semi-princess jumper dresses and the separate jumper joined under a belt to a pretty skirt are the newest kinds of dresses.

For rainy days there should be a walking skirt, a flannel waist or two and a long storm coat. There is the sweater or jersey for out-door sports, and the gymnasium suit required by most schools. These things complete the list of the ordinary daytime outfit.

For the dinner hour, white serge or cloth, cream and velvets in pale blues and pinks, or dainty Dresden slippers make appropriate little dresses that can be worn fall, winter and spring. Those dresses need not represent any great expenditure—in fact, they should be most simple and their beauty should be in their daintiness and freshness. The younger children will need a greater supply than the older girls, for they are always meeting with calamities. On the other hand, the older girl will need an evening wrap, a pretty dancing frock or two of batiste or calico, as well as a suitable reception dress. There are dances and formal dinners, that will require pretty dresses from time to time during the year. The more complete the outfit, the keener will be the girl's enjoyment of her school life.

The woman who makes good must be blessed with strength and health and an ambition to learn and take advantage of every opportunity that comes her way, says the September Delineator.

She must work with all her heart; play with all her heart; above all things avoiding indifference and the enemy to all progress—sluggishness.

She must select the pleasure that will bring her the greatest joy; choose the work she is best fitted for.

Ordinary hard luck never ruins people. It puts them in a mood to learn a thing or two. Everybody makes mistakes. With some it is a regular occupation; but to make a mistake and wall about it is to make two.

Women often speak of their talents not being appreciated. A talent is next to worthless unless one has the ability to get down to hard, plain, everyday grind.

Then, too, the woman who wins must learn to talk, but not to tell. There is an art—the most consummate art—in appearing absolutely frank to the butcher, the baker and the family cut and yet not reveal any of one's business affairs.

The woman who wins must be able to hold all and hear all yet betray it by neither word nor look by unadmitted defense no more than by overt treachery; by anger at a malicious accusation no more than by a still at an egregious mistake. To be able to do this requires a rare combination of tact and self-respect. One cannot just slide along in business and win promotion and more salary. A knowledge of the business is necessary to show results.

To make good, a woman needs that fine balance, that accurate self-measurement, which goes by the name of common sense. It is the one thing on which success depends the most.

There are rules for your behavior as a guest which the girl who goes away visiting will do well to consider, says the September Delineator.

Suppose we begin at the very beginning. You have been asked by letter for a short visit of a week or two. Be sure in answering it to repeat the day at the house. Never borrow the money from some one in the house or let your hostess pay for it. There is no intimacy or even relationship between friends that will allow this.

From the moment you set foot in the house, whether the visit be for days or weeks, remind yourself over and over that all the things in it, from the telephone to the chambermaid, are another person's property, and that you must ask permission for their use.

Do not make demands on the servants in the house. They have other duties. When they offer their services to you, accept them graciously, but do not call the maid to fasten your gown minutes before dinner is served when she has to wait on the table.

Ask the hours of meals and be punctual. Write that in your mind in letters of fire. It makes no difference whether you are hungry or not at the appointed hour be at the table.

MRS. ROBERT GOELET'S WORLD TOUR.

Mrs. Robert Goellet, the noted New York society leader, has arranged a most interesting trip around the world to take place in the coming fall. Mrs. Goellet is a power socially both in New York and among the millionaires who have congregated at Newport in cottages and along Long Island sound in palatial country residences. Perhaps no one New York hostess has a wider circle of acquaintances. Mrs. Goellet is splendidly educated and in no sense of the word can be considered frivolous. She is extremely charitable and gives largely, although she has never adopted the fad of slum-working in person.

For which your hostess has asked you. This is the first rule on your part. Also state in your acceptance the train on which you arrive and, if you wish, add the train on which you will depart.

Whether or not you do the latter, never fail to do the former. Don't miss that train or change your mind and take another one.

See that your baggage gets on the train with you.

Attend to your baggage-checks at the station yourself, unless you are met by a man of the family of a competent man servant who insists upon taking this duty on himself. It is best to give your checks to the baggage expressman who comes through the train, pay him and get a receipt.

Have the change in your pocketbook to pay for the trunk when it arrives at the house. Never borrow the

Sour Stomach Only a Symptom

Sour Stomach, Water Brash, and Other Stomach Troubles.

Sour stomach is simply an indication of a condition. If not attended to promptly and efficiently it will run into dyspepsia, or chronic indigestion. It affects the bowels, causes sick headache, liver trouble, kidney trouble and general illness.

The taking of digestive tonic and medicines will perhaps sweeten the stomach and aid in digestion for a short time, but the effect will not last unless you get at the root of the trouble which is the proper supply of digestive juices to the stomach and digestive tract. The stomach must be aided, but at the same time strengthened so that it can do its part of the work without the aid of medicine.

There is no remedy known today that we believe does this work so effectively as does Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

It adds digestion and at the same time strengthens the stomach and promotes the secretion of sufficient juices so that the stomach does its work normally, without the aid of medicine. It gives easy, natural regularity to the bowels without pain or grip, and it so believes and strengthens them that you do not contract the habit as with pills and mineral water or salts.

All druggists sell it at 50c and $1.00 a bottle. Pepsin Syrup Co., 233 Caldwell Bldg., Monticello, Ill. is glad to send a free sample to any one who will use it and give it a fair trial.

Do not bother your hostess by remaining at her side all the time. Let her go about her household duties or to her room for a brief rest, without following her around.

If you are visiting in a house where there are no servants, and where the housework is done by the family, then you should try in every way to be of help. It takes quite a little tact to find out whether you are in the way or not, but you can at least make up your room and put away your clothes.
