.

DETROIT, Mich., 1.—About one o'clock to-day, at Bowbee's Lake, about a mile south of Hillsdale, in this State, where an excursion party from Coldwater, numbering about three hundred, were spending the day, sixteen of them went out on the lake in a flat boat or scow, when it suddenly sank and nine of the party were drowned. The water is fifty or sixty feet deep where the boat sank. Up to five p.m. none of the bodies had been recovered. The names of the drowned are as follows: G. H. Taylor, aged 45; Mrs. Thornton and child, 9 years; Mrs Musser; May Cunningham and her sister Libbie, aged respectively 14 and 16 years; Alice Hayes, aged 16; May Keeley, 14, and Randie Blackman, all of Coldwater. The wildest excitement prevails at Hillsdale.

The Hamburg Victims—Verdict of the Coroner's Jury.

NEW YORK, 1.—Senator Robertson, of South Carolina, received the following dispatch from Columbia, this evening:

"Columbia, S. C., Aug. 1st.

"The coroner's inquest over the victims at Hamburg brought its work to a close yesterday, and today a verdict has been published. It charges Gen. M. C. Butler, Col. A. P. Butler, Dr. Pierce Butler, the Rev. E. Meeting, and fifty-three other citizens of Aiken and Edgarsld Counties and thirty Georgians with murder. The inquest has been searching and exhausting, and the verdict has been reached at the earliest practicable time. Warrants of arrest for all the persons charged with the crime are now in the hands of the sheriff of Aiken County. The South Carolinans, it is said, intend to surrender to the sheriff without delay. Chamberlain will as once issue requisitions upon the Governor of Georgia for all persons charged by the verdict in that State. Attorney General Stone, of Aiken, by the direction of the Governor, is to take charge of the prosecutions.

A Mean Advantage.

There were a score or more of women gathered together at Mr. Johnson's house. Mr. Johnson is a good-hearted man and a respectable citizen, though he is rather sceptical about some things. The women had just organized "The Foreign Benevolent Society" when Mr. Johnson entered the room. He was at once appealed to to donate a few dollars as a foundation to work on, and Mrs. Graham added:

"It would be so pleasant in after years for you to remember that you gave this society its first dollar and its first kind word."

He slowly opened his wallet, drew out a ten-dollar bill, and as the ladies smacked their lips and clapped their hands, he asked:

"Is this society organized to aid the poor of foreign countries?"

"Yes—yes—yes!" they chorused.

"And it wants money?"

"Yes—yes!"

"Well, now," said Johnson, as he folded the bill in a tempting shape, "there are twenty married women here. If there are fifteen of you who can make oath that you have combed your children's hair this morning, washed the dishes, blacked the cook-stove, and made the beds, I'll donate this $10."

"I have," answered two of the crowd, and the rest said:

"Why, now, Mr. Johnson!"

"If fifteen of you can make oath that your husbands are not wearing socks with holes in the heels, this money is yours," continued the wretch

"Just hear him!" they exclaimed, each one looking at the other.

"If ten of you have boys without holes in the knees of their pants, this 'X' goes to the society!" said Johnson.

"Such a man!" they whispered.

"If there are five pair of stockings in this room that don't need darning, I'll hand over the money!" he went on.

"Mr. Johnson," said Mrs. Graham, with great dignity, "the rules of this society declare that no money shall be contributed except by members; and as you are not a member I beg that you will withdraw and let us proceed with the routine business." — Washington Chronicle.
