Elder John H. Mills of Salt Lake Delivers Two Instructive Addresses.

what is the Book of Mormon," and othe Red Man's Testimony" -Funeral of Elder Keilholtz.

Sunday afternoon and evening, under the auspices of the Weber Stake Sunday school board, Elder John M. Mills, day school board, Elder John M. Mills, of the general Sunday school board, delivered the first of a course of lec-tures, upon the Book of Mormon. The tures, upon the Book of alormon. The meeting opened with the usual devo-tional exercises. Prof. Joseph Bellantyne's class of juveniles furnished the musical exercises.

The subject of the afternoon lecture The subject of the arternoon fecture was "What is the Book of Mormon."
Elder Mills said, in beginning, that the Book of Mormon is the record of a people who came to this country from Jerusalem 600 B. C., and continued to inhabit it until about 400 after Christ; also of a people who came from the tower of Babel and occupied this land till the appearance of the colony from Palestine. In this record is found the rising and falling of nations, the hand dealings of the Lord towards the peo-ple who dwelt upon this continent. The ps who also referred to the Book of speaker also referred to the Book of Mormon as the "stick of Joseph" that was to come forth in the last days as spoken by the Prophet Ezekiel, and that "the stick of Joseph" and "the stick of Judah," meaning the Bible, shes of Judan, meaning the Bible, should be brought together as one testimony. He spoke at length upon the manner of the bringing forth of the Book of Mormon through the instru-mentality of the Prophet Joseph Smith.

THE EVENING LECTURE. Prof. Ballantyne's male chorus fur-mished the music.

Elder John M. Mills was then introduced. The topic of his lecture was the "Red Man's Testimony." He referred to the Indian traditions regarding the areation of the earth, the Flood and the coming of two peoples from the Eastern continent to the Western; that the Indians were descended from one man had twelve sons; and that their forefathers were four brothers who came to this continent from another land, and that the youngest of these four sons became their king and ruler. The speaker made reference to the signs that were to take place before the coming of Christ as recorded in the the coming of Christ as recorded in the Book of Mormon. The Indians, he said, have a tradition that one they call "Quetzalcutal" came to their people centuries ago, and at his coming taught them the Gospel. The signs of his coming as recorded in the Book of Mormon were literally fulfilled, according to Indian traditions. The Indians also have a tradition that they dians also have a tradition that they at one time had a book which was their rule and when they obeyed the laws as recorded in that book they were successful, happy and prosperous; but when they disobeyed the laws they were unsuccessful; that the book was at one time taken from them and hid in a hill and that some day they expect to have this book delivered to them

Fider Mills then bore testimony that this book of which the Indians had traditions was none other than the Book of Mormon.

A vote of thanks was extended to Elder Mills for his very interesting and instructive lectures, and the meeting

Disastrons Explosion in Castle Gate Mine-Wedding-School Tax.

Price, Carbon Co., March 24.-An ex-Plosion occurred at the coal mine at Castlegate Thursday evening doing considerable damage to the mine work-ings. The miners' shots are fired by electricity every evening about 7:30 p. m. after all the miners are out of the mine. Last evening almost immediately after the shots had been fired a large body of flame and smoke issued from the mouth of the mine, accompanied by rocks, dirt and other debris, the flame went nearly across the can-yon, (which is wide at that place) be-fore it spent its force. The timbers on the main entry were all blown out, and a large cave occurred at the entrance of the mine on account of the timbers being knocked out by the force of the

BRAIN FOOD

Is of Little Benefit Unless it is Digested. Nearly everyone will admit that as a nation we eat too much meat and too little of vegetables and the grains.

For business men, office men and clerks, and in fact everyone engaged in sedentary or indoor occupations, grains, milk and vegetables are much more healthful. more healthful.

Only men engaged in a severe out door manual labor can live on a heavy meat diet and continue in health. As a general rule, meat once a day is sufficient for all classes of men, women and children, and grains, fruit and veg-etables should constitute the bulk of food eaten. But many of the most nutritious foods are difficult of digestion and it is of no use to advise brain workers to eat largely of grains and vegetables where the digestion is too weak to assimilate them properly.

