The jury's verdict was that the children came to their death at the hands of the mother Upon preparing them for burial finger marks were found on the throats of all, indicating that they had been strangled before being thrown in the well. The

The necks of all except one were Mary, aged 6, has a deep gash in the top of the head and a two-inch cut over

MUNICIPAL MATTERS.

The City Council committee on public grounds held a meeting last night, and considered further the application of the Eighth Ward Relief Society, to purchase the small strip of land owned by the municipality, adjoining the Eighth ward meeting house. The Reief Society, after considering the matter for some time, concluded to pay the city $1,500 for the land in question, which proposition is looked upon with favor by the council committee, who will recommend that it be accepted. The gentlemen composing the com-mittee think the Eighth Ward Relief Society should have the preference right, as it is the Church organization which first had possession of the lot and turned it over to the school board, who traded it to the city; and again, because the Relief Society is a charit-able institution. The Congregation Montefore offered $2,000, and it is stated

A SAD CASE OF ROBRERY.

Man Loses His Entire Fortune on Commercial Street-Robbers Pursued.

Commercial street was stirred from enter to circumference last night by the shouts of "Police," "Robbers, help, murder," and "Stop thief." The cry was taken up in every direction, and echoed and re-echoed. Bluecoats ran hither and thither, as likewise did citizens. The air was sawed into quartersections by the continued yelling, and the mud was churned much by the treading of feet. The population of Plum ally made a rush for the Joss house, thinking the end of the world had come, or that perhaps Jong Ming was indulging in another effort of "re form.

All this commotion was caused by one lone man named Oluf Tenstrum. Judging by the racket, at least fifty persons joined in the chorus. Oluf is a tailor. That's not a part of the story, but he is, anyhow. 'He was in Com-mercial street, and according to his statement, he had money with him. He met a couple of men, which, by the way is not very remarkable, but he met them, and extended an invitation to drink. They accepted, and Oluf walked to the rear of the saloon to one of the wine rooms. While there, he says, one of the men held him while the other went through is pocket and took all he had, his entire wealth. Tenstrum selzed one of the men, but the man refused to stay seized, and handed one to Tenstrum-one that was intended for keeps. Then it was that the robbed set up the howl of "murder," etc. The robbers escaped. When asked how much he had lost. Tenstrum said: "Well, 25 or 30 cents.
