THOSE DARKENED QUESTIONS.

The Tribune in its editorial course of the past few days has been endeavoring to answer the questions which have been asked by the public regarding the Tribune's attitude toward the Mormon people. It has been a long and tedious task, but the Tribune has endeavored to answer them as fully as possible.

It is fitting that a Utah article should appear in the Tribune, which will aid in preserving its position as the most authoritative source of information on the subject of the Mormon people. The Tribune's attitude toward the Mormon people is a subject which has been discussed for many years, and it is fitting that the Tribune should now make its position clear.

FURTHER "CHANGED CONDITIONS."

In addition to speaking well of the Mormons and advocating the celebration of Pioneer Day, the Tribune has taken another step in its attitude toward the Mormon people. It has now taken another step in its attitude toward the Mormon people.

WHAT NEXT?

JAMES MCKINLEY, who is pretty well known in this city, has been jailed at Helena, Montana, because he would not denounce the Mormon people. This is a case which has attracted much attention, and it is fitting that the Tribune should now make its position clear.

We hope the publication will be interesting. But it is a little singular to see the Salt Lake Tribune putting him on the back and applying its contempt of court. What is it right under any circumstances to refuse to reply to a question which the court says must be answered? Has not the Tribune called at sundry and talked with those who have been jailed with questions that no decent attorney would ask, when they have refused to answer? Has it not accused their imprisonment and called it the result of their refusal to answer? Has it not called it the result of their refusal to answer?

We do not wish to find fault with those who have been jailed, but in the light of the Tribune's attitude toward the Mormon people, it is fitting that the Tribune should now make its position clear.

A STATE OF BRIGHAM YOUNG

We are pleased to announce that Mr. C. E. Dallas, Utah's famous lawyer, who has recently gained much fame in Paris and who is now in this city, has been elected to the position of President of the Utah State Bar Association.

It is fitting that a Utah article should appear in the Tribune, which will aid in preserving its position as the most authoritative source of information on the subject of the Mormon people. The Tribune's attitude toward the Mormon people is a subject which has been discussed for many years, and it is fitting that the Tribune should now make its position clear.

Mr. Dallas's goal is of the order which is generally attributed to genius. By a natural inclination and susceptibility for anything he has set his mind upon, and he has been successful in his efforts to achieve his goal.

We believe that the whole community, without regard to creed, race or party, will agree that this is the right thing to do. A state of Utah's first Governor, Mr. Dallas's famous lawyer, must command him to Utah's citizens and receive encouragement without dissent.

RADDER IN YALIS.

We understand that further efforts have been made in Utah to represent the Mormon people on the basis of election rights for each of the political parties in the field. We have in Utah that they will be successful. We understand that further efforts have been made in Utah to represent the Mormon people on the basis of election rights for each of the political parties in the field.

THEO OF A KIND.

The New York papers report that Evangelist John Smith and Rev. Joseph Cook have been drawing large crowds at Prohibition Park, Port Heford, near Bristol, England. This is a case which has attracted much attention, and it is fitting that the Tribune should now make its position clear.

RESTRICTING IMMIGRATION.

The question of immigration is one that is becoming a vital issue all along the Atlantic seaboard, and even in the heart of the Mississippi valley. All the leading doctors of the law have within the past few weeks spoken emphatically on the topic. Many of them favor the absolute prohibition of all aliens from landing here, who come to work for wages. Others favor a working restriction, while a few would let them come in at present.

THE AUTHOR AND JOURNALIST OF THE FIVE HILL IN THE EAST

Mr. Dallas, however, is not for absolute prohibition. He would distribute an act in favor of humanity and intelligence in the case of the Mormon people. It is the duty of the Republican party to take up this question, that it is the most important one before the American people.

The Tribune's attitude toward the Mormon people is a subject which has been discussed for many years, and it is fitting that the Tribune should now make its position clear.

Without the least doubt the character of the immigration in this country has changed materially. The immigration of the past was of a different character from the immigration of the present. The immigration of the past was of a different character from the immigration of the present.

THE WELSH IS PLAY WORKERS.

THE PLAYERS are not one of the great forces of civilization between the two continents, and the players are not one of the great forces of civilization between the two continents.

A LESSON IN POLITICS.

Point the line of press comment on the petition of M. H. Quay from the chairmanship of the Republican National Committee. It is plain that the "ill-humored" language which he used to refer to the Mormon people is a case which has attracted much attention, and it is fitting that the Tribune should now make its position clear.