It is always best to get the best re-sults from our food that some simple and harmless digestive should be taken after meals to assist the relaxed digestive organs, and several years' experience have proven Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets to be a very safe, pleasant and effective digestive and a remedy which may be taken daily with the best results. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets can hardly be called a patent medicine, as they do not act on the bowels nor any particular organ, but only on the food eaten. They supply what weak stom-achs lack, pepsin diastase and by stimulating the gastric glands increase the natural secretion of hydrochloris acid. People who make a daily practice of taking one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after each meal are sure to have perfect digestion, which means perfect health. There is no danger of forming an injurious habit as the tablets contain absolutely nothing but natural digescocaine, morphine and similar drugs have no place in a stomach medicine and Suart's Dyspepsia Tablets are certainly the best known and most popular of all stomach remedies.

Ask your druggist for a fifty cent package of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and after a week's use note the im-provement in health, appetite and nervous energy.

known. Besides going out along the main entry a good deal of the force of the explosion was along what is known as the escape way at the top of the eighth rise, as the flame and debris traveled along that way and set fire to the brush and stubble on the side of the hill there. Three shifts of men are at work clearing the rock from the entrance of the mine and making reentrance of the mine and making re-

It is not known how long it will take to get the mine in shape so as to start to ship coal again, as this will probably depend on the damage done to the electric hoists, and the time it takes to get them in shape to run. W. G. Sharp, general superintendent of the company. and State Coal Mine Inspector Gomer Thomas, are at the mine, and every thing that can be done with safety will be done, so as to get the mine started to work as soon as possible, there are something ever two hundred men working in the mine. The cause of the explosion seems to be a mystery at present. The mine is said to have been in very good condition, and practically free from fire-damp.

Impressive Services at the Funeral of a Mormon Missionary,

IN CHRISTIANIA, NORWAY.

Fellow Laborers of Elder Henry W. Berg Pay Tribute to Life and Character-Body Coming Home.

Christiania, Norway, March 6 .- Memorial services were held in honor of Elder Henry W. Berg at Christiania, Norway, March 5, 1900, in the Latterday Saints assembly rooms, which were tastefully draped in harmony with the occasion. The following Elders from Zion were present: H. A. Pedersen, president of the Christiania conference. Edward Larsen, Emil Peterborg, Geo. A. Torgesen and Parley P. Jenson.

The services commenced by singing the Norwegian hymn No. 159, prayer was offered by Elder T. Jensen, the choir then rendered very feelingly the inspired words of "Oh my Father, Thou that Dwellest." After which Elder Emil Peterborg, the former traveling companion of the dead missionary, spoke. He said that Elder Berg was one of the most promising young men that it has ever been his privilege to meet, had many times heard him bear a strong and faithful testimony to the Gospel; he doubted not but could we understand the ways of God, we would see that Elder Berg had been called away for a wise and holy purpose. Elder Parley P. Jenson said while he had not personally known Elder Berg, yet he knew he was a brother, and while sorry that he had died far from home and family, still be feit that to die in the harness, working in the vineyard of the Lord, was to die a glorious death. He wished that all could go as well prepared to meet their Creator as this dead brother had gone.

Elder Edward Larsen was the next speaker. He said he had been acquaint. ed with the deceased's father in days of yore, and was glad he had met one of his sons out in the world proclaim-ing the everlasting Gospel He said all that kind hearts and willing hu-man hands could do had been done in ministering to the wants of Elder Berg during his illness, but that could not save him. The Heavenly Father had called him and he had to go. Elder Larsen prayed that the family might be comforted in their bereavement. The choir than sang very sweetly No. 208 from the Norwegian hymu book. Brother Arnt Eugh, the dead Elder's cousin, then spoke very emotionally. He said when a boy he prayed that the time might come when he could see his cousin and labor in the missionary field with him; his prayer had been heard; he had seen him, they had been togeth-er; he had heard him bear a testimony to the truth of the Gospel; but little did this country. However, such had happened and in saying farewell to Cousin Henry, he thanked God for the privi-lege of having met him in this life, and hoped to renew the friendship in a better world.

