LOCAL BRIEFS.

Quilting School Banquet—The Quilting school pupils banqueted their graduating class last night.

Hares in the Market—White mountain hares are in the market from Idaho. They sell for seven pounds each, and sell for 40 cents each.

Third Silver Medal—The third silver medal for speaking contests under the direction of the W. C. T. U. was awarded yesterday afternoon to Mrs. W. Guthrie, who recited "The Old Violin."

Forty-nine Books Burned—Forty-nine books belonging to the city library have been burned by the city health authorities since June last, on account of being found in infected homes which were quarantined.

Unitarian Annual Meeting—The Unitarian society will hold its annual meeting next Monday evening. Dinner will be served by the ladies of the church at 6:30 p. m., with Rev. Mr. Van Ness of Boston as the guest of the occasion.

Enthusiastic Meeting—An enthusiastic meeting of the Fifteenth District Improvement league was held Friday night, Jan. 24. The taxpayers of the entire district are pledging their support to the league in asking for needed improvements.

Elks Entertainment—The Elks go to Provo this afternoon, to attend the production of "A Night in Bohemia," by local Elks talent. A masquerade ball will be given by the Elks at this city on the 26th inst., and on Feb. 6, a leap year party. A Valentine party is scheduled for Feb. 3, and a Colonial party is set for the 20th.

Big Dry Farm Yield—James E. Taylor of Levan, Utah county, who is in attendance on the National stock show, brought up with him a quart full of fine large wheat which was raised entirely on dry farm lands and yet yielded 61 bushels to the acre. He left it for exhibition with Manager G. T. Odell of the Consolidated Wagon & Machine company.

Mr. Richards' Funeral—The funeral services of the late George A. Richards were held at the residence of Col. T. G. Webster, at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The services were brief, consisting merely of prayers pronounced by Elders H. P. Richards and Ezra Stevenson and the grave was dedicated by Elder H. H. Griffin. Suitable hymns were also rendered by the Piper, Whitney, Ensign, Spencer quartet.

Impressed With Fruit Showing—Roy Taylor of the state board of horticulture has returned from Weber county, where he was with J. P. Moore, manager of the Grand Junction Fruit company, and Messrs. Hickman, and Prof. Northrop. The visitors were entertained at the Weber club by H. L. Griffin and J. L. Young, and from what they saw were able to form favorable opinion of the ability of the county to make a fine fruit showing the coming season.

CAPT. AMUNDSEN TO LECTURE.
Famous Norwegian Explorer Will Appear in Salt Lake March 2.

Captain Roald Amundsen, a Norwegian explorer, who has penetrated the north polar regions farther than any white man and to whom belongs the distinction of having been the first one to pass through the Northwest Strait, is to lecture in Salt Lake on the evening of March 2.

Local Norwegians have been trying to arrange a party for the lecturer during his trip to the west, and Judge M. Nielsen is in receipt of a letter from Captain Amundsen, wherein the writer accepts an invitation to speak in Barratt hall on the date indicated.

TWO WARDS COMBINE.
The Old Twelfth and Thirteenth Will Be Consolidated.

A decision has lately been reached by the presidency of Ensign stake, and approved by the first presidency of the Church, by which two of the old ecclesiastical wards of the city will pass out of existence and be merged into one ward in the early future. They are the Twelfth and Thirteenth wards of this city, which are among the oldest in Church history. Their population, however, has been steadily encroached upon by the business districts, and both are now so small that it has been deemed expedient to unite them into one and make a flourishing ward.

"How to Make Dry Farming Pay"
Is the title of a little work which every man interested in dry farming should possess. It tells how to successfully raise a dry farm, it is the compressed results of forty-one years of hard experience in running a dry farm in Utah. It tells what to do, how to do it and when to do it. Just a little booklet of 16 pages, yet it contains the secret of success. Written by George L. Farrell of Cache valley. Price 25 cents.

HENRY NINK NEVER MET HIS DAUGHTER
Hardly Even Knows Her Name.
According to Testimony in Divorce Court.

SAYS WIFE WAS NAUGHTY.

Eva Wadsworth Was Bride of a Day—Separate After Thirty-Five Years—Mrs. Lovett Deserted Husband.

Henry Nink has never met his daughter. In fact, he does not know her name, nor does he know how old she is. Yesterday he had a wife and today he has not. It all came about at the weekly matinee before Judge Charles W. Morse yesterday. Nink sued his wife, Eva Nink, for divorce. He said in his complaint that she is so very loose joined morally that he cannot bear to have her linked to him longer. Eva, he says, is very naughty. Once he saw her in the Green River saloon with a strange man. Once in the same fix he saw her at the Rio Grande saloon, and still again in the Cliff House saloon. He said she was so badly intoxicated that she could not walk with grace, nor could she keep her hat on straight. She was humiliated and didn't care. Henry said that Eva lived with him only three months and that then she got so bad that he could stand it no longer. He told the court that she was a drunk and did all in his power to lead her in the paths good wives should tread. He failed and failed hard. Instead of taking heed of his warnings and coaxing, she drifted into the life where home life is forgotten and where any man is a friend until his money is gone. After she left home the Nink child was born, so Nink said. He heard that it was a girl. More he does not know. A friend told him that the mother had named it Bertha, but he has never seen it. They were married in November, 1905. Mrs. Nink was not in court yesterday, but she was represented by Jim Smith, a police court attorney, who asked that the decree give the custody and control of the child to the mother. Henry did not resist and the decree was accordingly entered.

Emily O'Neill's story was commonplace and short. She married Emmet O'Neill seven years ago and he deserted her in 1905. The decree granting the divorce was entered.

BRIDE OF A DAY.
Eva Wadsworth was a bride of a day. It was a happy wedding on May 23, 1905, when she married Thomas Wadsworth, but her happiness was all too short. Wadsworth lived with his bride one day, then a divorce was granted and the best that she has had since was a glimpse of him on the street once since that time. Even then she did not get a chance to speak to him. Now she says that she is looking for a living. Her divorce was granted.

WAS DRINKING MAN.
"It was seldom indeed that Donaldson was sober," declared a prepossessing young woman in Judge Morse's court yesterday afternoon. She was not seeking a divorce, but she was helping a friend. Mrs. Sue M. Donaldson said that 35 years ago she married C. M. Donaldson, and that he was a man of good habits. How changed is he now according to her words. She says that he comes home drunk and threatens the lives of herself and minor children. She has determined to have no more of him. His promises to be good have never been more than promises. In addition to the divorce, Mrs. Donaldson is asking that Judge Morse's decree, which will get the home she has lived in for many years and $25 per month alimony.

WIFE DESERTED GEORGE.
George E. Lovett was also a candidate for a club for wifeless husbands. He, too, was deserted while young. His wife, Mrs. Lovett, was still in her youth. He married Charlotte Lovett June 20, 1905, and when the minister said "Salute your bride" he was happy with his lot. His dreams lasted three weeks. Then he found his bride married but without a wife. His testimony was accepted and he was accommodated by Judge Morse with a decree.