President H. A. Pedersen was the next to address the meeting. He said that while we perhaps had different ideas about religion, yet we could all sympathize with the family that was thus tried; he knew that Elder Berg was called away for a great and noble purpose, and he felt to say with Job. "The Lord giveth, and the Lord taketh away; blessed be the name of the Lord." He said that while the body was dead, silent and cold, yet he knew the spirit was living in a much better place, where he continued performing the work his Father had given him. He prayed that God would bless Elder Berg's family, that they might realize that it was the Lord's will, that their son should be the first servant of God called upon to lay down his life it Norway while laboring as a missionary The last words of the deceased were that his parents should be written to telling them he had a firm testimony of the Gospel as revealed in these er days, also thanking them for their kindness and sacrifices. Elder Pedersen urged all to live in accordance with the principles of salvation, that we might all meet our beloved brother in the holy sphere, where he had gone, "Oh, that we might merit the words of St. Paul, Blessed are they who continue faithful to the end! as was Elder Berg." The speaker closed by bearing a strong testimony of the Gospel. The services were clo very touching rendition of "Nearer My God to Thee" by the Christiania branch choir. Elder Geo. A. Targeson offered the benediction. That a deep impression had been made by the solemn services, upon the large congregation of Saints and friends, among whom were many of the deceased's relatives, could easily be discovered by glancing at the sorrowful countenances and tear stained faces of those present, and all felt to say, "Farewell, Brother Berg, peace be with thy clay, until the resurrection morn."

The body of Elder Berg is already prepared for shipment, and will be sent from here to Utah in company with an Elder leaving on the 8th inst. PARLEY P. JENSEN.

HOT BEDS. Suggestions on Their Making and Management.

The hot bed properly constructed stands for the green house in that it furnishes, under the natural method bottom heat and is usually covered with glazed sash. The gardening season in the major portion of the union, says Home and Garden, may be made practically to cover the year round, if one has this convenient accessory to the vegetable garden. The philosophy of the hot bed is based upon the in-tense heat which is generated by the fermentation of horse manure. The best material for this purpose is to be obtained from the livery stable where bedding is used in limited quantities. The freer the manure is from straw. chaff, saw dust, hay, or in fact any of the foreign materials the better it is for heating purposes.

A very good hotbed is one made of four sashes, 3x6 feet, making a bed

6x12 feet. It is surprising the quantity of vegetables or any plants which may be produced therein. Ordinary hot beds should be started by March 1st in the corlder parts of the union. Select a high knoll where water does not stand and for a bed of the size indicated use eight two-horse loads of ma-nure. This may be thrown in a pile say 8x14 feet, as high as may be necessary for the quantity named. Allow this to stand in this condition three days. Then re-work the manure beginning at the end with a fork starting a pile at the end of the main plie eight feet in width, fork over the entire eight oads, distributing evenly and firmly so that when the manure settles down, as that when the manure settles down, as it very soon will, the surface may remain level. Such a pile when finished should be $x15 feet in dimension and 2½ to 3 feet in height. Many excavate the surface of the earth and put the manure in the bed thus formed. This does not seem to be as satisfactory as building on the surface of the ground. The manure being re-worked and properly settled, place over the pile a frame upon which the sash should rest. hotbed should be located east and west. A rough board frame exi2 feet, of which the south side shall be 12-inch boards, the north side an 18-inch board with the two ends doping on the top from 12 inches, are the proper dimensions. Inside of the sides nail a strip 1x2 inches one inch below the top edge of the frame. At intervals of three feet, across the frame nail 2x4 a tride longer than six feet, the upper edge of which shall be flush with the 2-inch strips. These form the supports for the sash. With the frame in position place finely puverized soil of a good degree of richness over the entire surface of the manure within the frame to a depth of three or four inches. It is an excellent idea to allow this earth to stand before planting at least sufficiently long for weed seeds in the earth to germinate. Once this has occurred it is very easy to destroy them by passing over the surface of the ground a fine tooth rake. Do not depend upon your judgment as to the proper condition of temperature before planting seed. Plunge a good thermometer into the soil two or three inches deep and note the temperature. When it has fallen to 70 degrees the lowing the first plantings of lettuce and radish, (so keenly longed for in the early spring) may be sown tomatoes, cabbage, cauliflower and celery, hardy flower annuals. Follow this crop, which will naturally be out of the hotbed and transplanted not later than the second week in June, with transplanted tomato plants, melons, cucum bers or any of the semi-hardy plants whose success depends on not pinched by early autumn frosts. Outside of labor the entire cost of such conenience will not be to exceed ten dollars, and nothing can be done upon a farm where a family is living that will be more profitable than such a sum of money expended in the manner indi-
